If problems bother you

DON'T TRY TO RUN AWAY

HOW OFTEN have you heard a person say, "I wish I could run away from it all," meaning that he wanted to get rid of the humdrums of life's problems.

Life seems so complex, and we feel so enmeshed in it all that we should like to escape. We feel so helpless as we are faced with what looks like so many insurmountable difficulties.

Each of us has his problems to face. It may be loss of health. Maybe it is a struggle within ourselves over sin. Life has always been a struggle. We struggle at birth, and fight for our breath as we leave this world. But as one man said, "Life is meant not to be escaped from, but to be faced and used for God's purpose."

While we cannot escape the problems of life, God does give us faith to endure our burdens. I like Jesus' suggestion, "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me." That's the remedy we need for facing all of life's situations.

Remember, you never wear His yoke alone. A yoke is worn by two. Isn't it, therefore, comforting to know that when we are yoked with Him our burdens must be lighter.

Too long now some of us have been living as though we expected life to be easy, just because we claim to be Christians. The call to Christ never included a statement that once you accept Him your problems will all be solved.

He does promise that if we live with Him, He will share the load, He will guide us in finding the answer to many of our problems.

I guess the reason we hesitate to take Him into our lives is because His call is so demanding. Have you answered His call? If not, won't you take this as in invitation to do it right now? "Love so amazing, so divine, demands my soul, my life, my all."

Sharing Your Experience

IT'S FUN TO WRITE

By M/Sgt. S. E. Tiedemann

LEAVING THE STATES for overseas duty which would take me away from my family and friends at my home church, I was wondering what I could do while I was away that would help the time to pass by more quickly.

Upon talking with my pastor, the Rev. George E. Cressman, Sr., of the Lutheran Church of the Reformation in Savannah, Georgia, before I left, he suggested that since I knew so many of the congregation and had been working so closely with them, I should write to each of them and in turn he knew they would write me and keep me informed of the news from my church at home.

He offered me a copy of the congregational roll so I would have addresses of each member and told me he would send me revised copies as they were made up of any changes while I was away.

Then the thought occurred to me that I could not only write to the active members but write to the inactive as well, because, perhaps, corresponding with them and letting them know they are being thought of over here, might cause them to become active again.

This project I have undertaken while I am here in Japan; telling them about the country and about the wonderful little Chapel here at North Camp Drake, where Dr. Hugh Moreton, a missionary, comes in each Sunday to bring God's word to us.

My project is paying off for me for I am receiving letters back and am kept informed of the continued growth and witnessing of my wonderful friends back at my home church.

My stay here is being made happier by my contact with the Chapel here and my church and my friends back home.

M/Sgt. Tiedeman will be the recipient of the April $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

LWR TO CONDUCT ITS SPRING CLOTHING APPEAL APRIL 2-16

LUTHERAN WORLD RELIEF'S annual Spring Clothing Appeal this year is scheduled for the two weeks after Easter Sunday, April 2 to 16.

The need for used clothing and blankets remains great in Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Burma, Yugoslavia, Chile and Brazil, said the agency. Also, refugees in Austria and Germany still need emergency assistance and LWR is called upon frequently to supply disaster areas.

Why don't YOU Write to your church?

WE THINK that M/Sgt. Tiedemann's idea about writing letters to members of his home congregation is excellent. Many of you may want to emulate it.

Even if you don't get quite as active a letter writer, maybe you could give a little thought to writing at least some letters—for instance, to let your home pastor know where you are or what you are doing.

Last November, when The National Lutheran came out with a special issue urging churches to remember and serve their servicemen away from home, there was an excellent article in it by Charles De Vries, depicting the loneliness and the anguish of some servicemen who felt they were forgotten by their home churches, and giving advice to congregations on how to keep in touch with them.

There has been excellent response to this and we hope some of you may have benefited.

The other side of the coin, however, is that many servicemen who are remembered by their home churches do not seem to remember their church or even acknowledge letters and tokens of remembrance.

"For more than fifteen years we've been sending, and keep sending, material to servicemen," wrote the pastor of one congregation, "but a word from them is rare. For their good—why not urge them to contact us?"

And another pastor seconded: "Except for a few outstanding exceptions, it has been my experience that the men (in the services) just don't write, show little appreciation of all that is done for them, including gift boxes sometimes . . ."

He added: "We don't write because we want to hear only; we think of it as a work of love. But we do like to know it is appreciated."

Could it be that these and similar letters are really addressed to you?

AMERICAN AIRCRAFT BLAMED FOR DAMAGE TO CHURCH

AMERICAN SUPER-SABRE JET FIGHTERS are blamed for widening cracks in the walls of the Anglican parish church at Eriswell, near Thetford, where the planes are stationed.

An expert reported that many of the cracks in the walls had been greatly aggravated by aircraft flying too low and breaking the sound barrier.

He said the impact of the concussions had also caused sections of the roof to push outwards on the walls, thus accounting for new cracks in the inside plaster. His recommendations called for strengthening the walls with iron rods.

LUTHERANS LAUNCH "CRASH" PROGRAM FOR MEMBERS IN MILITARY SERVICE

AN INTENSIFICATION OF THE MINISTRY of Lutheran congregations to members in military service has been launched through a crash follow-up program, it was reported at the 43rd annual meeting of the National Lutheran Council in Detroit, Michigan.

The Rev. Engebret O. Midboe of Washington, D.C., revealed that this was one of several "new accents" in bringing the ministry of the Lutheran Church to those in uniform.

"The first year (1960) in this decade of destiny witnessed zeniths as well as nadirs in the international situation," he declared.

To meet the challenges brought about by these highs and lows, Mr. Midboe, who is executive secretary of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, said the crash program was initiated "to get everyone interested in seeing that no Lutherans in military service are neglected."

To achieve this objective, the assistance of all agencies in church circles in touch with military personnel is being recruited, he added.

Mr. Midboe stressed that the effectiveness of the program would be "enhanced materially" if local pastors would refer the names of their people in military service to the contact pastors or chaplains where their members are stationed.

Speaking about the Lutheran chaplains on active duty, he said that a special word of appreciation is due to those who "have spearheaded the Church's mission to the armed forces."

"To these heralds in uniform the Churches voice their thanksgiving for their self-sacrificing ministry to Lutherans and others in the far-flung places of the free world."

Mr. Midboe informed the church leaders that chaplains serve in 21 countries, often in lonely hardship assignments, and that "they have brought the light of the Gospel where otherwise darkness would have reigned."

New accents have also been given, he pointed out, to the continuing programs of "pre-induction training and counseling of our youth, active duty and reserve forces chaplains affairs and contact pastors and service center projects."

According to the executive's report, the total strength of Lutheran military chaplains is currently 759, including 553 from NLC bodies and 206 from the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. Of these, 300 are on active duty.

The Army has 336 Lutheran chaplains of whom 99 are on active duty; the Navy has 182 of whom 73 are on active duty; and the Air Force has 241 of whom 128 are on active duty, he said.

The United Lutheran Church in America, largest of the Lutheran church bodies, has

The four-sided steel pyramid was the last of 100 required to construct the roof. Aluminum will cover the 150-foot high steel girders and stained-glass panels will suffuse the chapel's worship area with multi-colored light.

Second Glance

A 29-year-old Augustana Lutheran Church pastor has become the first Lutheran to be appointed a chaplain at the U:S. Military Academy at West Point. He is the Rev. James D. Ford, who has been pastor of Bethany and Elim Lutheran churches at Ivanhoe, Minn., since his ordination in 1958.

Lutheran World Relief received 3,150,631 pounds of clothing in its 1960 annual Thanksgiving Appeal to 17,000 congregations across the country. This amount was 56,071 pounds less than was collected in the previous year's appeal. LWR is the material aid agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Board of World Relief of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Out of Minnesota's total population of 3,413,864, approximately 2,456,396 persons, or 70 per cent, are associated with some form of organized religion, compared with 63.4 per cent for the nation as a whole, it was reported by the Minnesota Council of Churches. Of the 2,456,396 persons with religious affiliations, the summary showed that 61 per cent were Protestant-related; 34 per cent Roman Catholic; and 2 per cent each Eastern Orthodox and Jewish. Of all the Protestants 61 per cent were Lutheran.

Appointment of Hans Seigewasser, a prominent East German Communist, as new head of the State Secretariate for Church Affairs in the Soviet Zone began under an ill star when his 27-year-old son, Guenther, a leading functionary in the Communist Institute for Historical Research, fled to West Germany in protest to the political practices of the Red East German regime.

Dr. Elwin D. Farwell, pastor of Salem Lutheran church in Andrew, Ia., has been named dean of the new California Lutheran College which is scheduled to open at Thousand Oaks, Cal., next September. Jointly operated by The American Lutheran Church, the Augustana Lutheran Church and the United Lutheran Church in America, the school will be the first inter-synodically owned Lutheran college in America.

An atheistic weekly published in Warsaw complained that even under Communism only 5,500,000 persons in Poland profess to have no religious beliefs, while 21,806,000, or more than 76 per cent of the nation's population, are still practicing religion.

The Budapest Radio reported that a campaign has been started in Communist Hungary to increase the number of atheist clubs at all the universities in the country. It said the campaign is being conducted by the Hungarian Community Youth League.

RESTRICTION ON MILITARY DEPENDENTS CRITICIZED BY LUTHERAN OFFICIAL

A LUTHERAN OFFICIAL told the National Lutheran Council's annual meeting in Detroit that restrictions placed on military dependents living overseas will weaken the U.S. armed forces.

Dr. Carl F. Yaeger, associate secretary of the Lutheran Service Commission, warned that an "extreme reaction" may follow the "drastic and sudden" move of the U.S. Government last November which ordered a cutback in the number of military dependents living abroad in an effort to improve America's gold and dollar reserves.

A former Navy chaplain, Dr. Yaeger is responsible for maintenance of the Lutheran Service Centers for military personnel, under the joint program of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

He told the Council that "the United States may be facing a military morale problem that is unprecedented in modern days as a result of President Eisenhower's overseas dollar-saving orders."

The Lutheran executive predicted that inevitably under such a restriction, younger officers and career enlisted men will quit and leaders in their prime with 20 years' service will put in for retirement.

"The whole career incentive program calculated at building a high caliber professional service will be endangered," he asserted.

If this occurs, he said, there will be an increase in the ratio of draftees to career soldiers which will mean "faster turnover in combat units, weakening their effectiveness."

Dr. Yaeger revealed that a survey conducted by the Strategic Air Command several years ago showed that the deployment of units overseas without dependents increased the divorce rate.

"Since 86.5 per cent of all Army officers and 44.9 per cent of the enlisted men (including draftees) are married, the impact will be great," he told the councillors.

Quoting Defense Department figures, he said that more than 600,000 military and civilian dependents are living outside the continental limits of the U.S.

"According to plans announced in late November," he went on, "slightly more than half of the 484,000 military dependents stationed on foreign soil will be returned to the States."

He pointed out that even though the reduction will be gradual and effected for the most part by sending military men to Western Europe and Japan without their families, there are increasingly well-documented stories of hardships.

"Privately, military men are saying that the difficulties raised by the order do not square with the statement that soldiers have been traditionally separated from their families and morale will not be affected," he continued. "They contend that the Presidential Order is discriminatory."

Military men strongly object that they should be ordered to serve overseas, he said, while no similar restrictions have as yet been imposed upon State Department and other government personnel.

Dr. Yaeger cautioned that an attempt to predict the ultimate outcome of the dependent cutback at this time would be both rash and premature.

However he did say that the challenge is clear—calling for rededication by staff personnel on all levels of the Lutheran Service Commission program.

"An intensified ministry will be needed to reach additional numbers of those deprived of the stabilizing influences of family life," he declared.

Reviewing the program of his agency, Dr. Yaeger reported that 321,349 service men and women attended the facilities of the Lutheran Service Commission from November 19[illegible] through October 1960. This was slightly lower than the previous statistical year which recorded an all-time high of over 338,000.

As of November 1, 1960, the LSC, a joint agency of the NLC and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, maintained 20 service centers and provided financial support to 23 congregations to aid in providing programs for military personnel.

Of these, five are located overseas: Tachikawa, Japan; Olongapo, Philippine Islands; Okinawa; Kaiserslautern, Germany, and Hong Kong. The Service Commission also has a service pastor in Seoul, Korea, preparing for the establishment of a new center there.

NOW IT'S CRIME IN BULGARIA TO CELEBRATE HOLIDAYS

RADIO SOFIA DECLARED in a broadcast that the celebration of religious holidays is a crime because "precious time, needed for preparation of the spring-sowing is wasted."

It called upon all Communists, members of state youth organizations and leaders of collective farms to fight against "religious remains" and to persuade farmers to work on religious feast days such as Easter.

"I BELIEVE"

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

ONE OF THE PROBLEMS which we face while in the service is that of maintaining our spiritual life. This is not to be just a "holding" proposition but advancing and growing in our spiritual experience. Unless we recognize this need we can soon shrivel up and die.

A daily devotional period in the reading of God's Word, time spent in prayer and attendance at worship services are a "must". It is also imperative that we receive the body and blood of Christ in, with and under the bread and wine at communion services.

During this year, 1961, we shall endeavor to take a good look at the truths as taught in the Apostles' Creed.

Sometimes you may hear someone say, "I don't believe in any creed. I just believe in the Bible." Such a statement, though it may be well-meaning, reveals a complete misunderstanding of the matter. He simply doesn't know what "creed" means.

A creed is a statement of fact concerning a biblical truth. It is a statement of what a person believes.

It is not enough to say, "I believe in the Bible," because there are people of different religions who say the same thing, yet believe something entirely different. For example, there are those who say, "I believe in Jesus Christ," but they believe in Him only as "a good man", not as the divine Son of God.

In the Christian Church throughout the world, down through the centuries, there have been three creeds which have been accepted—the Apostles' Creed, the Nicene Creed and the Athanasian Creed.

The Apostles' Creed contains in three articles the statement of what the triune God—the Father, Son and Holy Ghost—has done and still does for us. In the first article we learn of God the Father and His work of creation. In the second article we learn of God the Son and His work of redemption. And in the third article we learn of God the Holy Ghost and His work of sanctification.

In the early Christian Church it was discovered that it was necessary for the believers to make exact statements as to what they believed. They found that as different religions sprang up it wasn't enough to say, "I believe in Jesus Christ"; they had to explain this belief—who Jesus Christ was, and what He did.

Similarly in regard to God the Father, Maker of heaven and earth, and God the Holy Ghost, who indwells the heart and life of the believer. And so in the Apostles' Creed we have an explanation, although not as detailed as in the Nicene and Athanasian Creeds, of who God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Ghost is. The statements found within the Creed are based on Biblical truths and help us to explain to others just what our faith is.

The first Article of the Apostles' Creed begins this way: "I believe in God the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth".

A young father and mother soon discover that their child has an inquisitive mind. It isn't long after he has been able to talk that he asks such questions as, "Dad, where did I come from? Who made the animals? Who made the sky and the stars?" These questions have been asked by man in all ages. Anticipating these questions, God has begun the very first book of the Bible, appropriately enough with these words, "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."

Just when the beginning was we don't know, but we do know that it marks the origin of what might be called the "time period", that is, the time in which we now are living. Before this time period there was "eternity". When this world has come to an end, the following period will also be called "eternity".

In one sense, the period before the beginning of "time", the time in which we now live, and the period that follows—all of them—might be called eternity. In the beginning, that is, when the world was created, God was there because He created the heavens and the earth.

Sometimes we hear people making fun of the Bible and say that it's an antiquated book which really isn't up to date at all and so they begin to tell of the many conflicts that there are between science and the Bible. Sometimes as I have read and studied these criticisms, I have discovered that those who make them may be well acquainted with science but they are not well acquainted with the Bible itself.

This same God who "created the heavens and the earth" also created you. He has certain plans for your life; blessings which you are to enjoy and plans that you are to fulfill. Paul brings this out in his letter to the Ephesians, chapter two verse ten, "For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them".

As you study His Word and as you pray to Him, allowing his voice to speak to you by His Holy Spirit, you will discover what His plans for you are, what good works He has already prepared that you should walk in them. You have been born anew in Christ, born to do those things which God has planned for you to follow. Are you being obedient to Him and to His plans for your life?

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

A BRONZE SCULPTURE REPRESENTING RELIGION was erected in Boston as part of a $350,000 beautification program for historic Boston Common. The statue, depicting a man kneeling in prayerful supplication, is part of a grouping on Lafayette Mall which also includes representations of industry and learning. Designed by Boston sculptors Arcangelo Cascieri and Adio di Biccari, the work is described as "traditional with contemporary influence".

Sharing Your Experience:

LIFE WITH DONNA

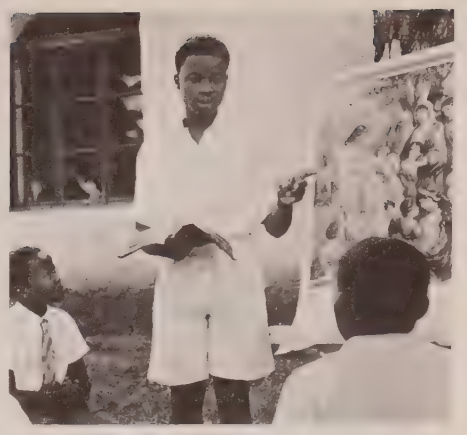
By Jeffrey S. Kime

WE WERE STATIONED on a reef light somewhere off the coast of Florida, the exact location isn't very important this day. The date was 9 September 1960—a date that the four of us will not soon forget.

It started out as a normal day but by eight o'clock that morning we knew it wasn't to be so normal. We were to have a very unwelcome lady visitor by the name of DONNA.

It all started as a stiff breeze but by six o'clock that evening we realized just a normal breeze had grown to hurricane force. By ten o'clock that evening she was blowing well over 100 miles per hour with a sea of ten to twelve feet above normal. When midnight finally rolled around, Donna had reached her peak of 165 M.P.H. where she managed to stay for well over an hour. At this particular hour we were all sitting and praying like we had never prayed before.

The next morning we were able to leave our little shelter and see the damage.



Our building itself suffered extreme external damage. Losing our gas and water supply, also created a problem, but no matter how bad off we were, I could think of little other than the people less fortunate than us. As we looked at the water around us, we were able to see whole roofs float past us along with boats and other pieces of debris.

We realized at this time that we had survived one of the worst storms in the history of the United States. This fact was later proved by the U.S. Weather Bureau by records taken from this unit and many other such places on the east coast.

Jeffrey Kime will be the recipient of the November $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

LUTHERANS LAUNCH CRASH PROGRAM . . .

100 of 241 chaplains on active duty; the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, 86 of 206; Evangelical Lutheran Church, 50 of 143; American Lutheran Church, 44 of 103; Augustana Lutheran Church, 11 of 30; United Evangelical Lutheran Church, five of 19; Lutheran Free Church, two of eight; Suomi Synod, one of six; while the only chaplain of the American Evangelical Lutheran Church is not on active duty. The Church of the Lutheran Bretheren has two chaplains, one of whom is on active duty.

Three of these churches (Evangelical, American and United Evangelical) merged into The American Lutheran Church on Jan. 1, 1961.

The Civil Air Patrol, a civilian organization established to interest 15 to 18-year-old high school students in a future in aviation, has 69 chaplains from NLC bodies, including 30 from the ULCA, 16 from the ALC, 13 from the ELC and 10 from Augustana.

LUTHERANS STATEMENT ON NUCLEAR TESTS SENT TO WORLD POWERS

A POLICY STATEMENT by the United Lutheran Church in America calling on the world's major powers to halt "all kinds" of nuclear weapons testing has received one of the most extensive distributions ever given an official church document.

More than 7,500 copies have been mailed throughout the world. Recipients included leaders of Eastern and Western nations and officials of church organizations.

A MIGHTY FORTRESS

VOL. X | New York, N. Y., February, 1961 | No. 10

THE CHURCH SEEN AS JACOB'S LADDER

AMERICA, the melting pot of the world, has become the "pressure cooker," declared the Rev. Dr. Wilton E. Bergstrand in the keynote addresss to nearly a thousand Lutheran young people gathered in Rock Island, Ill., for the fall convention of the Central Conference Luther League of the Augustana Lutheran Church. Augustana College and churches of the Rock Island district were hosts to the convention, which was the largest in the conference.

Dr. Bergstrand, who is youth director of the Augustana Lutheran Church, said life for American youth today is physically easier but morally much more complicated than it was in pioneer days.

"America has been known as the melting pot, but the cover has been fastened down and the burner turned up so it is now the pressure cooker," he declared.

He also stated that the floodlights of the world are on American youth, who have been thrust into the very center of world destiny.

"This is a meatball generation. All pieces are cut uniformly to size, but no sinews to hold it together. We need the good sense of belonging to the Christian church," said the speaker urging that Christian youth, in thinking of the problems and opportunities of the Church, should not say, "Why don't they do something about it?", or even, "Why don't we do something about it?", but rather, "Why don't I do something about it?"

He likened the Church to a Jacob's ladder on the side of a ship.

"In a religion of works," he said, "a man tries to climb the ladder laboriously by his goodness. In Christianity God comes down the ladder in the Incarnation, and in Christ meets man the sinner at the lowest rung of the ladder."

YOUTH REMINDED OF CHRISTIANS FIRST DUTY

YOUNG PEOPLE TODAY are expected to create and enforce their own code of conduct because their "elders have lost a major part of their authority," a Lutheran sociologist declared in Columbus, Ohio.

Addressing a conference on social Christian responsibility sponsored by the Luther League of America, the official youth auxiliary of the United Lutheran Church in America, Dr. Karl H. Hertz of Wittenberg University, Springfield, O., said it was characteristic of present-day society that young people learn more from their contemporaries than from adults.

Despite the fact that youth has been forced into its role of creating and enforcing its own conduct, nothing has been done to help young people solve the dilemma, Dr. Hertz observed.

He attributed a large part of the problem to what he called the "breakdown of communications" between youth and adults.

In another address, the Rev. Rufus Cornelson, the ULCA's director of social action told the young people attending the conference that the actual working mission of today's church is often at odds with the "biblical conception of the nature and mission of the church."

"The church often behaves as though it were the dead end of God's love" Pastor Cornelson charged. "Rather it is called to be the main street through which His love may move to serve a sinful, unworthy and ungrateful world."

A Christian's "first duty," he said, "is not to love the church, but to love the world as God does; not to serve the church, but to serve the world as Christ did."

Second Glance

Church construction in the United States exceeded one million dollars for the first time in history during 1960. According to official forecasts of construction activity made by the Department of Commerce, it will be even higher in 1961.

On the eve of the 100th anniversary of the Young Men's Christian Association's service to members of the Armed Forces, outgoing President Eisenhower lauded the YMCA for its "major contribution to our national security." He stated that "by advancing the physical and moral strength of men and women in uniform, the YMCA helps to ensure a continuance of our way of life and a full measure of individual freedom."

During 1960, the United Lutheran Church in American organized 71 mission congregations in 25 states and four Canadian provinces. For 1961, it adopted a record budget of $5,300,000 to be used to help support 700 mission congregations.

For the first time in the history of the Lutheran Church of Eutin, West Germany, a woman was appointed to a ministerial post. She was Dr. Magdalena Koeneter, who will serve a local parish in the same way her male colleagues do.

The Communist government of Poland has issued a huge ten-zloty postage stamp picturing details from "The Virgin's Last Sleep," an altar panel in historic St. Mary's church in Krakow. It was interpreted as an attempt by the Communist regime to ease Church-State tensions by giving recognition to Poland's deep-seated spiritual beliefs.

Two Lutheran church officials were elected vice presidents for divisions of the National Council of Churches at the interdenominational agency's fifth triennial assembly in San Francisco. Dr. Earl S. Erb, who is foreign missions executive of the ULCA, was named vice president of the National Council's Division of Foreign Missions. Dr. Theodore E. Matson, who is executive of the Augustana's Board of American Missions, was named vice president for the NCC's Division of Home Missions.

A Moscow radio broadcast said some of the writings of Mark Twain were being utilized by Soviet atheistic propagandists because all his life the American author "struggled against religious prejudice." According to the Moscow station, Mark Twain described Christianity as "sham and hypocrisy." Then it announced that among the first of Twain's writings to be used by Soviet atheists would be an unpublished pamphlet entitled "Biblical Teachings and Religious Tactics."

Why the Lutheran Church?

SOME MONTHS AGO, in a small air force base chapel, during a special confirmation service, Captain Paul R. Kilde, our Lutheran Chaplain, baptized me and received me along with my husband, Carl, and our daughter, Susan, into membership in the Lutheran Church.

Why the Lutheran Church? Why, from among the many Christian faiths, did we choose this individual church?

Our thoughts were first turned toward the Lutheran faith by a young Staff Sergeant whose example of sincere love for his neighbor and genuine concern for our salvation was manifested by his love of God.

Louis Grau was 26 years old when he lost his life in the service of his country, a little more than three years ago. We were privileged to know him only a year, but during those months a close friendship was established and from that friendship grew our decision to investigate more thoroughly the faith through which he had found such happiness and contentment. Lou, as we called him, believed whole-heartedly in his faith and even under the most trying conditions that faith seemed always to sustain him.

Without pious "better-than-thou" preaching, he managed to convey to others the basis for his steadfast faith in God and the Lutheran Church.

Lou, then, turned our steps in the right direction. But it was after his death and after much soul-searching and investigation of other faiths, that this realization came to light.

We had been blithely going under the mistaken assumption that any faith was acceptable as long as belief in that faith was sincere.

After fruitless searchings for truth, however, we began to understand that just any faith was not acceptable. When we saw that foundations of some faiths appeared to be undergirded by man-made doctrines, half-scriptural truths and open falsehooods, we asked ourselves, "What is Truth?" We remembered then, that Jesus said, "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life," and we prayed for guidance.

God Himself, in His mysterious and wonderful way, directed us, from that point to our inevitable discovery of the Lutheran church—the church based upon the Word of God alone.

Shortly after Lou's sudden and tragic death, the air force transferred us to Columbus Air Force Base, Mississippi, where during a period of extreme frustration and serious indecision concerning another faith, we met Chaplain Kilde, the man, who unquestionably, took over where our friend had left off.

From that moment, we seemed, to be caught in a current from which we had no desire to escape, knowing instinctively that we had found the right way to God. Wherever we turned, whenever we came upon a seemingly unanswerable religious question, a Lutheran seemed always to be there to help us, although in this section of the nation, Lutherans are comparatively small in number.

TWO BASIC CONCEPTS

Before electing to join any church, we had two basic conceptions of our own which we felt must be part of the foundation of a true Christian faith. These were 1) Belief in the Bible alone as the revealed word of God, (this conflicted with at least two other faiths) and 2), Unquestioning belief in the Holy Trinity. (Several faiths we automatically rejected because of their disbelief in this truth). We found these beliefs to be the very heart of the Lutheran Church.

Solemnity in and respect for the house of God was another point we felt must be held as inviolable. Quiet peacefulness, rather than pulpit-thumping or Bible-waving coupled with "amens" emanating from the congregation, was, we felt, the correct atmosphere in which to worship God. We found this in the Lutheran Church.

As we studied with Chaplain Kilde, as required by our new faith prior to adult baptism or confirmation, we found more and more reasons why we knew we had found the true faith. Confusing man-made doctrines were exploded on the basis of scripture; new insight seemed to flood out our old frustrations and doubts. The Word of God became alive and meaningful to us.

MARTIN LUTHER BECAME REAL

The man Martin Luther became a real personality rather than a ghostly figure of history, credited grudgingly by some as having headed the Reformation era.

We learned why he has been called "the most significantly important man in the story of Christianity since St. Paul." We found ourselves awed by his perseverance and determination, through divine guidance, to lead his fellow man to Christ through the Word of God.

Several months before our confirmation, during our period of Lutheran instruction, we began attending Sunday services at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Columbus to further acquaint ourselves with our new faith.

We found there, for the first time, the real thrill and enjoyment of participation during worship. No other church we had visited or had attended regularly offered us the privilege of worshipping with others in such a personal, thorough manner.

The use of the Hymnal at first seemed strange to us, never having participated before in so many ways during Sunday morning services. At times we were even a bit confused in its use.

When we became familiar with the liturgical pattern our church followed, however, the meaning and usage became clear. Today, if we were to visit a church of another faith, and found these forms of worship missing, we would feel immediately a sense of disorder and emptiness.

THE SACRAMENT OF HOLY COMMUNION

The sacrament of Holy Communion, administered by the pastor to confirmed believers is to us now, as it should be, a Holy Sacrament to be taken as Jesus commanded, for the remission of sins, life and salvation. It is not, as many churches explain, to be thought of as purely symbolic in nature or given thoughtlessly to those who may or may not believe in the "real presence."

Among many other reasons for our joining the Lutheran church were two important points: infant baptism and the belief in the universal priesthood of true believers.

The three of us, my husband, our daughter and myself had been baptized as infants. (Because a question of doubt concerning my own infant baptism troubled me, I was rebaptized by Chaplin Kilde.) We had always possessed a strong belief in this sacrament and could not have seriously considered membership with a church which did not practice infant baptism. To withhold this command of Christ from a child, for reasons of age, "immaturity" or any "revelations" of men seemed to us cruel and gravely sinful.

WE FOUND THE ANSWERS FOR WHICH WE HAD SEARCHED

Adherence to a faith whose members are taught that access to God must be through human mediators or heavenly saints, we knew would be impossible for us. We have always felt that Christians have a "direct and open line" to God through prayer and that mediators not only interrupt but often block the connection.

In our new faith we have found the answers for which we searched. We have found the pure doctrines of Christianity as taught by Christ Himself, and most important of all, we have found God. For this we thank the three people who played such important parts in our Christian lives: Staff Sergeant Louis Grau and Chaplian Paul R. Kilde of the United States Air Force and more recently, Rev. John L. Dreher, pastor at Our Savior Lutheran Church in Columbus, Mississippi, without whom it may have taken us much longer to find the faith that Martin Luther found—a faith that "the gates of hell cannot prevail against."

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

WHAT IS LENT?

LENT is not a period of self-denial, in which we do something for Jesus—like giving up chewing gum or bowling or steaks or cigarettes. Such mechanical acts of devotion do not glorify God.

They could! If the time saved by giving up bowling were then used to worship Jesus and to tell others of Him, it would be an acceptable sacrifice. If the money saved by denying oneself an accustomed luxury were then used to spread the story of Jesus, the act of self-denial would glorify the Savior.

Instead of inventing some cheap and petty sacrifice that men might bring without hurting themselves too much, it is better to forget oneself and to gaze humbly with awe and wonder at all that God has done for us through our Lord Jesus Christ. Whether self-denial is practiced or not, time must be set aside for meditation on the Holy Passion of our Lord and Savior.

That is the heart of Lent! Lent is to go with Jesus to Gethsemane and behold the beginning of His anguish because of our sinfulness. Lent is to go with Peter to the palace of Pilate and see Jesus beaten and blasphemed for our iniquities. Lent is to follow to Calvary and watch the Son of God die for the sins of the world. Lent, you see, is not "doing something for Jesus", but understanding what He has done for us.

The holy purpose of Lent is to reawaken our awareness of His burning love to us, to deepen our appreciation of His dying sacrifice for us, and then to respond to Him with our love and thanks, our obedience, our worship, our work.

Private meditation—family devotion—the Sunday Service—the midweek Lenten Service—glorifying the Crucified Christ in our life and conversation: that is the proper observance of Lent.

LUTHERAN SERVICE BOOK PUBLISHED FOR THE BLIND

A four-volume Braille edition of the Lutheran Service Book and Hymnal was published in January, for the first time making an entire hymnal and the major part of the service book available to the blind.

According to recent statistics, there are nine million inhabitants in Tanganyika, East Africa. Of these 1,300,000 are Christians. That group is divided about evenly between Protestants and Roman Catholics. Of the Protestant group some 10 per cent are Lutheran. But in government positions 85 per cent of all positions are held by Christians, and the single largest group is Lutheran.

BARBARA JENSEN, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for January, is a member of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Byram, Connecticut.

Barbara is a teacher in the junior department of the Church School. In addition, she sings in the senior choir, and is most active in the young adult program. Finally, she is a member of the art class, made up of members of St. Paul's.

Aside from being a most outstanding member of the church, Barbara has a number of interests and avocations. By vocation, she is a dental assistant in Greenwich, Conn. One night a week, she teaches dancing at the YWCA.

Barbara's talent as a dancer cannot be questioned. She is a former winner of the Harvest Moon Ball in New York City.

She is perhaps best known to residents of Greenwich for her work as a leading actress in the local amateur dramatic group.

She was nominated as a Girl of the Month in a joint message from the Rev. L. T. Freimuth, Pastor, and the Rev. Thomas Mugavero, Assistant Pastor, of her church. They said:

"As you can well see for yourself, Miss Barbara Jensen is a young lady of many interests and talents who, nevertheless, puts primary importance on her service in the church. Miss Jensen is a devoted Christian, an outstanding person, and certainly worthy of the title, 'Lutheran Girl of the Month.'"

DANISH LUTHERAN CHURCH TO RESEMBLE SHIP

A UNIQUE LUTHERAN CHURCH, shaped like a fishing cutter is to be built in the Danish fishing town of Hjoerring, the Copenhagen Radio reported. It said the church will cost about $50,000, and that a large share of the money has been contributed by local fishermen.

BE OPEN-MINDED, LUTHERANS URGED

TODAY'S LUTHERANS have been challenged to be as open-minded and receptive to the ideas of scientists as their co-religionists were to the theories of a 16th-century astronomer, Nicolaus Copernicus.

The challenge came from the speaker who questioned whether Lutherans today do not assume that the methods of science are irreconcilable with the claims of the Christian faith.

Dr. Theodore G. Tappert, professor at Lutheran Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, credited the theology of Martin Luther, 16th-century religious reformer, with having provided a friendly setting for Copernicus' work.

The teachings of Copernicus, who was condemned as unscientific, and as a heretic, because of his theory that the earth moves, were first permitted only in Lutheran universities of Europe, Dr. Tappert declared.

He said this was due in part to Luther's theology that emphasized human observation, inventiveness and reason, and offered a different view of the universe from the one prevailing in the medieval Church.

Dr. Tappert spoke at a conference on benevolence sponsored by Lutheran Brotherhood, fraternal life insurance society.

ONE-THIRD OF LUTHERAN STUDENTS RECEIVE FINANCIAL AID

ONE THIRD OF THE 12,000 STUDENTS enrolled at colleges and schools of The American Lutheran Church depend at least in part on financial aid, a survey has found. The study showed the 14 institutions made available more than $1,631,000 to help the students through, according to Dr. Sidney A. Rand, Minneapolis, executive director of The ALC's board of college education. "That does not include considerable amounts made available by private organizations," Dr. Rand said.

"If off-campus employment were added to the figures," he added, "we reach an overall total of $2,361,157."

WAR FOR YOUTH—POLAND

A CONFERENCE in Warsaw, Poland, approved plans for an intensive anti-religious drive among Polish scout groups. This is to be the latest phase of a movement to include every youth organization without exception in an all-out effort to "wean the younger generation from religion."

Second Glance

Ten Lutheran church bodies ranked from 18th to 38th in giving for all purposes last year among 46 denominations in North America, according to figures issued by the National Council of Churches. In 18th place was the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod with an average contribution of $93.89 per confirmed member. The Augustana was 22nd with $76.97, American Lutheran Church 25th with $73.52, Suomi Synod 29th with $68.61, United Lutheran Church in America 30th with $68.29, Evangelical Lutheran Church 31st with $65.56.

More than 100 teen-age boys and girls were awarded certificates as baby sitters after completing a training course conducted by Trinity Lutheran church in Amarillo, Tex. The school was believed to be the first of its kind under church auspices in Texas. It was taught by registered nurses and representatives of the local police, fire department and telephone company.

A special committee has begun to make arrangements for holding the constituting convention of the 3,000,000-member Lutheran Church in America late in June of 1962. Joining in this fifth and largest merger of American Lutheranism in the 20th century will be the ULCA, Augustana, AELC and Suomi Synod.

Nearly 30 million copies of Scriptures were distributed throughout the world last year by member groups of the United Bible Societies, which cooperate in the translation, publication and distribution of Bibles in 296 languages in 75 countries and territories on five continents.

More than half of the Swedish missionaries now serving in fields throughout the world are women, it was reported by the Swedish Institute for Mission Research. Its statistics showed there are 1,541 Swedish missionaries in overseas fields, and of these 999 are women.

Chief of Army Chaplains (Maj. Gen.) Frank A. Tobey, a Baptist, received the National Citation Award of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations in America "in tribute to his outstanding and inspiring contributions to the fostering of the spirit of religiosity, tolerance and brotherhood in the Armed Forces of the United States."

A new periodical devoted to the promotion of scientific atheism will be published shortly in Communist Hungary. To be known as "Villosaag" (Light), the publication will be the Hungarian counterpart of the atheist organ of the Soviet Union. Listed as publisher of the new magazine is the "Society for the Diffusion of Scientific Knowledge."

DATE WITH REVOLUTION. This is a scene from "Date with Revolution" a new 30-minute color documentary film produced by Lutheran World Action to depict the explosive nature of African nations surging toward independence, and provide a closeup of Lutheran Church participation in the orderly development of Tanganyika.

The film is described as a view of "a continent being rocketed from the stone age into the atomic age with frightening speed . . . a sprawling and disjointed place of 150,000,000 non-Christians of many nations and tribes and races and cultures—of 700 different languages and dialects . . ."

Underscored in the 16-millimeter movie is the important role Lutheran churches and LWA have played in Tanganyika's development. This nation, which has attained self-rule under United Nations trusteeship, and which is on the verge of complete independence, is cited as a prime example of an African land moving steadily toward Christianity.

LWA is called the "backbone of financial support" for the work of seven church bodies representing a dozen countries cooperating in the Federation of Lutheran Churches in Tanganyika.

Approximately one million dollars are channeled to the mission fields in Tanganyika each year from the funds raised in the United States by Lutheran World Action.

WORLD GETS 30 MILLION BIBLES A YEAR

NEARLY 30 MILLION COPIES of Scriptures were distributed throughout the world in 1959 by member groups of the United Bible Societies for an all-time record, it was reported at the 42nd annual meeting here of the American Bible Society's Advisory Council.

Of this total, the American society alone was responsible for the distribution of some 17,650,000 Scriptures, it was noted in the report presented by ABS secretaries.

Currently, the report said, the ABS, in cooperation with 22 other UBS members, is engaged in the translation, publication, and distribution of Scriptures in 296 languages in 75 countries and territories.

A summary report on ABS Scripture distribution in the U.S. for the first six months in 1960 indicated that the society's record for last year, when it circulated more than 10,000,000 copies, will be surpassed by a considerable margin. Over 5,918,000 Scriptures were distributed in this country from January to June, exceeding the figure for the same period in 1959 by 1,173,000.

A section of the secretaries' report also said that the ABS ministry to the U.S. Armed Forces "should gain fresh impetus" following a recent agreement with the Chiefs of Chaplains to supply all American military chaplains with copies of the Revised Standard Version of the New Testament, King James Version of the New Testament, and the King James Version of the Bible.

All of these, and portions of Scriptures which may be in demand, will be available to servicemen through regular supply depots without cost.

A MIGHTY FORTRESS

VOL. XI New York, N. Y., December, 1960 No. 8

THE Christmas STORY

AND IT CAME TO PASS in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David.

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone around about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord,

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying;

Glory to God in the highest, and peace on earth to men of good will.

U.S. CHURCH MEMBERSHIP AT NEW HIGH

MEMBERSHIP in churches and synagogues of this country's 50 states increased by 2,669,-164—or 2.4 per cent—1959 for a record total of 112,226,905.

Last year 63.4 per cent of America's estimated total population of more than 178,000,-000 belonged to a church or synagogue—highest ratio of religious affiliation to the number of people in U.S. history. In 1958 the ratio was 63 per cent of the population.

While the estimated American population increased by 1.8 per cent between 1958 and 1959, however, church and synagogue membership gained only 0.4 per cent in relation to the number of people.

These and other religious statistics are from the 1961 Yearbook of American Churches, published by the National Council of Churches. They are based on reports received from 254 religious bodies in all the 50 states and the District of Columbia.

Of the 112,226,-905 church and synagogue members in 1959, the Yearbook said that 226 Protestant groups reported a total of 62,-543,502 communicants.

Among the other religious groups, Roman Catholics last year numbered 40,871,302, Jews 5,500,000, Eastern Orthodox 2,807,612, and Buddhists 20,000.

In major Protestant "family" groups, Baptist bodies reported the highest inclusive membership figures for 1959—20,879,220. The next five largest "families" were: Methodist 12,358,861; Lutheran, 8,021,091; Presbyterian 4,202,956; Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ and the Churches of Christ) 3,809,064; and Eastern Orthodox 2,807,612.

SILENT NIGHT, HOLY NIGHT, from a painting by Geertgen Tot Sint Jans, (1465—1493) in the National Gallery, London, England.

LOIS MARY FUHRMAN, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for December, was born and reared on a farm near Marietta, Pa., and is a life-long member of Zion's Evangelical Lutheran church there.

Faithful in all activities of her church, Lois has sung in both junior and senior choirs, served as president of the Luther League, taught vacation Bible school and helped in other ways.

While in high school, Lois served on the student council, was a captain of the hall patrol, member of the school chorus, marshall of the May-Court, secretary and treasurer of her class. In her senior year she was chosen "May Queen."

A member of the FFA, she served in positions of honor and was chosen Queen at a recent Pennsylvania farm festival.

Lois is now in Millersville State Teachers College preparing to become a teacher in elementary education.

According to her pastor, the Rev. Verley L. Fulmer, she is "a young lady of Christian character, steady habits and scholarly attainments—invariably discharging her duties with skill and ability."

'OLD RUGGED CROSS' STILL A FAVORITE

THE OLD RUGGED CROSS remains America's best-loved hymn, according to a poll taken by the monthly Christian Herald.

Others ranking among the top ten of the 1,666 hymns named were (according to decreasing popularity): In the Garden; How Great Thou Art; Sweet Hour of Prayer; Abide with Me; Rock of Ages; Nearer, My God, to Thee; Amazing Grace; Jesus, Lover of My Soul.

Second Glance

The Lutheran Human Relations Association of America endorsed the "kneel-in" movement as a demonstration of Negroes' "belief in the unity of the human family and, in the case of Christians, of the unity of all believers in Christ." At the same time the association, which is affiliated with the Missouri Synod, condemned white Christians who refuse church fellowship with colored people.

A new Lutheran service center was recently opened in Newport, R.I. Located in the basement of St. Peter's Lutheran Church on Broadway at One Mile Corner, it offers a weekend program for servicemen. Recreational facilities provided include pool, ping pong, shuffleboard, television, radio, high fidelity record player, reading room, and a variety of games. The Rev. Roger A. Rotvig, pastor of St. Peters, supervises the center's activities.

West Germany has budgeted $1,760,000 for the 1961 chaplaincy of its armed forces. The pastoral care for soldiers of the new West German army is completely civilian in character, and entirely in the hands of the Churches. Clergymen assigned to the chaplaincy do not wear uniforms or insignia of rank. Nevertheless, the Soviet Zone government has consistently denounced the Churches' chaplaincy treaty with the Bonn government as "upholding NATO and West German militarism," and as "misusing the Church to prepare West German youth for a new atomic war planned by the aggressive West German clerical-imperialist leadership."

The 22nd biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America approved plans for merger with three other Lutheran church bodies (the Augustana, Suomi Synod and the AELC) into one body of over three million members. The new church body may come into being by 1962.

Christian "lukewarmness" is the western world's enemy No. 1, according to a Roman Catholic expert on Communism. Franz Gypkens, superior of the German province of the White Fathers, told the tenth annual "Church in Distress" congress that to guard against dangers from the East, "a truly Christian order must be established in the West."

Pseudo-Christianity, rather than Communism and Islam, was described as the "real enemy" of progress in awakening Africa by Alan Paton, world famous South African novelist and active lay leader of the Anglican Church. The author of "Cry, the Beloved Country" and "Too Late the Phalarope" explained that pseudo-Christianity "always prefers stability to change, elevates the law above justice, and serves expediency rather than love."

LUTHERANS MARK 10th YEAR OF MINISTRY TO MILITARY

TEN YEARS OF A COOPERATIVE MINISTRY by Lutherans to military personnel will be observed in 1961 by the Lutheran Service Commission.

The LSC, a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, began providing an off-station ministry for military personnel in 1951.

Service centers in the U.S. and overseas supported by the agency offer places of relaxation in a wholesome atmosphere where men and women in the armed forces may spend their free time.

Overseas the LSC now has centers at Kaiserslautern, Germany; Tachikawa, Japan; Olonpago, Philippine Islands; and Okinawa.

Stateside it has thirty facilities. Of these nineteen are classified as service centers and eleven congregations are provided financial support to supplement their program for servicemen.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

A CONGREGATION SPLIT BY IRON CURTAIN

By Religious News Service

IN THE ILL-FATED VILLAGE of Gross-Glienicke, some 20 miles from Berlin's Brandenburg Gate, a divided flock hears the same sermon.

It is preached by Wilhelm Stintzing, a 44-year-old Evangelical pastor who has the dubious fame of manifesting the tragedy of Germany's political split.

Every Sunday, Pastor Stintzing travels 25 miles to carry out clerical duties to parishioners who are actually just yards apart. This situation is forced upon him by a brutal wooden fence that marks West from East Germany in what once was an idyllic weekend resort of Berliners.

Before the war, Pastor Stintzing needed about 25 minutes to go from one end of the village to the other—on foot. Today, it takes him three times as long—on bicycle. For at Gross-Glienicke, there is no opening in the "Wooden Curtain," and the nearest border crossing point is 12 miles away, at Staaken. So the pastor has to cycle nearly 25 miles twice a week to serve both parts of the parish.

His parishioners, who are members of the Evangelical Church of Berlin-Brandenburg, belong to the same community, but live in two different worlds.

It is only through his efforts that the people on both sides of the border have any actual contact. The preacher, who is pastor of the Western sector's "Chapel of the Good Shepherd" has managed, through the intervention of the Berlin-Brandenburg Church—which has clerical jurisdiction over East and West Berlin, and part of the Soviet Zone surrounding the city—to get a permanent pass from the East German authorities permitting him to move freely between his two flocks.

But the clergyman is not quite free. By means of watchtowers, camouflaged as chimney tops, the Communist police observe his every move.

Apart from their joint faith, there no longer exists any tie between the people who live on either side of the border. They have different currencies. They cannot visit each other. They cannot even talk to each other on the telephone, because the Soviet Zone authorities many years ago cut off all communication.

Since the village church is on Soviet Zone territory, Pastor Stintzing had to hold worship services for the West Berlin part of his congregation in a local pub. That is, until 1953, when the "Chapel of the Good Shepherd" was built.

BEFORE IT WAS CUT IN TWO by the brutal border separating West and East Germany, Gross-Glienicke was an idyllic little village. The girl on top is looking across lake at church which is in Soviet Zone. Bottom photo shows "Chapel of the Good Shepherd", whose pastor serves as the only link between the divided flock. This church was consecrated by Bishop Otto Dibelius, of Berlin, chairman of the Council of the Evangelical Church in Germany. It has a thatched roof, stained glass windows, plain wooden beams and smooth white-washed walls built of bricks salvaged from the rubble of war-destroyed Berlin houses. In this church, and in one across the lake, the people of Gross-Glienicke are most united. RNS Photo

SOVIET ZONE WOMAN ARRESTED FOR SPYING ON CLERGYMEN

A 26-YEAR-OLD WOMAN from the Soviet Zone of Germany was recently arrested by West Berlin police on charges of spying on East German clergyman and for doing other intelligence work for the SSD (Communist secret police).

The arrest was made when the woman, who was identified as Loni L. of Hainsberg of Saxony, came to West Berlin as a "political refugee" after she fell into disgrace with her Communist employers.

One of her assignments had been to attend church services and note any utterances of pastors and church workers which might indicate opposition to the Communist regime. Significantly, her alias was "Sunday."

The woman admitted she had delivered about 25 written reports on East German clergymen to her Red employers.

Strict surveillance of church services and other religious gatherings by secret police agents was ordered by the East German Communist government's Security Ministry in 1953, and has since been expanded to include practically all fields of Church work.

NIKE BASE IS NEW CHURCH'S NEIGHBOR. Some 300 members of Immanuel Lutheran church of Wyandotte, Mich., attended ground-breaking ceremony for their new church which will rise next door to an Army Nike base in Riverview. New structure will seat 400 worshippers, 250 dining guests and 300 children in Sunday School. RNS Photo.

Sharing Your Experience

CHRISTMAS AT WORLD'S LARGEST NAVAL BASE

By Sherri J. Todar

IT WAS THE END of a perfect day. The Christmas shopping had taken time. So had the wrapping of presents, the addressing of cards, and the mailing of gift boxes to my family in California. But in my exhaustion I still felt a tinge of excessive loneliness, the most virulent poison created by industrial society.

This, my second Christmas away from home seemed lonelier than my first. I had seen a year-and-one-half in the service—as a WAVE—fly by. But the air of my beloved Holiday Season slowed me down—a time to reminisce. Sending gifts to my family didn't satisfy my unknown desire. The church bulletin from home, told of a drive for gifts to be given to hospitalized persons. How I longed to be able to present my offerings in person! Still I felt an emptiness. What was it? I was unable to enlighten my heart and mind. Days passed and still I walked in darkness.

In Norfolk is Frazier Hall, where all three major denominations conduct divine services.

How many times had I walked by, stopped in the chapel to meditate or heard the church bells chime? There was the answer. Upon investigation I discovered an almost secret drive in process. The members of Youth Fellowship were acting as Santa Claus to a parentless family of nine children, living with a couple who were housing the children. The youngsters expected no Christmas at all.

Some "duty daddys" and "duty mommies" had other plans. Since they were so far away from their family, why not act as parents to these children?

Clothes and small personal items were collected among the girls in the barracks. The fellows collected boys clothes and selected appropriate games. Within a period of one month, all was completed; and a party was planned for late in December. The children and their adopted Mother gathered in Frazier Hall. The family was taken on a tour of the base, from the piers to the Air Station. Upon return to the Church, a wiener roast was prepared and all feasted.

Finally! All the presents were distributed, and the sparkle in the eyes of those youngsters warmed our hearts. Many of us pictured our brothers and sisters—some remembered our own days, now past. With each of us deep in thought, we quickly were awakened by the cries of joy.

In our own small way, we made a few people happy. This in turn made us happy as we tried not only to give a few presents, but a gift of friendship. We will, during the course of 1960, see and play with these youngsters. Thus, our present of friendship and love will grow and become a year-round gift. Christmas for me, as a WAVE in the U.S. Navy, will last far past the winter months. Living in a man's world and way of life—a WAVE can benefit herself and others, and become a stronger woman and person.

Sherri Todar will be the recipient of the November $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

RETIRED CHAPLAIN CHIEF HEADS DECENCY DRIVE

MSGR. PATRICK J. RYAN, retired Army Chief of Chaplains, has been appointed director of the National Catholic Decency in Reading Program.

Sponsored by the national Catholic Digest, published in St. Paul, Minn., the program encourages wholesome reading among Catholic young people and adults through a positive plan of selected secular and religious magazines distributed through U.S. parochial schools.

Archbishop William O. Brady of St. Paul agreed to give Msgr. Ryan a leave of absence from other duties in the See to "try to widen the influence and effectiveness of the Catholic Digest."

ARMY LAUNCHING AMBITIOUS PROGRAM TO TRAIN LAY RELIGIOUS LEADERS

THE ARMY CHAPLAIN SERVICE has launched a series of 31 six-day training schools in the most ambitious program of lay religious leadership development in its history.

Scheduled for Army posts throughout the nation this fall, the training series was initiated with two simultaneous schools, one at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., and the other at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Conducting the workshop schools are six teams of experts in religious education under the direction of Dr. J. Gordon Chamberlin, professor of religious education at Pittsburgh (Pa.) Theological Seminary (United Presbyterian).

"These workshops," according to Chaplain (Maj.•Gen.) Frank A. Tobey (American Baptist), Army Chief of Chaplains, "will assist greatly in filling the need of better resources and training for our religious education teachers and workers."

"NINE WENT AWAY"—A MEDITATION

(Luke 17:11-19)

TEN MEN came to Jesus one day, ten men with nothing to be thankful for—they were lost in the pit of leprosy. Then in one glorious, blinding moment they had everything to be thankful for! Their leprosy had been cured and they had found a new life of restoration!

But there is a bitter tragedy in the very heart of this testimony of triumph. It is the tragedy of forgetting that an experience in the heart and life is always meant to exercise itself in the expression of the lips and the voice.

Only one of the ten men remembered and returned. The other nine just went away—forgetting to thank the One who healed them. They formed a group which today can be called "The Ancient Society of the Thankless Nine." To belong, just forget to say "Thank you" to the Lord Jesus, whenever he has done something for you.

Or—accept the gifts God offers in Christ Jesus. Join the Lord's people at this Thanksgiving time in praise to Him who is the giver of every good gift.

(From American Tract Society pamphlet, by Edwin Raymond Anderson.)

"Thanks be to God, which gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ."

A WARM SMILE, open arms, and a delicious lollypop were all that 10-month-old Orville Chapman, Jr., wanted when he arrived at Andrews Air Force Base here from the strife-torn Congo.

Mrs. Hafermann gave him all three. She is the wife of Air Force Chaplain (Capt.) Henry H. Hafermann, a minister of the American Lutheran Church, who is stationed at Andrews.

Orville's parents are Baptist missionaries who have been stationed fifty miles below Leopoldville in the lower Congo for the past three years. They were flown to the United States with over forty other missionary families, mostly American Baptist, who left their posts after violence broke out in the newly-independent nation.

Mrs. Hafermann is the former Phyllis Anderson of Elk Horn, Wis.

"WE'LL NEVER FORGET DOCTOR WATT!"

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

OCCASIONALLY we meet individuals along life's way who are difficult to forget. One such person was a British medical officer who was the chief surgeon aboard Her Majesty's Hospital Ship, The Maine (HMHS MAINE).

This young doctor had been teaching surgery at a hospital in London, but requested active duty in the British Navy in the Far East that he might have the opportunity to minister to the spiritual as well as to the physical needs of the men in that part of the world.

"I have never heard the King James English sound like that before," many of us thought as we listened to this outstanding Christian veteran of many a spiritual battle read and expound the Word of God with his pleasing British accent at the Base Chapel at the U.S. Army Compound in Sasebo. Here were gathered on Saturday evenings Christians from several United Nations forces.

To be sure, the men who were "hanging one on" or "painting the town red" thought that we were a strange lot meeting together for Bible study, prayer and Christian fellowship. As the Word of God says: for those who are perishing, it is just plain "foolishness." Many of us reading this article used to think that way too. "What do those 'Christians' see in studying the Bible?"

This high-ranking surgeon was also under orders to the Divine Physician, Jesus Christ. We saw many a man "pass from death to life," from considering the Word of the cross as "folly" to that of experiencing it as the "power of God," as this dedicated medical officer led one British sailor after another to the Christ.

And so James Watt, a descendant of the inventor of the steam engine, encouraged many of Christian of other United Nations forces as well during our tour of duty in the Far East.

I don't know where Dr. Watt is today, except that I do know that he is still leading men to The Physician, Jesus Christ, and is still organizing small groups of Christian sailors of the British Navy into effective Bible study fellowship units wherever he goes. They keep in touch with each other by means of a little bulletin published occasionally.

This paper includes, among words of encouragement to the strong as well as to the way-faring Christian sailors, names and addresses of Christian people in seaports throughout the world, wherever the ships of the British Navy anchor or tie up to a buoy. These civilian believers welcome for encouragement and Christian fellowship these sailors, officers and men alike, who have an allegiance to Jesus Christ and a desire to share the Gospel message of forgiveness and life. Here they find a home away from home.

The Word of God is described in various ways. It is compared with meat, with milk, and if the Psalmist were alive today in our milieu, he might have described it also as satisfying as rich milk chocolate. The Word of the Lord given to men is described in Psalm 19 as ". . . more to be desired than fine gold, even much fine gold; sweeter also than honey and drippings of the honeycomb." (Psalm 19:10).

The Word of God is what can revive your weary soul, make wise the simple, bring joy to the heart, and enlighten the eyes to things you and I had never before dreamed of. You can become a new person by digging into the Word.

Have you put your Bible aside? Get hold of it, and search out its truths. Seek out Christian fellowship, and study the Word together. Read daily those Bible passages listed in each month's issue of our Mighty Fortress.

Remember, too, that, even as the Word can keep you from sin by its encouragement and convicting and enabling power, so, too, the sin of neglect can keep you from the Word. Take time out at the beginning and close of each day for that "Quiet Time" with your Bible and your Lord. He longs to speak to you through His Word, and meet you at His throne of grace in prayer.

For Bible study help, write to The Lutheran Bible Institute, 1619 Portland Ave., Minneapolis 4, Minnesota. An attractive folder describing the correspondence courses and group study courses available may be had by writing in. A brand new course on the Psalms has just come off the press. The courses "Salvation Made Plain" and "Life At Its Best" are very popular with servicemen. Write today.

In deference to the Greater Little Rock Ministerial Alliance, the Public School Board decided that this year's Thanksgiving Day football game will be played at noon. A considerable controversy arose last year when the Alliance objected to scheduling the game in the morning, which the ministers said would interfere with attendance at Thanksgiving Day church services.

Leaders of the nation's four major religious bodies have appealed to American citizens to vote on Election Day, November 8, as a moral obligation.

Progress is being made in the Inter-Church effort to raise rural living standards in Greece, according to Charles A. FIRST SERVICES HELD IN GI ICE CHAPEL

THE FIRST RELIGIOUS services were held for U.S. servicemen in the small chapel which was hand-mined in the Ice Tunnel in Camp Tuto, Greenland, 70 feet below the surface of the Greenland Ice Cap.

Conducting the initial services for Protestant men were Chaplain (Capt.) Jack Cutbirth and Chaplain (1st Lt.) Grover G. DeVault. Catholic services were held by Chaplain (Maj.) Daniel F. Byrne.

Religious services and pastoral ministry for the men at this far outpost are provided by U.S. Army chaplains from a larger base who travel by helicopter, sled or other means to make regular visits.

During the summer, services can be held above ice, but with the coming of winter, it is necessary to "go below."

Age of the ice at the 70-foot level has been estimated at 2,000 years, dating back to the time of Christ's birth.

Carved in the round, the chapel also is used for research purposes. Eight feet in diameter and 20 feet in length, it will be bulkheaded, pressurized with air, and instrumentated to determine if plastic flow of the ice and closure of the opening can be arrested or inhibited.

ALCOHOLICS GET CHAPEL

WHAT IS BELIEVED to be the world's first chapel built exclusively for alcoholics was dedicated in Brighton, Mich., in early September.

The newest addition of the Brighton Hospital for Alcoholism, the chapel was a gift of the Ford Motor Co. Under the "Brighton Method" of combatting the disease, medical treatment is combined with mental and spiritual rehabilitation. The patient is then channeled into Alcoholics Anonymous for group therapy.

FIRST NEGRO PRESIDENT NAMED BY MINISTERS

FOR THE FIRST TIME, a Negro has been elected president of the Charleston Ministerial Association. He is the Rev. B. M. Hargroves, pastor of the Simpson Memorial Methodist church.

Also, for the first time in nearly 100 years, a Negro was approved for membership in the First Presbyterian church here. The woman, who is now affiliated with the church, will officially become a member as soon as her letter of application is received, said the Rev. George H. Vick, pastor.

He stressed that, despite the absence of Negroes from the church's congregation, it has never had a policy of refusing membership to Negroes.

AUSTRALIAN PRIESTS TO GET P.E. TRAINING

A NEW PROGRAM designed to deepen the impact of religion in the field of sports has been approved by the Australian Roman Catholic hierarchy, it was announced in Vienna.

The program calls for organizing regular courses of training in physical culture and sports for younger priests assigned to work chiefly among young people.

The priests, it was stated, will cooperate during their special ministry with government-run institutes for physical education.

Sharing Your Experience

THE CHAPEL ON THE CORAL ATOLL

By M/Sgt. Alton B. Dodge

WORDS ARE DYNAMITE. So is prayer. To understand, come back with me sixteen years to World War II, and a small coral atoll in the Dutch East Indies. Our unit had recently secured the island and the few surviving Japanese had fled to the hills and caves outside the perimeter of our camp.

"The first order of business," announced our commander, "is to build an officers' club. It'll be good for their morale."

The unit chaplain demurred: "I think a small chapel should have prior consideration. This would benefit the morale of all personnel."

"In good time, Captain," stated the commander, rattling his eagles. "In good time. My officers are fighting men and need a fighting man's recreation."

"And some are praying men," offered the chaplain softly. "We will build a chapel as soon as you give us the green light."

All the construction on the island was crude. Material was in short supply; sporadic harassment by the hidden enemy and unfriendly weather joined to hamper progress. The commander's club was barely a framework when "Washing Machine Charlie," flying from a nearby island dropped a small anti-personnel bomb smack in its center and reduced the frame to rubble. For another month heavy rains held construction to a standstill and finally, when the building was again on the way to completion, a fire of undetermined origin reduced it to ashes.

"That's enough!" stormed the colonel. We'll build somewhere else and at another time. Chaplain, you can have this spot, the native and enlisted help as well as the materials we are expecting today. The way things are going, however, I doubt if you'll get anything built."

Without a hitch, the new chapel arose Phoenix-like from its ashes. The men worked eagerly, Mother Nature smiled and even the enemy seemed to have no further interest in the small building. In a short time the chapel was ready for business and the first service saw a capacity congregation—including the base commander.

"Don't see how you did it, Chaplain," he commented later. "We couldn't even get off the ground before."

The chaplain smiled. "I would imagine that perhaps Someone was watching, Colonel," he said gently.

M/Sgt. Dodge will be the recipient of the November $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

SOCIOLOGIST EXPLORES TODAY'S SEX EMPHASIS

A LUTHERAN CLERGYMAN WHO IS ALSO A SOCIOLOGIST believes that society's obsession with sex has produced little in the way of genuine enlightenment and much in the way of confusion.

The Rev. Dr. Harold Haas, executive secretary of the United Lutheran Church in America's Board of Social Missions, in a recently published book, "Marriage," asserts:

"Two generations ago this (sex) was a subject not openly discussed. Now it is not only talked about, but forms the basis of much modern advertising and entertainment. Neither the reticence nor the exposure seems to have led to a better understanding of the meaning of sex."

In his discussion of today's attitudes toward sex, Dr. Haas examines the extremes of the question which he defines as the belief that "sex is something essentially evil" or "simply as a biological act."

"These attitudes," he writes, "are equally false, and can distort our understanding of God's purposes."

Dr. Haas states that "the Christian interpretation of sex stands against both of these extreme views and renders its own unique testimony."

He cites and enlarges upon the following six basic ideas of sex which emerge from scripture:

1 In the purposes of God, sex is good.
2 The full meaning of sex is a mystery.
3 Sex involves self giving.
4 Sex always involves the whole person.
5 Sex always establishes a basic union.
6 Sex is the means God has ordained to bring children into the world.

"Marriage" is one of a new series called "Fortress Books" dealing with Lutheran theology, doctrine, and contemporary society which are published by Muhlenberg Press, the official publishing house of the United Lutheran Church in America.

EAST GERMAN 'GUIDE TO ATHEISM'

EAST GERMAN young people participating in the Communist-sponsored youth dedication ceremonies were given a book on the occasion which assures its young readers that the Churches serve the "ruling classes" by "subjugating the workers."

Entitled "From the Other World to This World," the book is what the Communist press recently described as the first volume of an atheistic encyclopedia which is to serve as "a guide to atheism."

In the book's first chapter, under the heading "Superstition," the following sentences are found:

"The word superstition is generally taken to mean belief in supernatural forces, such as soothsaying, card-reading, star-gazing, etc. Such forms of belief differ from religion in that they are not organized into religious congregations. They are, however, no less widespread.

"To this day, the bourgeois scientists have not been able to distinguish properly between religion and superstition. Instead, by evasion and prevarication, they have tried to prove that religious concepts are not a part of superstition, but differ from it fundamentally.

"Both superstition and religion came into being because of man's apparent inability to explain natural and social phenomena. Both mirror reality erroneously, in fact fanatically, and proceed on the assumption that there are supernatural beings and forces."

"Both result from the circumstance that the suppressed and exploited classes seem to be powerless against the ruling classes in an order of society based on exploitation . . .; by utilizing religious and superstitious notions, the ruling classes suppress and subjugate the workers.

"The rulers and exploiters have an interest in keeping the workers superstitious; they want them to remain confused in their concepts of reality, so that they will not discover ways of solving their problems, but will continue to rely on God, the stars, or a talisman . . ."

CLERGYMAN TELLS WHY HE'S IN CONGRESS

GIVING HIS REASONS why a "man of the cloth" should serve in the nation's highest legislature, a Lutheran pastor who is one of three clergymen in Congress said that "the time has come when Christian people must be extremely vocal in all that they do, in every way of life."

Rep. Walter H. Moeller (D.-O.) told the annual meeting of the Lutheran Laymen's Fellowship of Metropolitan Washington that ministers "have a basic conviction, a basic philosophy to give to the world today."

Speaking on the subject "A Minister Comes to Congress," the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod minister said that when governments "can so easily be turned into directions that are not to the glory of God, I think it's very important that Christian men and women, including clergymen, should take their turn in government processes."

The two other ordained ministers in Congress are Rep. Merwin Coad (D.-Ia.), Disciples of Christ; and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell (D.-N.Y.), Baptist.

ARAB REFUGEE BOYS are on their way to school in new clothes provided for them by Lutheran World Relief.

Second Glance

The Augustana Lutheran Church has given overwhelming approval to plans for merger with three other church bodies into a new denomination of more than 3 million members to be known as the Lutheran Church in America. Action was taken at Augustana's centennial synod in Rock Island, Ill. In a voice vote marked by an affirmative roar and a negative whisper, nearly 2,000 delegates approved a resolution to unite with the Suomi Synod, American Evangelical Lutheran Church and United Lutheran Church in America. Target date of the proposed merger is June of 1962 if the other bodies also approve.

The Lutheran Free Church, which twice rejected continuance of merger negotiations with the three bodies which now constitute The American Lutheran Church, has approved a voting procedure on the question if next year's Annual Conference of the Church decides to reconsider merger. It calls for a third referendum in the congregations as one of the steps leading up to formal application for membership in TALC, which will begin operations next January. Completion of these mergers will reduce the number of member bodies in the National Lutheran Council from eight to two.

William R. Walters was elected president of the Lutheran Society for Worship, Music and the Arts at its third annual conference at Allentown, Pa. Mr. Walters is professor of music at Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio.

American Lutherans were called upon for increased contributions of cash to Lutheran World Action and of clothing to Lutheran World Relief to help earthquake and tidal wave victims in Chile. Four Lutheran churches and two parsonages were destroyed and many others damaged in the disaster. Reconstruction costs are expected to top $200,000.

Lutheran Churches in America sponsor 5,639 Scouting units — ranking fifth among the nation's religious bodies in this activity. Ten Lutheran bodies have 1,745 Cub packs, 2,954 Boy Scout troops and 940 Explorer posts. The Methodists rank first with 13,221 units.

A specially inscribed Bible was presented to General Lauris Norstad by "fellow Lutherans" in Europe during the NATO commander's recent hospital stay as the result of a mild heart attack. The presentation was made by the Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel.

A WALL OF NAZARETH in Biblical times is exposed in extensive excavations of the Galilean town where Jesus grew up and lived until he began His public ministry. On a hill overlooking the valley of Esdraelon, the town is a favorite place of pilgrimage by Christians from all parts of the world. RNS Photo

8 rules on going to church

1. Go early, not only to be punctual, but to be in your place before the time announced for service to begin.

2. Go in a reverent spirit. On the way remember whither you go. Avoid lightness of manner and conversation on shallow subjects.

3. Before you enter or as you enter the church, breathe a silent prayer of invocation for the presence of the Holy Spirit.

4. As you take your place, bow your head reverently in prayer, for yourself and all others who enter the sanctuary.

5. Resolve that you will foster no thought, fix your eyes on no object, utter no word that will tend to divert your mind from the holy purpose for which you should come into the Lord's house.

6. As the minister enters the pulpit, offer an earnest silent prayer in his behalf.

7. In all the services take an active part as a worshiper.

8. At the close of the service, after a moment of prayerful silence, greet with cheerfulness and good will all whom you meet, remembering Christian fellowship is a part of Christian worship.

Read your Bible more Effectively

By Nathanael Olson

READ YOUR BIBLE—not as a newspaper, but as a letter from home.

"If a cluster of heavenly fruit hangs within reach, gather it.

"If a promise lies upon the page as a blank cheque, cash it.

"If a prayer is recorded, appropriate it, and launch it as a feathered arrow from the bow of your desire.

"If a truth is revealed in all its intrinsic splendor, entreat that its brilliance may ever irradiate the hemisphere of your life like a star.

"Entwine the climbing creepers of holy desire round the lattice work of Scripture. So shall you come to say with the Psalmist, 'O how love I thy law! it is my meditation all the day' (Psalm 119:97)."

So says famous Bible teacher, F. B. Meyer.

Here are three other helpful hints to make your Bible reading more enjoyable and helpful.

1. Read your Bible slowly

"Haste makes waste" is the old proven proverb. You miss many spiritual gems if you read rapidly. Hurried "devotions" become nothing but religious "commotions."

The Bible says, "They that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength" (Isaiah 40:31). In this age of jet speed and tense nerves, learn the art of waiting on the Lord with His Word before you.

So remember, read your Bible slowly. Let your soul digest its spiritual calories!

2. Read your Bible personally

Apply Bible truths to your own life. When you read about Abraham's faith, ask yourself, "Do I have the faith in God that Abraham had? Would I sacrifice my son if God wanted me to?" When you read that David was "a man after God's own heart", check your conscience to see if God could say the same about you.

Keep a sheet of paper handy. Jot down your thoughts about the verses you are reading, and file them for future help in personal work, in speaking to church groups, in correspondence, or just sharing a Bible "nugget" with a Christian friend.

Be able to say, "Every promise in God's Book is mine."

3. Read your Bible purposefully

Just before you read a sacred passage, think about the problems you face. Ask yourself, "What help do I need from God's Word today? Spiritual victory? Financial provision? Physical strength? Understanding for personal problems?" Then after you know exactly what you need, give your declaration of dependence: "Lord, I desperately need Thy help. I don't know how to solve this problem; but you do, Lord. And I believe you will give me the solution through your Word."

Then begin to read your Bible with this definite purpose in mind. It sparks new interest. And because you are looking for something, you'll find something! God answers specific praying, and He rewards specific reading of His Word.

Follow these three signposts to better Bible reading—TODAY! Then the "Good Old Book" will take on a new, fresh meaning in your devotions.

Try them—and see!

'FIRST FRUIT' OF THE HARVEST: "You shall take some of the first of all the fruit of the ground, which you harvest from your land that the Lord your God gives you, and you shall put it in a basket, and you shall go to the place which the Lord your God will choose, to make His name to dwell there." (Deut. 26: 2. RSV).

THE BUG ON THE WINDSHIELD

IT WAS A BEAUTIFUL SUMMER EVENING, still early enough for us to skim along without the lights of the car. We were in too much of a hurry to remove the splatter from the windshield, an inelegant blotch left by a large bug.

But, as we drove along, it seemed we just couldn't keep our eyes off that messy splatter. Again and again we found ourselves focusing our eyes to the short-range vision which ended on the pane of glass immediately before us. And each time we fixed our eyes on that ugly spot only inches away, we missed the beautiful scenery about us.

How much like life, we thought. A bug bigger than the evening star! A bug big enough to blot out the rolling landscape of velvet green which stretched ahead for many miles. All because we fixed our eyes on the ugly thing before us, while we missed the vision of the beautiful and the abiding which surrounded us on every hand!

If only we could keep our eyes off the bugs on the windshield—the worries and cares which beset our path from day to day, the petty vexations, the irritations and vexations that threaten to blot out the eternal stars of hope and love and faith! If only we could keep our eyes on HIM Who is "the Way" and on the immovable assurances which He has given us in His eternal Gospel! If only we would "lift up our eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh our Help!" For, in truth, our Help "cometh from the Lord!"

Sharing Your Experience

WAITING UPON THE LORD

By Sherman B. Richards, Chaplain, USN

DURING THE WAR I was in the South Pacific, and the weeks stretched into months, and the months blossomed into years. As the lids of night closed over me in the evening, the thought would hound me: "How long! O, Lord, How long?"

One day I met the battalion mail clerk whom I had seen many times in the Chapel. He told me how he often walked down to the beach, and found a quiet place. There he would read and meditate upon the Word of God.

I decided that I would try this. When I was finished with the duty, I walked to the limit of our area—the crest of a high hill. The hill turned sharply into a lush green valley. The tropical heat that poured over me soon changed to still coolness in the dark shadows of that tropical rain forest.

On the floor of the valley, I found an open place where a giant tree had fallen, and now lay rotting in the warm, damp atmosphere.

I found a place on the thick, soft moss where I could rest. Then I opened the Word of God. Here in the quietness of the day, I let God speak, and I listened. Here, I learned patience, and an insight into the advice: "Wait upon the Lord . . .", and it sustained me in the months and days that followed.

Chaplain Richards will be the recipient of the August $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

TWO 'WEDDING PALACES' PLANNED FOR MOSCOW

TWO "WEDDING PALACES" will be built in Moscow this year in response to "popular demands to make wedding ceremonies more solemn and a memorable event in one's life," the Moscow Radio reported.

Noting the "great success" of a palace built previously in Leningrad, the station said that ultimately similar institutions will be inaugurated in all the other large cities of the USSR.

It said the Moscow palaces will be two stories high, and stylish staircases will lead to the first floor, where offices for the registration of necessary documents will be located. On the ground floor will be the wedding banquet halls.

BIBLE NOW OFFERED ON SUPERMARKET SHELF

A NEW "PRODUCT" on the supermarket shelf is the Holy Bible.

The family Bibles—King James, Roman Catholic, and Jewish editions—are on sale in several stores, and can be acquired either in complete, bound volumes, or by weekly purchases of 15 separated sections and a durable binder.

Harold Drimmer, president of J. J. Litt & Ives Co., of New York, the publishers, said that "the use of shopping centers and supermarkets in the sale of books in this specialized field may seem like an almost radical departure from traditional publishing and book-selling practices."

"However," he said, "on closer examination, it is plain to see that we simply are using the most advanced, up-to-the-minute and proven method of bringing the oldest and most inspirational books ever published to thousands of Americans who otherwise might never face the opportunity to have a Bible in the home."

THE TRUST UNTO GOD

THE UNITED STATES SENATE marked the 100th anniversary of the birth of William Jennings Bryan by listening to a recitation of his short but famous essay on "Faith." Its text follows:

"Faith is the spiritual extension of the vision; it is the moral sense which reaches out toward the throne of God and takes hold upon those verities which the mind cannot grasp.

"The great things of the world have been accomplished by men and women who had faith enough to attempt the seemingly impossible and to trust to God to open the way.

"Faith is a heart virtue; doubts of the mind will not disturb it if there is faith in the heart.

"Faith in the triumph of truth, because it is truth, has ever been an unfailing source of courage and power. Faith leads us to trust the omnipotence of the Ruler of the Universe, and to put God's promises to the test.

"Faith is as necessary to the heart of the individual as it is necessary to world-wide peace. What can equal the consolation that comes from reliance upon the care of Him who gives beauty to the lily, food to the fowls of the air, and direction to all?"

Bryan was Secretary of State under president Woodrow Wilson.

SCRIPTURES PUBLISHED IN 1,151 TONGUES

PORTIONS OF THE SCRIPTURES have now been published in a total of 1,151 languages and dialects, the American Bible Society announced.

Complete Bibles are available in 219 languages, entire New Testaments in 271 others, and at least one book of the Bible in an additional 661 tongues.

Recently, the society published the New Testament for the first time in Beti, a language spoken in Cameroun, Equatorial Africa, and in Totonac, a Mexican Indian dialect. It also produced the Gospel of Mark for the first time in Bilaan, a language of the Philippines, and in five Mexican Indian dialects: Guerrero Mixteco, Tenango Otomi, Sierra Otomi, Tojolabal and Bachajon Tzeltal.

In addition, the society published the Gospel of Mark in Paiwan, a language spoken in Taiwan, in cooperation with the British & Foreign Bible Society and the National Bible Society of Scotland.

It is estimated that there are still about 1,000 tongues in which no part of the Bible has yet been published. Since 1900, the Scriptures have been translated into more than 500 new languages.

Continuing need for material relief in countries of the Far and Middle East was stressed by Bernard A. Confer upon his return from a six-weeks trip overseas. Mr. Confer, executive secretary of Lutheran World Relief, said U. S. foreign aid has improved economic conditions in Korea, Taiwan, Hong Kong and India, but there is still urgent need for help on the part of LWR and other voluntary agencies.

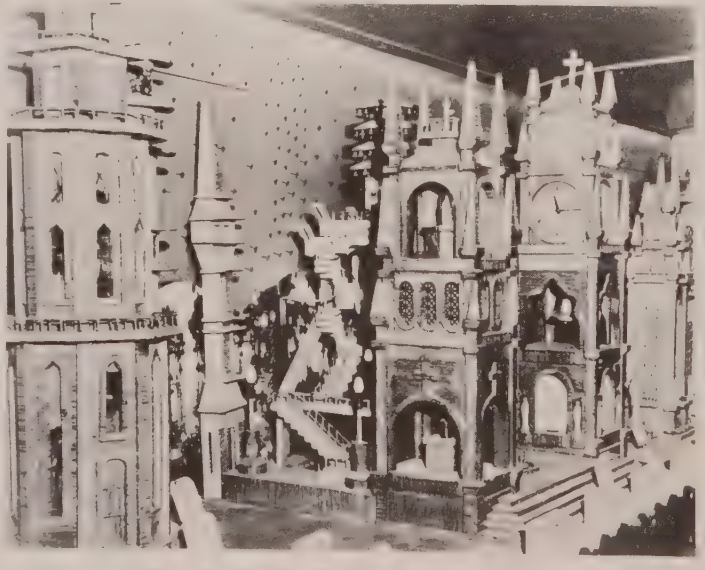
Dr. Thorvald O. Burntvedt, 72, president of the Lutheran Free Church for 28 years until he retired in 1958, died in Minneapolis on May 12. He was stricken with a heart attack at the wheel of his car. The veteran churchman was held in high affection and esteem far beyond the confines of the 80,000-member LFC.

A study of what would be expected of the Church of Sweden in the event of war has been requested of the government by the Lutheran Primate, Archbishop Gunnar Hultgren of Uppsala. He asked for a church and education ministry survey which would give special attention to what responsibilities a clergyman would be expected to bear, whether there are sufficient pastors and how they might be distributed in different areas of need.

Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz is the president-elect of The American Lutheran Church. For the past six years he has headed the Evangelical Lutheran Church, which merged with the present ALC and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church to form the new denomination of 2,248,000 members.

An 11-year old Latvian Lutheran received a royal welcome in New York and washington as the one millionth person to be resettled overseas by the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration. He was Andrejs Suritis, who arrived on May 10 with his father under the auspices of the Lutheran Immigration Service. Awaiting to greet them was Mrs. Suritis and two other sons. The family will make its home in Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Lutheran Bishop Hanns Lilje of Germany preached the sermon at the dedication of the new Interchurch Center on Morningside Heights in New York City on May 29. The $20-million, 19-story building serves as headquarters for more than 30 Protestant and Orthodox denominations or their agencies. President Eisenhower laid the cornerstone last October.



The NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel and the Missouri Synod's Armed Service Commission paid tribute to the 1,065,000 buried in U. S. military cemeteries around the world by placing a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Washington, D. C. Especially remembered were "the thousands of Lutherans who have given their lives for their country."

AT THE ENTRANCE of the Malta harbor where St. Paul suffered shipwreck 1,900 years ago, now called St. Paul's Bay, are two islets named St. Paul's Islands. On the larger one (left in picture below) stands the statue of the great missionary apostle, which keeps alive for visitors the story of his historic journey to trial, imprisonment, and eventually martyrdom in Rome, as narrated in the Acts of the Apostles. In ancient time Malta was known as Melita.

'CITY OF RELIGION' IN MATCHSTICKS: Representing several faiths, this model "City of Religion" was created from matchsticks by Earl Walsh, 51, of St. Louis, who began the hobby when a boy of 9 in Rockland, Me. Nearly 4 feet high and 32 feet long, the 400-pound "city" required 2,080 tubes of glue. It includes more than a dozen temples, various towers, gardens, fountains, a healing well, and Jesus on the Cross. RNS Photo

The telescope on Mt. Palomar

AND THE TELESCOPE OF FAITH

WINDING AROUND BREATH-TAKING CURVES, overlooking the deep gorges and ravines, one is taken by automobile to the top of Mt. Palomar in Calif., where is located the Hale Telescope, the largest in the world. The site of the dome is approximately 5,600 feet above sea level.

This telescope is actually a giant camera which takes pictures of the heavens, and records objects up to a billion light years away. One light year equals six trillion miles. This is twice the distance that any other telescope has ever been able to penetrate.

Although this great telescope weighs 530 tons, it is so carefully designed, and so mechanically correct, that it is moved with a one-twelfth horsepower motor when following and photographing a star.

The most important part of the telescope is the two-hundred-inch mirror. It is the largest piece of Pyrex glass ever cast. It required about eleven years to grind and polish this great mirror.

It seems almost unbelievable that stars so far away can be photographed, and one's brain goes into a tailspin trying to comprehend distances.

There are several thoughts we might ponder there. First, a new and awed impression of the greatness of our Creator. A God who could conceive a world such as ours would certainly command respect, but surely one who could make such a universe must be worshipped.

This great telescope through which unseen stars are photographed also reminds me of that which we as Christians possess. Can you guess what I mean?

Well, I like to think of it like this—we, too, have a telescope whose lens is even stronger than the Hale, for we are able to see that land which is fairer than day. You have guessed it; the telescope of faith.

Jesus said, "Verily, I say unto you, if ye have faith, ye shall say unto this mountain, be thou removed, and be thou cast into the sea; it shall be done."

Be sure to keep the mirror of your faith well-polished.

3 LAYMEN HELP THEIR CHAPLAIN

By Robert F. Lang, Chaplain, USN

I AM A METHODIST, who fortunately has three outstanding Lutheran laymen to assist me in my work and religious program aboard the U.S.S. TACONIC (AGC-17).

They are CDR Roger C. Metz, USN, the Executive Officer, a member of Trinity Lutheran Church, Norfolk, Virginia; LCDR J. Marvick Swanberg, USNR, Operations Officer, a member of Grace Lutheran Church, Sisseton, S.D.; and ENS. Fred Tonsing, USNR, Personnel Officer, who is a member of the First Lutheran Church, Topeka, Kansas, where his father, the Rev. Earnest F. Tonsing is pastor.

CDR Metz's enthusiastic interest and cooperation with the religious program, and assistance with my duties as chaplain has contributed largely to the success of our program.

LCDR Swanberg, who is my Protestant Lay-Leader, has been a Lay-Leader long before coming to the TACONIC. My duties often take me, by helicopter or boat, to other ships. He is always prepared to "stand in" for the service, should weather or other circumstance prevent my return to the ship. He coordinates and sparks an effective shipwide program of Character Education and Moral Leadership.

Ens. Fred Tonsing, is Organist and Choir Director. During our six-month deployment, he organized our choir; whose service greatly enhanced our worship; and provided music for every service. At Christmas time he directed a Ship's Chorus in an excellent program of Christmas music. The scope of his activities includes repair of the pump organ as well as playing it.

Often a chaplain can point to an individual and take pride in his work for the religious program. I can point to three among others whose devotion, capable assistance, and enthusiastic support make possible a more effective ministry. Each makes his vocation a seven-day-a-week effort.

Sharing Your Experience

WEEKEND IN WORMS, GERMANY

By Doloris V. Robatcek

HAVING BEEN MARRIED to a serviceman for almost nine years, I feel I qualify as a "servicewoman." This has proven quite an experience, having been to Germany for two tours of duty. We were always fortunate in having a Lutheran Chaplain nearby — especially when our two children were both born in Stuttgart, Germany.

To me, the most outstanding experience was a Lutheran Rally which my husband and I attended in Worms, Germany. This rally was hosted by the Lutheran people of that city to dedicate a "Luther Tree." These wonderful people opened their hearts and homes to all Americans attending. We were placed in the humble home of a displaced person who must have truly been a Christian. She shared with us her food and home during a two-day stay. Having very little in wordly goods, she gave freely the best she had. We felt uneasy, thinking we were depriving her and her family of daily food. However, knowing it would offend her if we did not, we accepted her gracious hospitality.

Remembering the proud way she clasped our arms as we walked down the aisle to the front pew that Sunday morning when we worshipped with her is only one of the happy memories we share of that memorable weekend.

On our final service, in Martin Luther Square, my husband and I, with all the other Americans, joined our German hosts in singing "A Mighty Fortress is our God" — each in his own tongue. Every time I hear this favorite hymn, I can happily recall those proud voices singing "Ein' Feste Burg" — deep from their hearts.

Although there are many more happy and warm memories from this weekend, these are the highlights I remember most.

Mrs. Robatcek will be the recipient of the July $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

THE LUTHER ELM OF WORMS

THE "LUTHER ELM" of Worms, Germany, which is mentioned in Mrs. Robatcek's account above, is one of the tourist attractions of that city — at least for Lutherans.

According to one tradition, the elm gave shade to Martin Luther on his way to the Diet of Worms in 1521. According to another legend, there were two burghers of Worms who got into an argument about the religious views of Martin Luther and, while one of them poohpoohed Protestantism, the other jammed his stick in the ground shouting: "As certainly as this stick shall take root and grow into a tree, so will Luther's faith remain."

The stick took root and a tree grew. Known as the Luther Tree it outlasted weather, centuries and World War II, which destroyed the nearby Magnus Church where Martin Luther defended his faith.

However, by 1947, the old elm had rotted so badly that most of its trunk was cut up and used to carve Luther roses which were sold to raise funds for the re-building of the Magnus Church.

To preserve the remnnant of the trunk, as shown in our picture, the stub of the old elm was girdled by concrete molded to look like wood. A plaque depicting Martin Luther at the historical Diet of Worms, as well as some of the legends connected with the old tree itself, was placed on the stub.

ARE YOU PREPARED?

An Easter meditation by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

AS I PEN THESE WORDS, I have received word that a dear friend and colleague of mine is dying of cancer and has asked me to preach his funeral sermon when the time comes as his body is laid to rest in his home community.

The words that immediately come to mind are the words of Christ in John 11:25-26: " 'I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live, and whoever lives and believes in me shall never die. Do you believe this?' "

It was indeed an honor to be asked to do something like this. It was not a surprise that he would face death realistically in this way. What a privilege it is for a Christian to have such confidence—to have such a belief, "He who believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live, and whoever lives and believes in me shall never die."

I have never been able to stomach the sentimental gush that one occasionally hears where people speak jubilantly and almost flippantly of death. Death is an enemy. Death is separation from loved ones—not easy for the ones who are left behind. That empty chair at the end of the table; "Daddy" who no longer responds with fatherly care; the sorrow that comes at the loss of a loved one are realistic experiences.

The Christian has hope

But the difference is that a Christian does not sorrow as those without hope. There can still be that calm, undergirding of peace that passes all knowledge which carries a person through the troubled seas of sickness, death, the funeral, and for the closest loved ones those hours, weeks, months of initial separation which lie ahead.

This month we celebrate Easter. I am sure that for many Christians who have lost loved ones through death since last Easter the words of Christ to Mary will take on a greater significance and have a deeper meaning than ever before.

Why Some P.O.W.'s Died in Korea

CLERGYMEN MUST HELP their congregations to find moral and spiritual values that will withstand the tests of the ideological battle with Communism, an Air Force colonel told religious leaders in Milwaukee, Wis.

Speaking to some 150 ministers, priests, and rabbis, Col. Robert S. Puckett warned that the U.S. soldiers who succumbed to brainwashing in Korea were products of a culture at failed to transmit a set of values.

He said that 38 per cent of the 7,000 American prisoners died, although only about one per cent were subjected to torture or mistreatment. In contrast, there were no deaths among the 250 Turkish prisoners of war.

"Many of our boys laid down, turned their faces to the wall, and died, emotionally, morally and physically," Col. Puckett said.

Col. Puckett was one of the speakers at the first national security seminar planned exclusively for clergymen.

Sponsored by the Milwaukee area chapter of the Military Chaplains' Association, the seminar covered such topics as the theory and development of Communism, the world political and economic situation, civil defense, and freedom of the press.

Second Glance

"Question Seven," the Lutheran movie depicting Communist pressures in East Germany, received the Thomas Alva Edison Foundation's National Mass Media Award as the best film serving the national interest. It also received the Vigilant Patriot Award from the All-American Conference to Combat Communism. Now being shown in various parts of the U.S., the picture has received many honors including the best film of 1961 award from the National Board of Review's Exceptional Films Committee. It also won the 1961 Grand Prix of the International Catholic Film Office, the Catholic Film Office Prize at the Berlin Film Festival and the first prize at the Catholic-sponsored International Religious Film Festival in Austria.

A team of American Lutheran youths will go to England this summer at their own expense to hold a work camp at Hothorpe Hall, that country's internationally known Lutheran conference center in Theddingworth. The Hothorpe Hall work camp is one of ten that will be sponsored this summer by the Luther League of America. The nine other 1962 work camps will be in continental United States and the Caribbean area.

A new East German conscription law passed by its rubber-stamp parliament is expected to bring Church authorities into new conflict with the Communist regime because the law makes no provisions for conscientious objectors. Prior to its passage, the management of the Evangelical Church of Berlin-Brandenburg had urged all its pastors to stand up for conscientious objectors in the Soviet Zone and thus demonstrate that the Church's frequently expressed "protection of C.O.'s is not a hollow phrase." Communist propagandists have declared that refusal to serve in the Soviet Zone army would be a refusal to protect peace and thus "tantamount to supporting the enemies of peace."

Two Lutheran service pastors stationed 7,000 miles apart recently exchanged positions. They are the Rev. Carl M. Sitler, who had been in charge of the Lutheran Service Center at Kaiserslautern, Germany, since 1954, and the Rev. Fred T. Eggert, who had held a similar position at San Diego, Calif., since 1951.

An urgent appeal to young Germans to volunteer for service in underdeveloped countries was issued as the Protestant-sponsored "Bread for the World" campaign launched its third year at a special ceremony in Berlin. What the drive needs more than funds, the appeal emphasized, "is men who help their African and Asian fellowmen to learn how to overcome ignorance and distress themselves. Whoever volunteers for such service does more to combat hunger and sickness in the world than tons of rice and medicines can do."

Clergy Draft Exemption Questioned in Seminaries

THE REV. E. O. MIDBOE, executive secretary of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, observed after recent personal visits to 13 Lutheran theological schools that there is a "real awakening" to the needs of clergymen in trans-parochial and even non-parochial situations such as the military chaplaincy.

In commenting on the seminary visits during which he met with prospective chaplain candidates, Mr. Midboe noted that "there also seems to be a growing feeling among seminarians and some seminary presidents that our acceptance of the exemption from the draft for seminary students and pastors is an anomaly."

The assertion is heard, he related, that seminarians have not laid aside their citizen rights or their obligations just because they are attending a theological school in preparation for the ministry or are in the pastorate.

The present world situation seems to have encouraged a great amount of interest in the military chaplaincy, he noted.

Are You Prepared...

Sometimes the question is asked, "Are you prepared to die?" Here, however, we would like to ask the question, "Are you prepared to live?"—that is live eternally with God forever, to see Christ face to face, and to experience eternal life where there is no sickness, no death, no sorrow, no pain. (Rev. 21:3-4; I John 3:2)

The Christian experience is actually a day-by-day fellowship with this Christ who could say "I am the resurrection and the life." There was sorrow in the home of Mary, Martha, and Lazarus; their brother had died. "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died," is what the women said. Christ had something even greater to say; He could not only heal the sick but He could also raise the dead. After telling the women that He was the resurrection and the life, that those who believe in Him will live forever, He asked them the very pertinent question, "Do you believe this?"

Pray God for faith

To you who read this article, I would like to direct this question: "Do you believe this—that Christ is the resurrection and the life?" Pray God for such a faith. Commit yourself unto Him, your life, your whole being; surrender yourself completely. Claim Him as your own. Claim such promises as "God so loved the world that He gave His only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life." (John 3:16)

It may well be that you and I will not have the opportunity to prepare for our death and funeral service. To most people death comes very suddenly without notice and without time for preparation. How thankful you and I can be that through faith in Jesus Christ we can not only be prepared to die, but also be prepared to live eternally. Let's make this day one lived to the full for our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, so that whether we live or whether we die we are prepared to live with Him forever.

ASTRONAUT AND FAMILY 'MOST ACTIVE' IN CHURCH, THEIR MINISTER REPORTS

ASTRONAUT LT. COL. JOHN H. GLENN, JR., and members of his family are described by the pastor of Little Falls Presbyterian Church in Arlington, Va., as "just about the most active family we have in the church."

Active church membership has been so much a part of their lives, however, that they never thought there was anything special about it, the minister said.

"Col. Glenn's faith is real proof to me that science is the best friend that religion has. The advances of science bring us ever closer to God, and I derive great inspiration from the quiet dedicated faith of a man like John Glenn," said the Rev. Frank A. Erwin.

Mr. Erwin is more than a pastor to John and Annie Glenn, their son David, 16, and daughter, Lyn, 14. He is also an old hometown friend.

Col. Glenn and his wife, the former Annie Castor, grew up together in the little community of New Concord, Ohio. They belonged to the same Presbyterian church and after high school attended Muskingum College there, which is affiliated with the United Presbyterian Church. Their families were pleased when they fell in love, became engaged, and were married after Col. Glenn entered service in World War II.

Mr. Erwin came there as a student from his native Steubenville, Ohio, a couple of years after the Glenns graduated, became a close friend of Mrs. Glenn's parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Castor, and was a classmate of her younger sister in the class of 1948.

It was natural, therefore, when the Glenns moved to Arlington, a suburb of Washington, D.C., in 1958 and learned from their next door neighbor, Col. and Mrs. Thomas Miller, that Mr. Erwin was pastor of the young and growing congregation of the Little Falls Church that they began attending every Sunday.

This was before he had entered the astronaut program and they were just another couple "down the street" whom everyone liked and who soon had made many friends in both the men's and women's organizations of the Church.

"They're still just John and Annie Glenn to everyone," Mr. Erwin says. "The publicity hasn't affected them—and it hasn't affected us."

Col. Glenn went into the astronaut program, his pastor says, out of a simple sense of duty. There was a job to be done and as a veteran test pilot of the Marine Corps Air Wing, he was qualified to do it.

Neither he nor his family regarded it as any more dangerous—perhaps less so—than flying untried supersonic aircraft.

Col. Glenn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Glenn, Sr. (he is retired from the plumbing business he owned) and Mrs. Glenn's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Castor (he still practices dentistry) are close friends in New Concord and both share the faith that the space program will turn out well, regardless of the fortunes of individual astronauts who participate.

New Concord is a conservative town and Muskingum is a conservative college, having been affiliated with the former United Presbyterian Church of North America, now merged into the larger United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Church-going is part of life there and has been part of the Glenns' lives since earliest childhood. The faith in eternal human values thus nurtured now stands these families in good stead in an hour of trial.

When Col. Glenn found photographers waiting for him outside church, he chided them by telling them they should have been waiting inside, listening to the sermon.

Mr. Erwin had mentioned space exploration in his sermon, saying, "As we stand on tiptoes in expectancy concerning man's conquest of space, the amazing feats of science are apt to leave us enamored of human capabilities.

"But as exciting as inter-planetary travel may be, it is barely scratching the surface," he said, emphasizing "the majesty and power of God, the Creator."

Mr. Erwin, who has been pastor of Little Falls Church since his graduation from Pittsburgh Theological Seminary in 1951 and has watched it grow in a decade from a nucleus of a dozen families to a present membership of 1,083, thinks of the Glenns as one of the "earnest and dedicated families" who have helped make this growth possible.

AT CAPE CANAVERAL, Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. gets a "Good luck, and God bless you" as he shakes hands with the Rev. C. W. Pfeiffer after services at the Riverside Presbyterian Church. A regular church-goer, Col. Glenn once went to a minister with some questions about the possible ethical implications of space flights. After his doubts were resolved, he went on to join Project Mercury.

They attend every Sunday; Mrs. Glenn is active in the women's organization, David in the Boy Scouts and youth fellowship, and Lyn in the Girl Scouts and youth choir.

Usually this sort of family activity doesn't make headlines, but Mr. Erwin is glad that it has in this case because it helps to point out that "ours is a church-going community in the nation's capital."

"Here no one seems to feel he is too important to need God," he said. "From our Presidents on down, men who have great responsibility find need of faith and are humble before God."

LYN GLENN, 14-year-old daughter of the astronaut participates in a program at the Little Falls United Presbyterian Church in Arlington, Va. Lyn, another teenager and the church's associate minister discussed the problems and confusions of teenagers in today's world.

Sharing Your Experience:

EVERY SUNDAY IS EASTER

By Lt. Richard Bossert

ONE OF THE HIGH POINTS of the week for my wife and myself is the sharing of the worship experience together every Sunday at the Lutheran Service on Hamilton AFB, California. It may be a habit with us but a habit that is filled with deep spiritual and personal significance.

The Lutheran Service many not be held at an hour that is considered "convenient" by some people, but it is much more than a question of convenience, taste or plain enjoyment that compels this preference. It is that here, the Living Body of Christ, His Church, is functioning fully on Sunday morning. Any other worship service is vacuous in comparison.

ABOARD THE USS PROTEUS, an AS-19 submarine tender servicing the Fleet Ballistic Nuclear submarines in Holy Loch, Scotland, Chaplain W. B. Clayton, Jr., looks on approvingly as Pm3 T. E. Stamm puts the finishing touches on a "Christ the King" cross he carved for his home church, the St. James Lutheran church of Peoria, Ill. Stamm got the idea for making this gift after reading the chaplain's church equipment catalog.

We kneel in prayer before Almighty God and with true repentance and death of ourselves, we receive life from Him. This "Confession and Absolution" is an early climax of a living liturgy, yet is only a preparation for a greater commingling which is to follow.

We frequently witness the true Birth and Identification by the Holy Spirit when the Sacrament of Holy Baptism is administered.

We confess our faith in the words of a Holy Creed because we know what we believe in.

We sing to Him. We pray to Him. At every corner of the liturgy we open our hearts to Him in wonderful enduring words of surrender, acceptance and praise. "Lord, Have Mercy Upon Us"; "Glory Be to God on High"; "Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God of Sabaoth"; "O Christ Thou Lamb of God that Taketh Away the Sin of the World"; "Lord Now Lettest Thou Thy Servant Depart in Peace."

We receive His Holy Word. We receive it in the lessons from the Old Testament, from the Letters and from the Gospel of Christ. We receive it from God using His Minister to instruct and admonish us while unashamed of the fullness of His Truth. There is no need to wonder what church the chaplain represents. We know! He believes the same as we do.

Lt. Bossert will be the recipient of the April $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

We give what we have in the "offering." We offer common things, which are money and the bread and wine. We know Christ will transform what we bring to Him for His Kingdom.

Then arrives the greatest climax in our worship. We penitentially come to the altar and there receive the true Body and Blood of our Saviour, who dwells in us.

In this Service, every Sunday is Christmas, where Christ is born into our lives; every Sunday is Easter, where Christ raises us from sin and death. While every Sunday relives the Life of Christ, it is also marvelously relived through the Church Year by seasonal preparations and climaxes. It is all too beautiful, too wonderful to describe in words or music. It is the Living Church, and I thank God that in our liturgy we have been blessed with the opportunity to worship Him in this way. I am thankful to my "pastor in uniform" who makes it possible for my wife and myself, in the company of others of like conviction, to regularly receive the worship experience.

Form 3547 Requested.

LISSY JENSEN, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for March, came with her parents to the United States a number of years ago from Denmark. She has since become truly an "All-American Girl," and a very active member of the United Lutheran Church (ALC) of Douglas and Waterville, Washington.

Lissy is active in youth work, sings in the choir and substitutes as a Sunday School teacher. Her winning smile and personality make her one of the most popular young people in the Douglas High School and keep her involved in almost every activity.

Besides her church and school activities she still finds time to be an active 4-H county officer. Next fall, after graduation she plans to go into nursing, perhaps at one of our Lutheran nurses training hospitals.

She was nominated by her pastor, the Rev. James C. Jaeger, who is a chaplain (1st Lt.) of the U.S. Army Reserve.

DEFENSE IS NOW EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

THIS IS a "decade of survival" when "national security has become everybody's business," the 44th annual meeting of the National Lutheran Council was warned.

The Rev. Engebret O. Midboe, executive of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, stressed that the present international conflict—which includes economic, ideological, psychological, cultural and military aspects—is no longer the sole task of the military establishment, because:

- we are in an age of peril in which we face a ruthless enemy bent on world domination,
- we must maintain a position of strength, for the enemy is a master of exploitation of weakness,
- we are confronted with a diversity of possible war conditions,
- the shift to war economy must be instantaneous, for the shields of time and space which we have previously enjoyed are gone, and
- the goal is plain survival in the case of potential and devastating attacks.

The national strategy for meeting the threat to freedom and survival, he told the councillors, continues to be "the ultimate defeat of Communism, a strong deterrent force to guarantee against outbreak of a shooting war, a strong economy, free world alliances for mutual support, and the maintenance of world peace."

Mr. Midboe, a Reserve Army chaplain, pointed out that a realistic appraisal of the nation's role in this international conflict is necessary in order to develop programs of

ATTENDANCE GROWS AT SERVICE CENTERS

LUTHERAN SERVICE CENTERS recorded an all-time attendance high in 1961, the NLC's 44th annual meeting was told by Dr. Carl F. Yaeger, associate secretary of the Lutheran Service Commission.

The commission, a joint agency of the NLC and the Missouri Synod, maintains service centers throughout the world for men in uniform.

Dr. Yaeger, a former Navy chaplain, reported that 354,771 servicemen used LSC facilities from November 1960 through October 1961. This new record exceeds by 16,453 the previous top mark established in 1959.

He pointed out that this was not the result of the defense force buildup which gained momentum only toward the end of the year.

"Rather," he stated, "it attests to the growing effectiveness of the Church's community ministry to men and women in uniform."

As of November 1, 1961, his report listed a total of 45 LSC facilities in operation—19 service centers and 26 parish support programs. These are located in the U.S. and overseas at Tachikawa, Japan; Okinawa; Alongapo, Philippine Islands, and Kaiserslautern, Germany. LSC service pastors are also on duty in Seoul, Korea, where a center is under construction, and at Hong Kong.

"While rejoicing over attendance statistics," Dr. Yaeger commented, "the Church's satisfaction is to be found in the significant strengthening of overseas centers' spiritual ministry. The ingathering of souls comparable to and even surpassing those of the average congregation in this country is witness to the zeal and consecration of service pastors."

He pointed out that the overseas center is unique in that it projects an image of the congregation back home.

Dr. Yaeger said that in 1962 the LSC would

CHRISTMAS TREE BECOMES LENTEN CROSS: The Rev. E. W. Koberg, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, surveys an "Old Rugged Cross" made from the church's Christmas tree. During the Advent season the evergreen tree stood in the church as a "tree of life." For the Lenten season, the branches were trimmed, the top cut off and lashed to the base to form a "tree of death." Pastor Koberg, who originated the idea and plans to use it each year, said the tree thus becomes a dual symbol of the hope of eternal life for Christians. RNS Photo

Cornerstone laying ceremonies for a new $200,000 Lutheran Center were held in the business district of Dar es Salaam, capital of newly independent Tanganyika. The center is being built with aid from Lutherans in the U.S., Germany, Sweden, Norway and the Netherlands. It will house offices of the Christian Council of Tanganyika, the Federation of Lutheran Churches in Tanganyika, and the Lutheran Church of Uzaramo-Uluguru.

The Lutheran film "Question Seven" has been named the best picture of 1961 by the Exceptional Films Committee of the National Board of Review, an independent film reviewing agency. Henry Hart, chairman of the committee, said "Question Seven" received the honor because it presented, "with considerable cinematic competence, the most important theme of the twentieth century, to wit, the encroachment of the state into the realm of the individual's conscience and belief." The movie deals with the pressures exerted on a Lutheran pastor and his son in Communist East Germany.

American Lutherans in Berlin, Germany, have organized their own congregation. They hold Sunday morning services in historic St. Anne's Church in the Dahlem district. One of the two pastors regularly serving the new congregation on a voluntary basis is Dr. Frederick M. Otto, a clergyman of the United Lutheran Church in America who is the Lutheran World Federation's representative in Berlin. The other is also a ULCA minister, Chaplain (Major) Frank O. Vavrin, a U.S. Army chaplain stationed in Berlin.

A new seven-passenger plane costing 16,000 Australian pounds ($36,000) was dedicated to the use of Lutheran Mission New Guinea, the world's largest Protestant mission. The plane, a German-made Dornier DO-27, can carry a 1,000-pound load and is able to make short takeoffs and landings on jungle strips ordinarily accessible only to tiny one-passenger aircraft. Two smaller mission planes are being sold to help pay for the new craft. The rest of the cost is covered through the mission's building budget, which is underwritten by Lutheran mission agencies of the United States, Australia and Germany, together with the Department of World Mission of the Lutheran World Federation.

Every one of the 173 Veterans Administration hospitals in the United States now has the services of a Lutheran clergyman, according to the Rev. Carl R. Plack, head of the National Lutheran Council's office of chaplaincy services.

THIS CRUCIFIXION SCENE for the Dino de Laurentiis film, "Barabbas," was filmed during an actual total eclipse of the sun in Italy. The film, which will be released in the U.S. during 1962, was adapted for the screen by the poet-playwright Christopher Fry from the novel "Barabbas" by the Nobel-prize winning Swedish author Per Lagerkvist. RNS Photo ministry to those in uniform and to consider financial needs in future years.

He said that his office examined various possible activities of the U.S. ranging from "continued cold war with even a possible cutback in forces" to "broken-back war . . . . a situation when a devastating nuclear exchange has taken place and the survivors are digging out to continue the struggle."

"The Church," the Service Bureau chief stated, "is geared for the task whatever it may prove to be, and it is not anticipated that there would be an all-out frantic effort to meet the emergency."

The Service Bureau coordinates the Lutheran spiritual ministry through chaplains, contact pastors, service centers and congregations.

Pointing to an expanding area of concern, Mr. Midboe reported that there are presently 310 active contact pastors—civilian ministers whose congregations are located near military installations. They provide special services and a spiritual ministry for service personnel when Lutheran chaplains are not available.

The pastoral offices of this important group are always available, Mr. Midboe continued, and in time of emergency may provide a fast, personal service for the individual, his relatives or home pastor.

Other areas in which the Bureau has been involved during the past year include the Community Lutheran Armed Services Program, studies on evangelism in the armed forces, utilization of personnel retiring from the service, ministry at the service academies, convocations, seminary visitations, congregational follow-up of military personnel, and work on a "manual for chaplains" with the Armed Services Commission of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod which is a counterpart of the NLC's Service Bureau.

326 Lutheran Chaplains On Active Duty

THE TOTAL STRENGTH of Lutheran military chaplains at the end of 1961 was 783, including 563 from NLC bodies and 220 from the Missouri Synod. Of these, according to a report by the Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, 326 were on active duty.

The Army has 350 Lutheran chaplains of whom 126 were on active duty; the Navy has 194 of whom 67 were on active duty; and the Air Force has 239 of whom 113 were on active duty.

expand existing center facilities in places where needed and survey areas not presently served by the Commission in Western Germany, Naples, Italy, and in the U.S., with special concern for the major training centers.

He said parish program support will be considered for congregations in communities feeling the impact of the defense force buildup until the extent and duration of this is ascertained. Definitely projected, he revealed, is a facility at Santurce, Puerto Rico, and a service pastor will provide a circuit ministry in Japan.

Dr. Yaeger said completion of the Seoul, Korea, service center is expected in 1963 and an estimated $75,000 project will be started on Guam.

A thought for Lent:

GIVE UP MAKING EXCUSES TO GOD

By M. E. SCHULZ

HISTORY RECALLS the rallying call of a band of brave Texans who held out against overwhelming odds in a building known simply as the Alamo. The battle cry was: Remember the Alamo!

Striking words, these! Who hasn't heard of the Alamo and been sincerely moved by the touching, yet brave, stand of this group of nationally proud citizens? Today, that adobe hut is a historic landmark, a scenic tourists' attraction, a symbol of pride, and a reminder of the price of freedom.

History recalls another rallying call—this time far removed from our "sweet land of liberty"—a call of a mob: Crucify Him! Crucify Him! Striking words, these, for they did crucify Him, the Prince of Life. And who of us who have heard again and again the details of this sacrificial death haven't been moved—to what? to pity? to anger? That's not enough!

I give you yet another rallying slogan: Remember the Lenten Season!

This cry ought to be resounding in your hearts and moving you as the holy season approaches—moving you not to give up movies, or cigarettes, or some special pleasure in your life: not to pity or anger; not to saying: "It's Lent again. More services conducted by the Church; Wednesday nights will be taken for the next six weeks; we sing some fine hymns and hear some moving sermons."

Remember the Lenten Season by your prayers and by your penitence and by your rededication to Christ and by your love for a Savior who humbled Himself and became obedient unto death, even the death of the Cross!

For Lent isn't simply a "national holiday" of the Church—it is a season of redeemed and forgiven children of God. It is a time for a re-evaluation in the individual's heart of what Jesus means to him.

Remembering Lent means remembering sin — my sin — and it means remembering the Savior — my Savior — who with His life and death gave me new life and no death.

Remember the Lenten Season not as a matter of formality or habit, but with the conviction that through this worship each of our lives is drawn closer to Christ and all of our life is re-committed to Christ as our Savior and Lord.

Remember the Lenten Season—by remembering to come and praise the Redeemer in His hallowed sanctuary. If you must give up something give up making excuses to God.

Better than giving up something is taking up something to yourself, a Savior who loved you and died for you, and atoned for all your sin. If you do that, you are remembering the Lenten Season!

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

Japanese Crown Princess Gets Lutheran Tutor

MARJORIE MILLER, a Lutheran missionary in Japan since 1951, has been named special tutor to Japan's Crown Princess Michiko. She spends an hour every week at Togu Palace teaching the princess English poetry.

A member of the English Department of Tokyo's Christian College, Miss Miller was recommended as tutor by Dr. S. Takagi, president of the college.

A native of Pennsylvania, Miss Miller is a graduate of Lenoir Rhyne College, Hickory, N.C. She also studied at New York's Biblical Seminary before going to Japan. A member of St. John's Lutheran Church, Tremont, she is supported in the mission field by the United Lutheran Church Women and the ULCA's Synod of North Carolina and Ministerium of Pennsylvania.

Service Pastor's Dog Breaks Crime Ring

THIS IS A CRIME STORY. A true crime story which took place at the Lutheran Service Center in Olongapo, Philippines. We will let the Rev. Louis T. Buchheimer, the service pastor, tell it:

"Saturday night at 10 minutes to midnight our good dog, Amos, began to bark. I looked out of the upstairs window, but saw nothing unusual. He continued to bark, so I went downstairs to let him out. He immediately ran to the carport, and then came back to tell me: There's someone in there.

"When I came out of the house I found the two big driveway gates wide open. This could mean only one thing. Approaching the car I found the right front window smashed. I opened the front door, and there on the floor, lying face upward, we found our culprit. He was hooking up a hot wire under the dash. In two more minutes our car would have been gone.

"We got the young man out of the car, and soon the police arrived to take over. At first the fellow would not talk, but eventually he began to "sing." He named names. It developed he was mixed up with a national ring of car thieves and had been promised one thousand pesos to steal our car. Amos put a stop to that. The police now have some big names to work on in Manila and here in Olongapo.

"Amos has caught fellows on our property before, stealing our wash, digging up our sewer pipes, or dismantling our car. He has killed a three-foot snake in our house, battled it out victoriously with a four-foot lizard in the yard, chased prowlers over the fence at 3:00 a.m. But breaking up this ring of car thieves is his crowning achievement—so far.

"Meat is hard to come by over here, but on each occasion Amos has earned himself a pork chop. This time he was rewarded with two of them."

Sharing your Experience:

SERVING WITH TESTAMENT IN SHIRT POCKET

By CLARENCE W. JOHNSON

HAVING BEEN BROUGHT UP in a Lutheran home, as a teen-ager I became affiliated through our Luther League with the "Pocket-Testament Movement." In the service, this got me acquainted with one of the finest buddies I have ever had.

While I wore my uniform, I was also faithfully carrying the Testament in my shirt pocket, and one day when I pulled it out and began to read during a break, this new friend held out his hand and wanted to get acquainted: "Apparently you too are a Christian."

Together, we organized a Bible class for Christian servicemen and carried out deputation assignments to churches in the area. This was done under the name of The Fishermen group.

In England, especially, we were thrilled with the Christian associations we made. Wherever we were, we made the best of our time and made our service experience a real joy to look back on.

After four and a half years of service in Africa, Sicily, England, France, Belgium, Holland, and Germany, I returned to the home-farm I had dreamed of carrying on for my folks in North Dakota, but soon found myself unhappy in secular work and accepted a position in Alexandria, Minn., as lay-assistant to a pastor.

My service time was a happy experience because there I developed the desire to serve God through wholesome Christian buddies who were of like mind. I still correspond with many Lutheran buddies whom I met at the Lutheran Service Centers on posts where we were stationed.

Clarence Johnson will be the recipient of the March $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

PVT. GARY JORGENSEN, a Lutheran, was the 5,000th basic training graduate from the new Army Training Center at Fort Carson, Colo. He received his certificate for completing basic training from Brig. Gen. A. H. Manhart, Carson's commander. Jorgensen, who came with his parents from Norway three years ago, went to high school in Minneapolis, Minn., and attended Norwegian Lutheran church there. Although he had never before handled a M1 rifle, in training Jorgensen fired expertly.

GERMAN REDS JAIL PROTESTANT YOUTH LEADERS

THREE MEMBERS of the Protestant youth movement in Potsdam, East Germany, were sentenced by a district court to long jail terms on charges of anti-state activities, according to reports reaching West Berlin.

Church sources stressed that the charges against the three were entirely unfounded and that their trial obviously was another example of Communist persecution of young Christians because of their religious loyalties.

They were convicted of allegedly misusing their connections with West German Christian groups in Mainz and Aachen to instigate slanderous actions against the Soviet Zone.

Those sentenced included Erhard Grauer, 49, a member of the Berlin-Brandenburg Evangelical Synod and leader of the Potsdam church movement. The others were Ulrich Krueger and Christian Wendland, both 23 and members of the movement.

Mr. Grauer received a four-year term; Mr. Krueger, two years and nine months; and Mr. Wendland, two years.

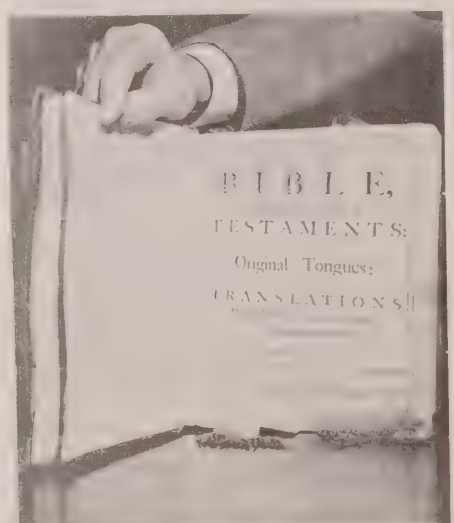
SPACE AGE DEMANDS LAY MINISTRY

THE CHURCH MUST REDISCOVER the ministry of laymen in every day life if Christianity is to make a greater impact on the new space age, a United Lutheran evangelism workshop warned recently.

Because Christians have largely failed to relate their faith to their daily lives "no clear and stable Christian image" has emerged in the 20th century, declared Dr. Frederick R. Wentz, professor of theology and ethics at Gettysburg (Pa.) Lutheran Theological Seminary.



To rectify this, he said, laymen must recognize their role in today's world and manifest a "Christian style of life that will provide God's signs for this secular age."

"We live in a day when great religions do battle for the total allegiance of men—Communism, Islam, Buddhism, Christianity," he said. "But the field of battle is not religion per se, it is the common life of secular men—politics, economics, daily-life decisions."

Another speaker urging the Church to reestablish contact with the outside world was the Rev. J. Bruce Weaver, United Lutheran director of evangelism, who proposed that this be done by small cell groups of laymen.

In this connection he noted that the United Lutheran Church was launching a program called "Witnessing in Daily Life", to train laymen to bring Christianity to those outside the Church.

"We are just beginning to realize that the first business of the official church and its clergymen is that of equipping Christians, not to be house-broken church mice but real red-blooded men and women in every context of life."

Early in February the Rev. Oscar Mikkelson will take over responsibility for the Tachikawa, Japan, Lutheran Service Center. He will replace the Rev. Glenn W. Kranzow, who is completing an overseas duty tour for the Lutheran Service Commission. Mr. Mikkelson has for the past ten years been pastor of First Lutheran Church, Northwood, Iowa.

At least 2,000 radio broadcasts and 600 telecasts produced by U.S. Lutheran groups are being presented in the U.S. and overseas each week, it was reported at a recent gathering of spokesmen for the National Lutheran Council, the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, the United Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran Church and the Augustana Lutheran Church. Major radio programs represented were "The Lutheran Hour" and "The Family Worship Hour," both produced by the Laymen's League of the Missouri Synod; "The Protestant Hour" and "Church World News," produced by the ULCA, and "Children's Chapel," a production of the NLC. Widely distributed television programs included the Missouri Synod's "This is the Life," the ULCA's "Davey and Goliath" and the NLC's "Light Time." The ULCA and NLC productions both are for young children.

The United Lutheran Church in America spent $20,000,000 on church construction in 1961. The money was used to purchase 85 sites and to construct 116 new churches and 62 parsonages.

Plans for the immediate construction of a ten-story retirement center at Waikiki Beach, Honolulu, were announced by the American Lutheran Church. An unusual feature of the Hawaiian center will be a rooftop church housing the Prince of Peace Lutheran mission congregation.

Sacred Design Associates of Minneapolis, Minn., headed by a Lutheran minister, has been commissioned to design the audio-visual exhibit of the $175,000 Protestant pavilion to be sponsored by Christian Witness in Century 21 at the 1962 World's Fair in Seattle, Wash. Sponsored by 19 denominations and 15 Christian-centered agencies, the pavilion will be dedicated to children in the space age and its central theme will be "Jesus Christ the Same, Yesterday, Today and Forever". According to the Rev. Paul F. Keller, Sacred Design President, the pavilion will use "every modern device of sound and light to impress fair visitors with the eternal character of the Church and its divine Head. The visitor, after walking on concrete floors elsewhere, will enter the exhibit by walking across an orange carpet with an inch of rubber under it. He will then move through a tunnel illuminated by a black light. Finally, he will find himself seated in a small auditorium where a dramatic sequence of sound and film will deliver the religious message.

PASTOR CALLS ON HIS MEMBERS: St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Fairfield, Calif., is located about six miles from Travis Air Force Base. About half the church's members are directly or indirectly connected with the base. Here Pastor Joel Olberg, left, of St. Mark's is shown with some of his most active members; T/Sgt. Arthur Schuck; Lt. Russel Sharples; Major John Klefstad, who is chairman of the congregation's planning committee; and Capt. Troy Hanson, treasurer of the church. Their wives, too, are active, Mrs. Klefstad as editor of the church paper, Mrs. Hanson in charge of the nursery, and Mrs. Sharples as financial secretary.

TWO AMERICAN COLONIAL CHURCHES—Holy Trinity (Old Swedes) church, left, in Wilmington, Del., and the Dutch Reformed (Sleepy Hollow) church, right, in North Tarrytown, N.Y.,—were added to the Registry of National Landmarks by the Department of the Interior. Built in 1698, the Old Swedes church is the oldest surviving Delaware Valley Swedish church. Originally Lutheran, it is now affiliated with the Protestant Episcopal Church. The exact construction date of the Sleepy Hollow church is not known, but architects believe it was erected about 1690. Washington Irving, who wrote "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow," and many other early settlers are buried in the church cemetery.

Did you really start

THE NEW YEAR IN CHRIST

By CHAPLAIN BERNT C. OPSAL, USNR

NOW THAT THE NEW YEAR has succeeded the old, when the familiar greeting, "Happy New Year", has been heard all over America and throughout most parts of the world, the question is: Was New Year really an hour for taking inventory of the three hundred and sixty-five days that passed and of reconsecrating ourselves to the Lord in preparation for the year to come?

Were we reminded of what Paul says in II Corinthians 5:17, "Therefore if any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come."

This concept of newness coincides with what Jesus told Nicodemus, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God." (John 3:3).

In Romans 6:4 Paul tells us, "We were buried therefore with him by baptism unto death, so that as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, we too might walk in newness of life."

In Paul's day there were those who suggested the wicked idea that a person should continue in sin so that he might get more of God's grace. "How can we who died to sin still live in it? Do you not know that all of us who have been baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death?" Again and again we hear this refrain of newness and renewal throughout the New Testament.

And so at the beginning of another year we would by God's grace be "forgetting what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead" (Philippians 3:13).

The future is in God's hands, not in the hands of any dictator. What matters for us is that we are in Christ. And if we are, then we are new creatures of God.

To be "in Christ" means that we trust in Him, that we believe in Him, that we are willing to follow Him and serve Him as our commanding officer. To be a soldier in Christ's army at the beginning of 1962 is the greatest honor and privilege a person can have.

This being "in Christ" you notice is a present, ongoing thing. It is a present, living relationship between yourself and Christ himself. It began in baptism and continues throughout your life as it is nournished by the Word of God and the sacrament of the altar. The question is not, "Was I 'in Christ' at one time?" but rather, "Am I 'in Christ' now?"

Not long ago I sat in a Navy brig with a twenty year old lad who had all the facts "about" Christ, but he was not "in Christ". He had rationalized the whole thing and it seemed to him too preposterous to believe. He was unwilling to let Christ capture his heart. He still wanted to be king, to run the show in his life.

The promise from God's Word is, however, if we are willing to be "in Christ", then we become new creatures of God, the old passes away and we get a fresh start as "the new has come".

We greet this New Year with a sense of thankfulness for 1961 and rededication to Christ for the tasks which await us in 1962.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

A Motorist's Prayer

LORD, impress upon me the great responsibility that is mine when I take the wheel of this automobile. As I need Thy guidance in all things, so now especially when I have life and death in my hands.

Give me always a deep reverence for and a desire to protect human life. When I would be careless, remind me of the homes where there is sorrow and loneliness, or of hospitals where broken, suffering bodies lie in anguish—because someone forgot. Write indelibly upon my conscience the fact that each time I take the wheel of my car, I am a potential murderer—that in a matter of a few careless moments, I could be face to face with dire tragedy, for my own family as well as for others.

Give me grace to practice the Christian virtues of patience and thoughtfulness at all times. Help me to show the same courtesy and kindness to other motorists that I want and expect from them.

When others exceed the speed limit or otherwise break the law, let me not be tempted to do the same. Forgive my stupidity if ever I think it is perfectly permissible to violate traffic laws, so long as I do not get caught. Remind me often that I am responsible to Thee as well to the State to obey the ordinances of the highway: and when I do not, I sin against Thee as well as against my fellow-men, even though no one else may be watching and no accident may result.

Lord, grant me control of my car—and myself—at all times. Help me to live lawfully and peaceably, to save life and not destroy it, and so by my example lead others to do the same. Amen.

This prayer by David J. Quill is available on cards from Tract Mission, American Lutheran Church, 421 South 4th Street, Minneapolis, Minn.

Here is a letter from

A TEENAGER IN HELL

By Eunice Stoa

This essay "from a teenager in Hell" received a prize at the International Luther League Convention of the American Lutheran Church. We believe that even those of you who are no longer teenagers will suffer no harm from reading it.

Dear Teenager:

I am not writing this to preach to you. Heaven knows I heard enough preaching in my day—but as you can see I never let it mean anything to me. I only want to tell you how I got here and to warn you of the nothingness in which I find myself. After all, I was living a good life. Wasn't I league secretary and a confirmed member, and, well, the works? The preaching was for the sinners—that's what the preacher said. But I came to church anyway. I came to see the cute blond and the rest of the crowd. It was always anybody's guess as to who would make it to church after Saturday night. Oh, it was fun doing all right. I always came to league, too. We even managed to get the meetings swinging enough to attract the "neater" kids. But we were good kids, don't get me wrong. We just didn't let life get dead. But, strangely enough, neither was I living.

Oh, Teenager, I know now, and I knew then, too—if I'd only had the guts to face it. I know what a farce it all was. My good life was rotten to the core—rotten with the sin I tried to ignore and to cover up with a good life. I had an empty vacuum of a soul that gnawed underneath my winning smile and fun doings. And I had to live with this—no one knew how sick I was. At least I didn't think anyone else knew or could understand. So alone I did my best to ignore the misery by living it up, so to speak. And I did my best to overcome these "character faults" which I was told everyone had to cope with. As if I really could have believed that sin could hide for long under such a disguise.

But, Teenager, how can I tell you how futile it was for me to try to save myself—to try to satisfy this sick soul by living it up, and yet present a good front and on top of all that to cope with the misery that clung as a killing dagger? But I was too proud, too self-sufficient and busy, too convinced that somehow I could win the rewards of life and so fulfill my needs. I tried to live with no purpose, no worthwhile goal, no hope. And I failed.

So you see, Teenager, neither swinging league meetings, nor lack of confirmation, nor swearing, nor living it up too much, nor skipping church sent me here as I thought it might. I sit here in total darkness because I never came to my Creator, the Living Christ, and asked Him to cleanse the evil in me. I never came and asked Him to take back the life He gave me and to use it as He pleased. He would have given a purpose to my sick sense of living—a purpose to be a witness to a Living Christ, the Savior. He would have given me a hope—a hope for eternal life with fulfillment there of all I was seeking and even more. He would have understood my state, for He became a man and died for me. He would have given me Love to fill that empty vacuum. He would have given me LIFE.

I am destitute. I have no hope. This is my life forever. All is dark and bitter. I catch myself praying to God to let me die. But here there is no God and there is no death. Teenager, meet the Living Christ before you meet eternity.

Eternally,

Teenager in Hell

What about Sharing Your Experience?

YES, we want to continue our little column, "Sharing Your Experience," on this page of the Fortress. But we miss the good stories you used to send us.

We want short reports on true experiences that can be of interest to others—stories of action, of things which actually happened in the service to you or to others.

So many of you are abroad in strange countries: Why not tell other readers of the Fortress what these lands are like? Why not send a picture along to show it?

Also, why don't you share your funny experiences, as well as the serious events in your life with spiritual significance. And when you write about the important things, why don't you tell what really happened rather than preach. Finally, please write plain prose, not poetry.

As before, there will be a $10 check for each piece we print, but, please, do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

An able organizer and worker who is never too busy to be charming and friendly, she has been president, vice president and secretary of the Luther League and currently is a staff writer of her church's monthly newsletter, while also serving as an officer in the Rural Youth organization.

"Because of the way she handles finances she generally finds herself behind bars—that is, the bars of a local bank where she has worked since graduation," her pastor, the Rev. Martin G. Kope, reported.

US Church Membership at New Record

CHURCH AND SYNAGOGUE MEMBERSHIP in America reached a record high of 114,449,217 in 1960, which means that last year, 63.6 per cent of all the people belonged to a church or synagogue.

These figures, based on reports from 259 religious bodies in all 50 states and the District of Columbia, are found in the 1962 Yearbook of American Churches published by the National Council of Churches.

Of the major religious groups, both Protestant and Roman Catholics reported gains in membership while Jewish and Eastern Orthodox membership declined.

Total Protestant membership in 227 bodies was 63,668,835 or a gain of 1.8 per cent over the 1959 membership. Catholic membership increased 3.2 per cent for a total of 42,104,900.

Jewish membership fell off 133,000 for a 1960 total of 5,367,000. The Eastern Orthodox churches reported 2,698,663 members, a decrease of 108,949 from 1959.

For the major Protestant "family" groups, the Baptist bodies reported the largest total membership of 21,148,862. Other groups were Methodists, 12,424,623; Lutherans 8,080,867 (figures released by the National Lutheran Council put total membership at 8,456,863); and Presbyterians, 4,333,249.

Other statistics in the Yearbook show that the proportion of church members to the total population has almost doubled in the first sixty years of this century—from 36 percent in 1900 to the 63.6 in 1960.

The growth of Protestantism in the U.S. is measured in a table which shows that Protestants made up 27 per cent of the total population in 1926; 33.8 per cent in 1950; and 35.4 per cent in 1960. In the same period, the Catholic population increased from 16 per cent in 1926 to 23.6 per cent in 1960.

LUTHERANS ALERTED ON COMMUNISM

THE LUTHERANS OF AMERICA are paying increasing attention to the dangers of communism, as well as the dangers of trying to combat the Red evil in the wrong way.

The United Lutheran Church in America, largest Lutheran church body in North America, is embarking on a program to educate its members on the menace of communism both as an international movement and a domestic threat, according to a program authorized by its Board of Social Missions.

The program will consist of preparing a packet of carefully selected material on communism and conducting seminars on the subject.

"There is ample evidence of a deepening and spreading fear in America over the dangers fashioned by communism in today's world, as western nations have not been impressively successful in meeting the communist challenge and often appear to have fumbled, or have at least seemed indecisive in their efforts to develop effective measures," said the Rev. Rufus Cornelsen, board director of social action.

"Therefore," he added, "it is important for Christians to understand clearly what is generally meant by the term communism, what communism essentially is, how it operates, and what measures are most effective in combating it."

"Above all," he declared, "they should learn to be on guard against quick and oversimplified answers, and the employment of methods that threaten precisely the same freedoms and values they purport to protect."

At the same time, members of the 2.3-million member American Lutheran Church were advised that communism is clearly an evil, but decisions to join anti-Communism movements should be based on "not merely the declared objectives but particularly the methods used."

A policy statement issued by the ALC Church Council called for "clear thinking as to the purpose of the church" and suggested it would be wise to stay out of anti-Communism causes "unless it is inescapably plain that this will be a means for furthering God's saving purpose for mankind."

The statement noted "the steadily growing menace of international Communism and the dangers this causes for national security have

'PARACHUTE CHURCH' was built recently in Laos when refugees who fled before the Communist invasion of Northern Laos used an old parachute to make a church "building" in a jungle encampment near Xieng Khouang. Above, the congregation is shown gathering in front of their 'parachute church' in ankle deep mud after communion service.

INSIDE THE 'PARACHUTE CHURCH' Pastor Ly Lao, who was almost killed by the Communists before he managed to escape, is shown at the communion table on which you can see empty tin cans used for communion cups. Beside Lao is his son from whom he was separated for weeks after the Communists took over the city where they lived.

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

placed congregations and members in many portions of our Church under strong pressure to join crusades or organizations to combat Communism or to lend their facilities to combat Communism."

It pointed out that there is no issue as to the position to take, that "Marxist-Leninist Communism, whether in Russia, its satellites, or China, must be condemned. It denies the Triune God, and divorces man from divinely intended fellowship with his creator . . . breeds not love but hate . . . sees man not as a person but as a thing . . ."

The issue, it was stated, concerns "the methods we use".

Congregations and church members were urged to endorse and participate in methods such as:

Study of Communist ideology and methods and of our own Christian and democratic heritage.

Developing bonds of companionship and understanding, especially with youth, members of minority or disadvantaged groups, members of the armed forces, and newcomers and foreigners in our communities.

Responsible action, including avoiding being duped into Communist or "Front" organizations, resisting possible efforts to "take over" legitimate causes, reporting to the FBI what appear to be attempts at espionage, sabotage, or other subversive activities, and remedying conditions of discrimination or injustice which may make persons susceptible to the lures of Communism.

Clarifying and emphasizing positive goals, to which persons readily can give their devotion and energies, genuinely serving "the complete well-being of all men" in our nation and in the emerging nations, and avoiding negative emphases on mere self-preservation, maintenance of the status quo, or narrow nationalism.

East German Youth Must "Volunteer" or be "Enemy"

YOUNG PEOPLE in Communist East Germany who refuse to "volunteer" for the Red People's Army are now being branded as "enemies of peace", and Protestant sources in Berlin point out that the continously increasing pressure for military service is posing a grave problem for both young Christians and the churches behind Khruschev's wall.

In the past East German Communists argued that no military conscription existed and that the East German army consisted of volunteers only.

Nevertheless, they have now begun to recruit young people into the Soviet Zone armed forces through all means of political, economic and moral pressure, and passed a law which describes military service as a "national duty".

According to Church sources quoted by Religious News Service, it is now no longer possible for young people to refuse to volunteer. Those who still dare to, are denounced as "enemies of peace."

However, if Christians volunteer, the East German armed forces subject them to increasing anti-religious and atheistic indoctrinati

Facing up to life means

FACING UP TO GOD

By Thurman C. Plexico, Jacksonville, N.C., Lutheran Service Center Pastor

SOME CIVILIANS seem to think the military are a rather strange breed of people, something like a band of gypsies. Yet those of us who have close contact with men and women in service know they are real people, who have to learn, perhaps, even more than civilians how to face the stark realities of life.

It is precisely at this point that civilians and the military have something very much in common. They must both learn to "Face up to life".

What is this thing that we call life? In simplest terms it is that which a child receives as he is conceived and begins to experience as he draws his first breath. It is basic that a person understand that he would not have this life at all unless God gave it to him.

Many people express their discontentment and anxieties by speaking in terms of their difficulty in facing up to life. But, if God gives life, then man's real problem is that of facing up to God.

The root of all the problems that perplex man is his sinful nature, which results in man's rebellion against the Creator. St. Augustine put it this way, "Our hearts are restless until they rest in Thee."

Discouragement, discontentment, anxiety, and all other ills that perplex people are nothing more than evidence that our hearts do not always rest in God as they should. Answers will come flooding in as we pray, "Lord, give us faithful hearts". In effect we are saying, "Give us a life that is full of faith."

Under his original rules, teams of nine men played on 50-foot court trying to get ball into peach baskets. RNS Photo.

When there is faith in God and trust in His promises, a man begins to realize what Christ meant when he spoke of "the abundant life". Life begins to have purpose, it begins to have real pleasure, it begins to offer true peace, it begins to have power . . . all because of His presence.

Those who really feel this presence are also aware that the only way to keep the Presence is to share it with others. This we do in Christian service and witnessing.

However, for many of us life has become so crowded with social events, parties, pointless chatter, and busy-ness that we simply dismiss the matter of Christian service by saying that we don't have time for the church, and for military people the problem becomes more complex as they have to reckon with the matter of transiency. Many will seek to avoid involvement in Christian service by avoiding contact with the local congregation or the chaplain, because, "Well, we will only be here a short time."

But the Church is the Body of Christ. It is through this Body that He gives us food and spiritual health through the Word and the Holy Sacraments. Without these we wither and die. To say that we have no time for this is to deny the God who made us, redeemed us, and continues to sanctify us.

In his book, The Valley of the Shadow, Bishop Hanns Lilje tells of the taxing hours he spent in a Nazi prison during World War II, and relates a Christmas Eve experience.

"It was terrible because a wave of sentimentality passed through the building. Everyone thought of his own loved ones, for whom he was longing; everyone suffered because he didn't know they would be celebrating the Festival of Divine and Human Love.

"With help from the writing of Isaiah, I tried to make clear the real meaning of the Christian message for ourselves, grownup people passing through a dark and difficult time."

Arrangements were made for a worship service in one of the cells. A violinist, under the sentence of death, was brought into the cell. There four of us sat together.

"At this moment, in our cells, we have practically nothing that makes the Christmas festival so familiar and so lovely, but there is one thing left to us: God's great promise. Let us cling to this promise," the Bishop told the men.

After confession was made, absolution proclaimed, and the Sacrament administered, "it seemed that the wings of divine mercy hovered over us, as we knelt on the floor of the prison cell on that Christmas Eve. We were prisoners in the power of the Gestapo—in Berlin. But the peace of God enfolded us: it was real and present.

Such a faith and attitude of trust can be ours if we realize that facing up to life can be done only as we face up to God.

A major step toward closer Lutheran cooperation was taken when representatives of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod agreed to propose the formation of a new all-inclusive cooperative agency which may, if plans are approved by the participating church bodies, replace the 43-year-old National Lutheran Council. Now cooperating in the NLC are the United Lutheran Church, the American Lutheran Church, the Augustana, the Lutheran Free Church, Suomi Synod and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church with a total of over 5.5 million members. If the Missouri Synod and some of the smaller bodies now outside the NLC should join the proposed new agency, it would bring together over eight million Lutherans.

For the first time in its history the American Bible Society will include a "Cold War Emergency Fund" in its 1962 budget, for countering Communist-atheistic propaganda offensives throughout the world with intensified distribution of Scripture. Last year the United Bible Societies, with whom the American society cooperates, distributed a record number of 34,695,000 Bibles or portions of Bibles throughout the world.

A strong plea that all Lutheran congregations prepare their young men better for military draft, was issued by Chaplain Engebret O. Midboe, executive of the NLC Bureau of Service to Military Personnel. Writing in the November issue of The National Lutheran, monthly magazine of the NLC, he stressed especially that in our times "the church must teach her people what the Christian faith has to say about the current atheistic Communistic aggression."

The tenth anniversary of Lutheran mission activity on Taiwan was recently observed on the island held by Chinese Nationalists. Since the first Lutheran congregation was organized at Kaohsiung late in 1951, the Taiwan Lutheran Church has grown to a membership of 5,474, with 21 congregations and 21 preaching places served by five Chinese pastors and about 30 missionaries.

A Lutheran has been named U.S. Ambassador to Lebanon. He is Armin H. Meyer, a member of Grace Lutheran Church in the nation's capital where he served up to his ambassadorial appointment as assistant secretary of state for Near Eastern and South Asian Affairs.

A weekly ten-minute religious program, intended especially for East Berliners and East Germans, has been started by a West Berlin TV station. Entitled "From the Christian World," the program features reports, commentaries and documentary films on the life and work of the Christian Churches.

In a referendum in the 331 congregations of the Lutheran Free Church, more than two thirds agreed to merge the 87,250-member LFC with the 2,300,000-member American Lutheran Church.

Okinawan Home Away From Home

SERVICE CENTER IS A CONGREGATION

By Erik W. Modean, NLC News Bureau

THE OVERSEAS Lutheran Service Center is no longer solely "a home away from home" for the lonely serviceman.

Today, the Center still serves the single man in the Army, the Navy, the Air Force and the Marines. But things have changed. Something new has been added. Relaxation in a comfortable lounge, television, a friendly round of pool, ping pong, shuffleboard or table games, the snack bar with hamburgers, sandwiches, milk shakes, soda pop and ice cream, to say nothing of coffee, are all part of the program, of course, but it is not the total program.

The chapel is the heart and soul of the Service Center. From this emphasis radiates an ever-expanding array of religious activities which has transformed the overseas Center into a counterpart of the congregation back home.

In the face of new needs and greater demands, the Center has developed a dynamic program that is inseparably welded to the concept of Christian family, reaching out not only to the single servicemen, but to those who are married and to their wives and children as well.

The ministry of Word and Sacrament has always been paramount in the operation of Service Centers over the past decade, under the joint auspices of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

In wartime, this, perhaps, was enough; it was, in fact, all that could be done. In the years of uneasy peace, the situation has changed radically, due to the influx of thousands of dependents at foreign military bases throughout the world.

For them, both wives and children, boredom is a major enemy. For them, the Service Center affords a welcome opportunity to participate in a meaningful congregational life, patterned on that which they had known in the States. It's hardly surprising that one of every three persons listed on the attendance roll of the Center is a dependent.

We found a striking example of this broadened ministry at the Lutheran Service Center on Okinawa, a bloody battleground in World War II which the United States has now built into a massive military bastion in the Pacific.

"There is a Christian family overseas, a Lutheran family overseas, and it is our responsibility to serve them as well as the single man", said Chaplain (Lt) Edward L. O'Shea, acting director of the Center.

"The Service Center provides the military member and the dependent an opportunity to express their off-duty and leisure time in a Christian environment, through worship, education and recreation," he added.

"The Center provides a place for Christian worship, for religious education, for recreation within a spiritual framework, and the opportunity to express personal Christian concern in service."

On the latter point, he noted particularly the results of a recent drive to recruit Sunday school teachers. It added 37 new teachers to the staff of 14, made possible two teachers per class. And all underwent a four-week basic teacher training course.

With the stress on an overall ministry at the Center, the single serviceman becomes identified with the families, participating in the Luther League or Youth Fellowship, the Senior Choir, the picnics, the beach parties and other congregational activities. He becomes part of the Christian community.

Attendance at the Center averages between 3,500 and 3,700 per month, often zooms over 4,000. One month, for example, those using the Center included 2,200 military and 1,200 civilians or dependents. Another month the ratio was 2,500 military, 1,500 civilian. Figures go down somewhat during the typhoon season; Typhoon Tilda in early October, a 150-mile-an-hour blow, wrought such havoc on the island that the Center was closed for three days.

The emphasis of a Center serving not only military personnel but their families as well is found at other overseas Centers—Tachikawa, Japan; Olongapo, Philippine Islands; and Kaiserslautern, Germany.

History's Most Significant Birth

By Dr. Alvin N. Rogness,
President, Luther Theological Seminary

THROUGHOUT MORE THAN NINETEEN HUNDRED YEARS the world has prepared, as now, to celebrate the most significant birth in all history. This was the Child whom the prophets foretold, whom the angelic hosts heralded, whom the shepherds and the Wise Men came to see, and to whom mankind has since bowed in homage as to none other. The birth of this child left history in two, so that every date before and after now bears the label B.C. or A.D.

How easily man stumbles over the lesser miracles and fails to see that in Christmas he confronts the Himalayas of wonders. The major premise of Christmas is that the eternal God, who made the heavens and the earth, has become incarnate in this laboring man of a despised people. How strange that in coming to earth, God should have elected to appear in the form of one who would be scorned and rejected and at last shamefully crucified on a cross.

The alternative to this is equally perplexing. If the birth in Bethlehem were but another ordinary event and the matchless life of Jesus merely another in the long parade of human idealists, how will we explain away nineteen hundred years of Christendom, a power which has unloosed unparalleled resources for human betterment throughout these centuries? To interpret this in human terms or naturalistic phenomena is as absurd and incredible as to assert that Jesus was God. Absurd or not, millions of people in all generations have confessed the faith of the poet's words:

I know not how that Bethlehem's Babe
Could in the Godhead be.
I only know the Manger Child
Has brought God's life to me.

Thirty-three years after this Bethlehem night, Jesus stood before Pontius Pilate in the Roman judgment hall. Pilate asked Him, "Art thou a king then?" Jesus' reply was the answer of a madman or God: Yes, I am a king; but my kingdom is not of this world. But I am a king. To this end have I been born, and to this end am I come into the world.

Year after year you and I have taken Christmas quite in our strides. Its totally unique and preposterous origin is likely to escape us. Try transporting yourself back to Jerusalem. Imagine that you are hearing for the first time this claim of a quiet peasant from a northern village. He declares that He is God, the King of all kings, the Lord of all lords. To Pilate it sounded like a simpleton's drivel; to the high priest it seemed sheer blasphemy. To stop him from stirring up the rabble into some new folly, they put Him to death.

By all standards of statesmenship the matter should have stopped there. But the kingship of Christ did not burst as a bubble at three o'clock that Friday on Golgotha's hill.

An Easter resurrection and a Pentecost rocketed His claim out into the years. And today, although we live in a space age, the claim of Christ rulership is as tormenting and tantalizing as it ever was. He constantly intrudes His claim into your heart and mine. If we disavow Him, we are left haunted by a sense of emptiness or of shame worse than if we had trampled upon our flag.

ADORATION OF THE MAGI by Albrecht Durer was reproduced in colors on this 1961 New Zealand Christmas stamp. New Zealand first issued a special Christmas stamp in 1960, and it proved so popular that it will be repeated annually.

It is nothing short of horror to have someone from centuries ago keep reappearing as if in continuous reincarnation, pressing His totalitarian claims upon every generation. It would be horror if it were any other than Jesus—if it were Alexander or Nero or Genghis Khan, or Hitler. But Jesus comes so near to "the heart's desire" of every man and woman who loves the truth, that His intrusion touches the longings and the yearnings of humankind. It is not horrible but beautiful to have the "hopes and fears of all the years" converging in the streets of Bethlehem.

As we ponder Christ's claim to kingship, let us fix clearly in our minds what such rulership implies. A man becomes a president by election; he becomes a dictator by revolution; but a king is king by birth. Christ's rulership of earth is not conditioned upon a majority vote. If every person on earth these nineteen hundred years should have disclaimed Him, that would not affect in the least the validity of His claim. If we should today vote unanimously that the sun should no longer be the sun, the sun would continue to shine as tranquilly after our vote as before. If we should all agree that hereafter two plus two should equal five and not four, our agreement notwithstanding, two plus two would go on equalling four.

We do not change truth; truth changes us, depending on whether we adhere to it or not. Whether we adore Christ or despise Him does not change His status. It is our own status that is changed. To disobey this King does not dethrone the King; it only makes the de-

Lutherans played a most prominent part in the Third Assembly of the World Council of Churches at New Delhi, India, November 18-December 6. Dr. Gottfried Noth, Bishop of Evangelical Lutheran Church of Saxony, East Germany, was the keynote speaker. Also delivering major addresses were, Dr. Joseph A. Sittler, professor of the Theological Faculty of the University of Chicago; and Archbishop Gunnar Hultegren of the Church of Sweden. As chairman of the Council's Central Committee, Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, presided over several of the business sessions. Off-stage, in charge of preparations for the gathering of more than 1,000 leaders from 175 member churches, was the Rev. Jens J. Thomsen, a Danish Lutheran pastor.

Four Lutherans were addressing U.S. armed forces gatherings in Europe this last fall and three of them were related to each other. Participating in religious programs sponsored by the Army and Air Force were, Federal Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, a former governor of Minnesota, and his son, the Rev. L. William Youngdahl, who is pastor of St. Stephen Lutheran church in Minneapolis. Also invited was Mrs. Clarence T. Nelson, wife of the pastor of Augustana Lutheran church in the nation's capital, who happens to be a sister of Judge Youngdahl.

"This is the Life," a 30-minute filmed TV dramatic series produced by the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, entered its 10th anniversary year with an estimated 10,000,000 weekly viewers over 300 stations. When introduced in 1952 over six stations, "This is the Life" was a pioneer in the dramatic format for religious programs. It has been on the air perhaps longer than any other 30-minute filmed dramatic series.

The first permanent house of worship for the first Lutheran congregation in Australia's capital, St. Peter's Memorial church, was consecrated this fall. Lutheran worship services will be held there in English, Latvian, Estonian, Finnish and German.

East German Communists are using the Bible in an effort to persuade "lukewarm" members of the intelligentsia to "make a decision finally for peace and socialism" by participating actively in the development of the Red satellite state. Prof. Kurt Hager, a leading East German propagandist, was reported as saying that "one was often tempted to quote from the Revelation of St. John 3:15-16)." The quotation is: "I know thy works, that thou are neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot. So because thou art lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I will spew thee out of my mouth."

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

HISTORY'S . . .

throner a rebel. If all the world should plunge on in its selfish and chaotic way, heedless of Christ its King, the world could at last lie in utter ruin, all life destroyed, but Christ would remain as much a King as ever.

Most of us misunderstand the inner nature of power. We imagine that to the degree that we possess power, to that degree can we become independent, and in this independence separate ourselves from others. The precise contrary is the case.

If you are strong, your strength is for others to lean on. You think that your strength will enable you to shake yourself free from everything weak. Instead, your very power entitles the powerless to cling to you as chips of iron to a magnet. It entitles life's structure to rest on you as on a pillar. If you refuse to let your power be used as a pillar or girder for others to rest upon, you violate the intrinsic nature and purpose of power.

To whom much is given, of him shall much be required. On him who is strong all others must depend. Christ claimed all power in heaven and earth, and He went unflinchingly on to the inevitable consequence of wielding such power. He who was King of all became the Servant and Savior of all. The cross becomes His unmistakable claim to the crown. It is when power expresses itself in the language of love that we have the clue to heaven.

He came to this earth a child in a Bethlehem stable. He grew up in the home of a carpenter. He taught under the open sky along the shore of a lake. People heard him gladly because His words carried the authority of truth and of love. It took a resurrection and the outpouring of the Spirit to open their eyes to His power and glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father. But their eyes once opened, they became the tireless apostles of the glad good news. God had visited His peopled with salvation! The doors of heaven were opened! Man could live with God. He could be forgiven and restored! All the enterprises of earth became the stage for a mission in which love was joined with power to remake the world.

Christmas becomes at once past, present and future. He who came to redeem the world is with us still, entering hearts that will open to Him to bestow strange comfort and courage, moving quietly through time and powerfully through the events of history. And at last He will come in glory to give humanity a new heaven and a new earth.

Ground was broken recently in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, for the studios and administration building of the 100-kilowatt radio station which the Lutheran World Federation Broadcasting Service will operate. When completed, it will be one of the largest and most far-reaching religious broadcasting centers in the world.

U.S. urged to oppose international evil

THIS COUNTRY must back up its belief in international morality "with every ounce of power it possesses," Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., told some 1,000 Disciples of Christ laymen gathered in Kansas City, Mo.

"Our religion preaches a Gospel of peace", he said, "but it has been forced to wage a relentless war against the forces of evil, both to keep from going downhill before them and to fulfill its moral obligation to oppose them for the greater good of humanity."

"Our military forces," declared Mr. Stahr, a member of the denomination, "have been raised to their present level—the strongest in our peacetime history—in order to defend the nation against international forces of evil, not only for the sake of survival, but for the reason that it would be morally wrong not to oppose them."

The U.S. must take the lead against such evil forces, he continued, "because we are the strongest nation on earth. We, in coordination with our allies in the free world, comprise the only hope for halting the spread of international communism."

"To stand idly by when we have the strength to right a wrong—certainly as monstrous a wrong as communism perpetrates upon mankind—is as immoral as doing wrong ourselves," Mr. Stahr asserted.

"The threat facing us is not merely a physical or material one. It is fundamentally one of spiritual values. When we take a stand against it, therefore, we are crusading literally for the minds and souls of men."

"QUESTION SEVEN" GETS HIGHEST CATHOLIC FILM AWARD

CATHOLICS have given their highest film award to "Question Seven," a Lutheran movie.

The 1961 Grand Prix of the International Catholic Film Office went to the Lutheran movie after competition in Assisi, Italy, in which an international jury of Catholic film reviewers spent a week evaluating feature motion pictures.

To be eligible for competition, films must have won prizes at other Catholic festivals or been nominated by national Catholic film offices.

"Question Seven", which was produced in Germany by Louis de Rochemont Associates for Lutheran Film Associates, had already won several Catholic awards.

It earned the International Catholic Film Office Prize at the Berlin Film Festival, one of the four top awards at the London Catholic Film Festival, a "special accolade" and A-1 rating from the National Legion of Decency in America, and an endorsement from the Catholic Film Guild of Germany.

The movie, which depicts Communist pressures on a Lutheran minister and his son in East Germany, was hailed by film critics in New York for its timeliness and dramatic impact in view of the present Berlin crisis.

At the film festival in Assisi, the jury was composed of experts from Canada, France, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Egypt, and Luxembourg.

Besides "Question Seven," the other American films considered in the final judging were "St. Francis of Assisi," "Hoodlum Priest," "Sunrise at Campobello," "Raisin in the Sun," "Pollyanna," and "The Sundowners."

GROUND BROKEN FOR LUTHERAN SERVICE CENTER IN KOREA

THE LUTHERAN SERVICE COMMISSION announced an expansion of service centers in the United States and overseas, when ground was broken recently for a new Lutheran service center in Seoul, Korea, and a formal opening took place at the new location of the San Antonio, Texas, Lutheran service center.

The building of the new center in Seoul was begun "after many frustrations and delays due to the fluctuating political situation in South Korea," Dr. Carl Yaeger and Chaplain Raymond C. Hohenstein, LSC associate executive secretaries stated.

An L-shaped building will provide worship, relaxation and recreation facilities for U.S. military personnel on a location near the main armed forces supply route in Korea. Plans are for the $34,000 service center to house a game room, hobby and lounge area, snack bar and a place for worship. In addition, the one-floor building will have showers and lockers, a caretaker's quarters and a service pastor's study. It is hoped that the service center will be in operation by early 1962.

Stateside, the relocation of the Lutheran service center at San Antonio, Texas will help to meet the needs of the increasing number of servicemen in that area of the country. The facilities are greatly expanded.

A joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, the LSC is now in its 11th year.

CHERYL RINGEN, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for December, is a member of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, Brodhead, Wisconsin.

In high school, from which Cheryl graduated last spring, she was active as cheerleader, member of the chorus, band member and president, Glee Club member, Pep Band director, school paper editor, Future Teachers Association president, Latin Club treasurer and secretary, Thespian Club, forensics participant, Sr. Class play member, Student Council member, Class secretary and treasurer, on the Homecoming Court, Librarian, Latin Club Queen.

Somehow she also found time to be active in other community and church activities.

She was Green County Dairy Queen runner-up, active in the Luther League, Bible Camper, Choir member, Sunday School teacher, and delegate to various Luther League conventions.

This fall Cheryl enrolled at Luther College, Decorah, Iowa.

According to the Rev. Ramon A. Runkel, her pastor, "Cheryl is the kind of person that carries her positive Christian witness with such enthusiasm and concern that it reaches many."

THE REV. GERALD E. KUHN, pastor of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Falls Church, Va., is placing a "Motorist's Prayer" sticker on his dashboard in picture at right. The small bronze sticker bears a "Motorist's Prayer," (shown in insert) to remind the driver of his Christian responsibility each time he enters his automobile. Individual stickers are available from The Lutheran Hour, 2185 Hampton Ave., St. Louis 10, Mo.

Sharing your Experience:

WHAT ABOUT BEING GENUINELY HUMAN?

By Pfc Philip Paul Plant

WE STOPPED at a gas station to purchase gasoline for our impending trip to Tacoma primarily to escape the monotony of army life by indulging in social activities devoid of military cadence.

Silently we waited for the attendant when suddenly the silence was broken by a skinny kid named Bobby."You know?" he remarked with a remote gleam in his eyes, "I would like to be genuinely human."

"What?" responded Billy, an obese cynic from New York.

Bobby continued, "To not regard myself as a Negro, democrat, soldier or an American or anything, but a human being."

"Huh?" Tom mocked vaguely.

"You know what I mean, to be free of classifications . . . to converse with a person whose principles, region or physique differs from my own without feeling uneasy or quarrelsome."

Billy didn't say a word. The other occupants were oblivious to the discussion. I entertained the idea, not a novel idea; naive in a sense, but very comforting. He was depicting a world free of belongers. A future place where differences are minimized to superficial insignificance and are not responsible for sharply defined caste systems, where religions join forces, where countries serve mankind, where God is seen in his true light of attainable perfection and not dragged in murky waters by the uncomprehending, the power seekers and the fools.

Christ loved humanity. He died so that mankind would realize that identification with God was more important, more eternal than association with man-devised cliques.

Turning to Billy, Bobby said, "Fool, are you not vaguely cognizant of the joy and peace of being at one with God and Humanity?"

"Oh man! . . . . you're crazy!" Billy shouted angrily.

Quietly Bobby answered, "Perhaps I am, perhaps I am."

Pfc. P. P. Plant will be the recipient of the December $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC is as important to PFC Robert D. Trapp of 2nd Training Regiment, Fort Carson, as it is to the famous singing Trapp family whose story is told in the Broadway show, Sound of Music.

He is volunteer choir director for two chapels and has organized a choir program and instrumental ensemble for a Christmas program.

No relation to the musical Vermont Trapp family, Carson's Trapp comes from Russell, Kans., where he was minister of music for St. John's Lutheran Church. In duty hours Trapp is a clerk and secretary at regimental headquarters.

SOVIET NOW OK'S WEDDING RINGS

SOVIET CITIZENS shouldn't worry about wearing wedding rings because "there's nothing blameworthy in this popular custom when purified from ecclesiastical influence."

This was the Moscow Radio's assurance to queries it said it has received from a number of Russian soldiers.

It said that "although in the past, the rings were symbols of church weddings, nowadays atheists, and even Communist Party members were wearing them, since they no longer have any religious associations."

"The Communist state," the station added, "is interested in strengthening Soviet family life, and wedding rings seem to symbolize for all those who wear them that their lives are bound together."

Urgent Call for More Lutheran Chaplains

MILITARY OFFICIALS have asked the National Lutheran Council to provide 43 additional Lutheran chaplains for active duty immediately.

The Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, said that this was the largest group asked for since the Korean war.

He reported that the services have requested him to aid in securing 33 Lutheran chaplains for the Army and 10 for the Navy at the earliest possible date.

Mr. Midboe said a letter he received from the chief of Army chaplains points up the urgency of this extensive manpower increase.

"The call to service of young men necessary to meet the demands of national defense is accompanied by an urgent requirement for Army chaplains to serve their religious needs in the crucial days ahead," wrote Chaplain (Major General) Frank A. Tobey.

"I am under pressing obligation," he continued, "to appeal to you for immediate assistance . . .

"The cooperation and support of your office in past emergencies are recorded in the annals of a grateful nation, and I am confident that you will again exert every effort to meet the spiritual needs of those who are now called upon to provide for the national defense."

Lutheran ministers interested in the military chaplaincy must meet the specific requirements of the armed forces and their Church, Mr. Midboe said.

"For example," he explained, "a prospective chaplain must not have reached his 33d birthday and must be found physically qualified for general service."

Mr. Midboe said the Service Bureau has begun accepting applications to meet the request for 43 active duty chaplains.

"So urgent is the need for Lutheran ministers in the Army," he emphasized, "that applications should be submitted at the earliest possible moment."

Before this call was issued, there were 215 NLC chaplains on active duty, with 74 in the Army, 58 in the Navy and 83 in the Air Force.

There are 72.5 million Lutherans in world

MEMBERSHIP IN LUTHERAN CHURCHES around the world increased by more than a million last year to reach a total of 72,588,559, according to official figures published in the new Lutheran World Federation Directory.

The gain in membership of 1,486,779 contrasts with the figures for 1960 when the total world-wide membership showed a net loss of 33,288.

Of the 1961 total membership, 49,864,308 or roughly 70 per cent, of the members belong to the 62 churches which make up the LWF.

The new statistics show 60,088,648 Lutherans in Europe, with 37,860,267 of them belonging to Germany's Lutheran churches.

North America's Lutheran membership of 8,456,863 is second only to Germany's total.

Total Lutheran memberships on other continents: South America, 853,373; Asia (and adjacent islands), 1,513,259; Africa (and Madagascar), 1,349,883; and Australia, New Zealand and New Guinea, 351,980.

Second Glance

An agreement to establish the Lutheran Church in America by merger in June, 1962, of four church bodies, was signed by the presidents and secretaries of the four uniting bodies: Dr. Franklin Clark Fry and Dr. George Harkins of the United Lutheran Church in America; Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen and Dr. Verner Swanson of the Augustana; the Rev. A. E. Farstrup and the Rev. W. R. Garred of the American Evangelical Lutheran Church, and Dr. Raymond W. Wargelin and the Rev. Philip A. R. Antilla of the Suomi Synod. The new Church with over 3,000,000 members will start functioning on January 1, 1963.

Some 10,000 quilts for the use of Chinese refugees who are forced to sleep in the streets of Hong Kong will be manufactured out of 256 bales of U.S. Government-donated cotton recently shipped to the Crown Colony by Lutheran World Relief. It is estimated that at least 50,000 of the 750,000 refugees from Red China who have flooded Hong Kong sleep in the streets because no other accommodations are available to them.

A total of 364 Lutheran pastors in the United States are engaged in welfare chaplaincy work, 301 full-time and 63 part-time, in hospitals, prisons and institutions requiring services of non-military chaplains.

The Russians are establishing a large government printing plant in Kiev solely for the printing and distribution throughout the world of atheistic books and pamphlets in many languages, it was reported by Radio Kiev.

The Lutheran Bible Institute recently opened a new campus nestled in 30 acres of suburban Golden Valley near Minneapolis. Three buildings and landscaping cost $1,750,000. Classroom facilities are designed to handle 800 students, though this fall only 300 attend. Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, a frequent contributor to the Fortress is president of the LBI.

MARTIN LUTHER was honored in Germany for the first time on a postage stamp designed for regular use. He is pictured on the 15-pfennig value of a new set being issued by the German Federal Republic for use in West Germany and West Berlin. The Reformation leader has been pictured twice before on commemorative stamps of Germany and the Saar, but never on a stamp for regular postage use.

THANKSGIVING IN A RICE FIELD: In a field of ripened rice on the campus of International Christian University in Japan, near Tokyo, an American and two Japanese students pose prayerfully to mark the bountiful crop in observance of the country's Labor-Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 23. The day is dedicated to the workers in both industry and agriculture. For the sixth straight year, the Japanese are harvesting a big rice crop, thanks chiefly to superior strains. The university maintains an 80-acre tract for cultivating rice and vegetables and for dairy farming. Mission boards of 15 major Protestant denominations in the U.S. and Canada help support the 11-year old school. RNS Photo

EVERY ONE OF THE FIFTEEN BRIDES who got married at this mass ceremony in Tapei (left), the Free Chinese capital, was a protege of the Foster Daughters' Protection Association of Taiwan. All received gifts (right) from the Taiwan Christian Service, an agency supported by many Christian organizations including Lutheran World Relief. Many parents on Taiwan are still, according to ancient custom, giving away their baby-girls to "foster parents" in exchange for gifts or for cash, mostly because they believe that in this way their daughters will be taken care of better than they could themselves. Sometimes it does work that way, but of the 94,000 "foster daughters" in Taiwan, an estimated 30,000 are mistreated, forced to work long hours for low pay and even sold to houses of prostitution. The Foster Daughters' Protection Association tries to help such unfortunate girls in all possible ways, and—on this occasion—made it possible for 15 girls to marry husbands of their own choice. The main stumbling block was the financial demands of parents and "foster parents", but the association negotiated and most settled for a compensation of about $75 (U.S. dollars) for the release of a girl. However, one groom, a bus driver, paid $250 for his bride. The gifts given to the brides by the Taiwan Service consisted mostly of daily necessities.

THE GREAT LAKES BLUEJACKET CHOIR

By Hugh F. Lecky, Jr.

EXPECTATION filled the chapel. There was not a nervous cough or murmur of voices, only the silence that precedes a great event.

Then a voice, full and confident, was heard expressing God's great love to man. Soon it was joined by many and the praise and adoration of "God most High" filled every heart gathered for divine worship. Just as beautifully the voices waned, but the message remained in the silence that again filled the chapel.

This majestic moment occurs every Sunday morning in the Chapel-by-the-Lake, U.S. Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois, a re-creation by the 40-voice Bluejacket Choir.

The Bluejacket Choir director, Mr. E. D. Sandager, was born in Saskatchewan, Canada, where his father, a Lutheran pastor, the late Rev. C. N. Sandager, was president of Outlook College. His early life was spent in Alberta, Minnesota and North Dakota.

The Bluejacket Choir . . .

. . . and director Sandager.

Director Sandager enlisted in the North Dakota National Guard in 1939, served with the Army and Air Force during World War II and was released from active duty in 1946 with the rank of Captain.

Mr. Sandager earned his Bachelor of Arts degree in music at Concordia College, Moorhead, Minnesota, and pursued post graduate work at the University of North Dakota. He taught public school music in North Dakota and Minnesota before his appointment in 1956 as the only full-time civilian choir director for the United States Navy.

The Great Lakes Bluejacket Choir has had a long and fabulous history. The Choir was organized in 1940 by a Lutheran Navy Chaplain, Hjalmar (Spike) Hanson, at the United States Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Illinois.

By the end of the war more than 7,000 men had been members of the Bluejacket Choir. Sixty-three of the crew aboard the USS LEXINGTON were Choir alumni. One day during the war when the LEXINGTON was in grave danger the crew rallied around these men, for they were singing the "Hymns of the Church" as they had learned them at Great Lakes.

With the advent of the Korean hostilities, the number of men at Great Lakes increased greatly, and the Bluejacket Choir was reorganized.

The Choir's repertoire includes all types of music from Bach chorales to hits from Broadway musicals. Its library is one of the finest in the world, now numbering over 700 selections arranged for men's voices. Since the Choir has achieved its fame by singing the "Hymns of the Church" it has not deviated from the policy of using some sacred music in every concert appearance.

Many distinctions and honors have been given to "Sandy" and the Choir, including the one from the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Arleigh Burke, who wrote: "Being a fond admirer of music and a self-appointed critic as well, I want to compliment you for having such a fine organization—they do a marvelous job. When I think of the turnover of personnel which is always present in your command I am pleasantly surprised at how you are able to maintain the high standards these lads displayed. They were a real testimonial to the results of fine leadership and talent which obviously exist in your command.

"Please express my deep appreciation to all hands responsible and particularly to the fine lads of the Choir."

The Lutheran Church ought to be proud of this director who so proudly bears its name in the daily practice of his faith, as he ministers through the music of praise and adoration.

CHAPLAIN'S WIFE BROADCASTS FROM BERLIN:

Mrs. Frank O. Vavrin, whose husband, a chaplain of the United Lutheran Church in America, is stationed in Berlin with the 6th Infantry, is heard on two Armed Forces Network-Berlin radio programs. On a five-minute program heard throughout Europe she is asking several times each week: "What's Cooking?" and, in return, receives about 80 pieces of mail with requests for recipes. On "Coffee with Jean", a 15-minute weekly program, she brings U.S. military personnel and dependents living in Berlin up-to-date on women's activities, school affairs and human interest items.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

Sharing your Experience:

I WAS A TEEN AGE GANGLEADER

By Alma L. Hays

WHEN I WAS SIXTEEN, my utmost desire was to become the leader of a gang of teenagers I ran around with. I planned dances, parties, hikes, swimming, and plenty of mischief, and, after months of effort, I achieved my leadership.

Then one night I took my gang to a country revival for the purpose of watching the goings-on so I could put on a mock service at the next party of my gang. But the preaching was so very good that it made me realize my lost condition, I was willing to give up my hard-earned gang leadership to become a Christian, and when I stood up in front of the church a saved person, to my amazement most of my gang came down the aisles and were also saved.

My prayer was then, and still is, Lord help me always to be a gang leader for you.

Now I have followed my Air Force husband for sixteen years. Our four children are Christians. I have led people to Christ all over the United States and may God give me grace to lead others.

Mrs. Hays will be the recipient of the November $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

Pastor asks relief from East German Citizenship

A LUTHERAN PASTOR in East Germany wrote to the Dresden District Council asking to be relieved of his East German citizenship "in protest against the pressure" exerted by the Communist regime, but was later reported to have withdrawn his request at the suggestion of the management of the Lutheran Church of Saxony.

He asked that he and his family be given a stateless status because "as Christians we cannot approve of a state which recognizes only citizens professing a 'socialist conscience'. Since such a conscience must necessarily be atheistic, we Christians are unable to profess ourselves as East German citizens."

The clergyman's petition stirred a large-scale Communist propaganda campaign marked by public meetings at which Bishop Gottfried Noth, head of the Saxony Church, was asked how long his Church would "tolerate people like Hertel in its ranks."

Meanwhile, in Rostock a Communist district court sentenced two leaders of the Protestant youth movement to eight years at hard labor and gave ten other youngsters jail sentences from three months to two years. All were accused of having denounced the blockade of the East-West Berlin border, smuggling anti-state publications from West Berlin into the Soviet Zone, attending the German Evangelical Church Day Congress in West Berlin, and singing "hatred and murder songs."

In reporting the sentences the Soviet Zone press charged that most of the accused "had turned criminals under the influence of the NATO Church."

LUTHERAN TV PROGRAM SUCCEEDS

LIGHT TIME, the National Lutheran Council's successful television program, was recently selected for showing at the 1961 American Film Festival in New York City.

The program is currently being broadcast over 132 TV stations in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Philippines and even Australia.

The 15-minute weekly Light Time series consists of variety programs using puppets, animated cartoons and live action to explore the Christian meaning of honesty, truth, respect for parents, ridicule, envy, authority, forgiveness and how to cope with fears.

Primarily aimed at children, especially the non-churched children, Light Time has become increasingly popular among grown-up television viewers as well.

Over 10,000 Lutherans to Enter Armed Forces

OVER 10,000 LUTHERANS are expected to be called into military service as a result of the President's increase of the armed forces.

The Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, said it would be reasonable to assume that out of the revised authorized military strength of 2,735,000, about 137,000 service people would come from Lutheran churches.

In addition, he went on, there would be more than 50,000 dependents.

"That means 500 congregations of 375 members each," he said, "which is no small slice out of the Lutheran churches of America!"

Commenting on the increase of U.S. armed forces personnel, Mr. Midboe urged congregations to examine the methods they use to keep in touch with their men and women in service.

Christians should make sure, he said, that their young men away from the home community for the first time should hear from their home congregation at least once a month—and better yet, every week.

"Most important," he said, "is that the entire worshipping congregation remember our service people in their prayers every week as they assemble in their churches."

Citing a method of keeping service personnel in contact with a church representative away from home, Mr. Midboe suggested that someone in every congregation volunteer to send the names of their service people to the nearest chaplain, service pastor or contact pastor.

Referring to the minister's relation to the military, Mr. Midboe said that with the imminent build-up of the reserve forces not on

Lutheran mission leaders from around the world, gathered at the meeting of the Lutheran World Federation's Commission on World Mission, agreed to plans for building a 400-bed Christian hospital and medical training center at Moshi, Tanganyika. They felt that a Christian hospital in East Africa may serve "a great need and make a Christian witness" in these times of African transition.

Initial test broadcasts of the new Lutheran World Federation radio station in Ethiopia are expected in October. These will be beamed to South India and Indonesia, the Middle East, South Africa and West Africa. At first a small one-kilowatt transmitter and a temporary antenna system will be used, but eventually the power of the Lutheran station will be increased to several 100-kilowatt transmitters using a 35-story antenna system.

According to Radio Moscow a new book intended as a standard guide for the propagation of atheism has been printed by the Soviet state publishing house and copies will be distributed "in great numbers" throughout the Soviet Union and other Communist countries. It said the book, entitled "Textbook of Scientific Atheism," is the result of "many years of concentrated study by a team of Soviet scientists," and is being published in many languages.

When Soviet cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov high above earth breathed into his radio microphone: "I am Eagle . . . I am Eagle," he didn't know it, but the spaceship had crashed head-on into the Southern Baptists' Biblical quotation for the day—one selected nine months before. It was Obadiah 4: "Though thou shalt exalt thyself as the eagle, and though thou set thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, saith the Lord."

The number of people favoring women serving as pastors in Norway's Lutheran churches is growing. A recent public opinion poll showed that 72 per cent of Norway's people approve of women pastors, with 16 per cent opposed and 12 per cent indifferent. In 1948, a similar poll showed only 47 per cent in favor, with 44 per cent opposed.

After three years of discussion, the Lutheran World Federation chose the motto "Christ Today" for its Fourth Assembly in Helsinki, Finland, during the summer of 1963. Theme discussions at the gathering in Finland are to deal with "the relationship between the doctrine of the justification of the sinner for Christ's sake and the life of service of the individual Christian and of the Church."

THE GROWTH OF CHRISTIANITY and a people's gratitude to the armed forces of freedom are depicted in this new stamp issued by the Republic of Korea. The presence of the cross in a largely Buddhist nation gives testimony of the extent to which South Korea's Christian minority has affected national concepts. Of South Korea's 25 million people, only about 1,500,000 are Christians, about 4 million Buddhists, while some 19 or 20 million have no formal ties with any religious organization above the shamanistic level. In presenting the steel helmet of a fallen soldier, the nation pays its respects to the war dead who kept South Korea free in a long war against the Communists.

LIFE IN SPACE WOULD NOT UPSET CHRISTIAN BELIEFS

DISCOVERY OF HUMAN LIFE on other planets would not upset traditional Christian beliefs, a Navy chaplain told 2,500 delegates attending the International Walther League Convention at Moorhead, Minn.

Capt. Raymond C. Hohenstein, Washington, D.C., recently-installed associate executive secretary of the Lutheran Service Commission, predicted that the space age will bring moments of anguish and questioning in which a Christian's faith may be shaken.

But, he declared, Christian faith will survive the space age also.

He urged the delegates to dedicate their talents to some phase of space activity and use their keenest intellect to the profit of space exploration.

"Think deeply, intelligently and scientifically," he pleaded. "Really, the space age, in retrospect, will not be different from what the machine or industrial ages of the past are to us now."

He forecast a manned flight to the moon within the decade.

POLISH ARMY TRAINS ATHEIST TEACHERS

ZOLNIEZ WOLNOSCI, Communist organ of the Polish armed forces, disclosed that in each military command in Poland, a number of officers and enlisted men are being given special training as instructors in atheism for troop indoctrination.

In reporting this development, Radio Warsaw said that the majority of recruits fulfilling their periods of compulsory military service are practicing Roman Catholics.

active duty as well as the increase in the active duty forces, every pastor who can pass a physical examination and is under age 33 ought to consider seriously seeking a reserve commission and ministering to a reserve unit in his community.

"If he is above 33 or does not have necessary physical stamina for the reserve or active forces," Mr. Midboe continued, "he ought to think about assisting in his community's civil defense program or the Civil Air Patrol."

The Service Bureau executive said that more ministers will be needed as active duty chaplains to serve the larger numbers of men and women in the military. These will be called from the Reserve rolls.

"A greater flow of young men into the reception centers either through voluntary enlistments or through the stepped-up draft quotas becomes a matter for the local congregations, too," he added. "When young lads who have never been away from home anticipate going to the reception center, the local church has something to tell them about some of the problems as well as the opportunities that exist for them while away in the uniform of their country."

I Believe that

JESUS CHRIST IS TRUE MAN

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

WHENEVER AN ARTIST attempts to portray a person from the Scriptures he puts into the portrait or picture those features which he believes characterize that individual. And so you may see a picture or painting of the fisherman Peter with a weatherbeaten face, from years spent on the sea in all kinds of weather, and with muscular arms from hauling in nets of fish and pulling boats ashore. He is shown to have had a "rugged" appearance, and rightly so.

Often when Christ is portrayed he is depicted as a kindly person, with a lamb in his arms, as the Good Shepherd; and so He was. Or He is shown sitting down with children in His lap and mothers bringing their young to Him to receive a blessing. And we would agree that this too is a correct portrayal of one side of the Master's life and personality.

But there are other aspects to this Christ. Unless we guard ourselves we can unconsciously get the impression that He was sort of a milk toast individual who simply went [illegible] with an effeminate appearance making kindly gestures and saying sweet words of nothingness.

This is far from reality. He was "also True Man," as we confess in the explanation to the Second Article of the Apostles' Creed: "I believe in Jesus Christ who is True God, begotten of the Father from eternity and also True Man born of the Virgin Mary."

Made of a woman, made in the likeness of man, He was found in fashion as a man. He was known as the Son of Man. He walked upon this earth even as we walk. He experienced temptations from one side and from another; and yet the most wonderful thing about it all was that, even though He was tempted as we are, He did not yield to temptations. Oftentimes He was moved by human emotions. He rejoiced. He wept. He had compassion. He experienced sorrow. He was angry. He was loving. He was True Man.

I am certain that as He grew up in His home and community He was "all boy." If He had lived today in America He no doubt would have been an all-American boy, active in the things which boys today enjoy.

I don't think He would have taken advantage of His privileges. For example, if He had participated in sports He would not have hit a home run every time He got to the plate nor made a touchdown each time He carried the ball on the gridiron. Yet I am certain that He played with the boys in His neighborhood and was "all boy".

As I study my Bible I don't find anything sissified about His manhood. For instance, coming into the temple He was angry with the people when they had made the House of Prayer into a den of thieves. With a whip in one hand He kicked over the tables of the money-changers and drove them out. He showed righteous indignation. He was True Man.

He redeemed you

But being God and Man in one person, He could not get away from the aspect of being the God-man. His purpose in coming into this world was to redeem man, a lost and condemned creature, and therefore He was willing to go the whole way, even the way of the Cross, for the salvation of all men.

Perhaps you who are reading this article may be troubled with the guilt of your sins. You may be concerned with the fact that you don't find victory over your short-comings. Perhaps sometimes you feel depressed and you wonder, "What's the use?" You may even want to give up the Christian life.

Listen, friend, it is Christ who has redeemed you, a lost and condemned creature. He has bought you and freed you from all sins, from death and from the power of the devil. He has done that, not with silver or gold, but with His holy and precious blood and with His innocent sufferings and death.

IN THE BROOKS AIR FORCE BASE CHAPEL, Texas, two dependents of Air Force Sergeants, Phyllis Reed and Edna Boynton, were received into the Lutheran Church, Miss Reed by adult Baptism and Miss Boynton by Confirmation. Officiating was Chaplain Max H. Wolf (ULCA).

Don't rely upon yourself or on your own good works. Rely on Him, who is True Man and True God; who died that you might live; who was tempted as you are that He might understand your temptation and help you in your hour of need; who won victory over sin in order that you might win victory through faith in Him; whose power is available to you if you will but come to Him in repentence and faith and accept Him fully into your heart and life.

You cannot buy this salvation. No amount of silver or gold could ever purchase it. You are not expected to. You are only to receive it. He paid the penalty; He won the victory by His holy and precious blood and with His innocent sufferings and death.

Re-discovery of the Reformation

On the last day of this month, October thirty-first, Reformation Day, we think of Martin Luther's rediscovery in God's Word of this tremendous truth that each man living on this earth may be declared "just" by God through faith in Jesus Christ, who was True God and also True Man.

Let us rededicate our hearts and lives to Him and search out the nuggets of truth in His Word so that about us there might be a mighty Reformation in the hearts and lives of those with whom we come in contact. Remember, this True Man, Jesus Christ, goes with you in all your ventures of faith for Him and His cause.

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

Sharing your Experience:

THE MEN SERVING AS CHAPLAINS

by Mrs. Fred Kruger

THE RELIGIOUS PROGRAM of the United States Military Services could be and I believe is intended to be part of God's over-all plan to bring closer together the numerous Protestant denominations and too, other faiths and creeds of the world.

As I participate in the work of and attend the various chapels from base to base, stateside and in foreign lands, as we move about from one assignment to another, I marvel at the capable and God-inspired men serving our country as chaplains—men who are of various denominations.

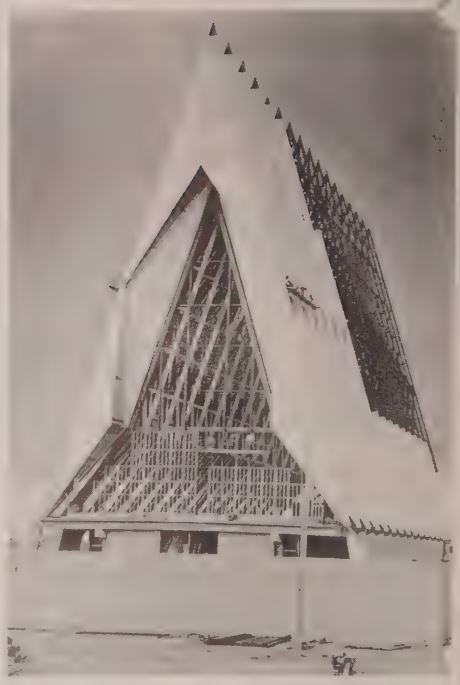
I recall a Sunday while enroute overseas, with only a Roman Catholic chaplain aboard ship, the fine and reverent Protestant service he conducted for us non-Catholics.

I have heard and learned to know well many chaplains and also ministers who served in the absence of a chaplain. These men are dedicated to a soul-saving purpose, yet I wonder if they realize the important part they are playing in knitting closer together the complexity of Protestantism and the oneness of all religions.

Each man, when I have heard him speak, has brought to me personally, a greater insight in my own religious belief and my respect for others. For this I am very grateful. In all my chapel experiences, my staunch Lutheran training has never been offended nor altered but instead been strengthened and all the more appreciated.

In the General Protestant Service I have never been aware of the religious background of the chaplain, unless he so introduced himself, and then he would, nevertheless, continue to conduct a general service, suitable to all attending. I am sure many times this is not an easy task.

In each audience or congregation he serves, there is a cross-section of almost every Protestant denomination and many who profess no particular faith. Each individual who is attending is united with all the others, in a unified and devout service to our one and only Triune God the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. The oneness of a common faith is felt so keenly—I am inspired to believe our military life is part of the plan of God Almighty which will bring all mankind closer, not only in our spiritual and church-going lives but also which will bring us all to better understanding and appreciation of our fellow man—be he friend or stranger.



Mrs. Kruger, recipient of this month's $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service", is the wife of M/Sgt. Fred Kruger who is currently stationed with the American Embassy at Jidda, Saudi Arabia.

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

YOUTH URGED TO FURTHER RACIAL EQUALITY

FOURTEEN THOUSAND YOUNG PEOPLE attending the first convention of the Luther League of the American Lutheran Church were urged by Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, president of the ALC, to use "wisdom, love and forebearance" in efforts to further racial equality in their home congregations and home communities.

CONTROVERSIAL AIR FORCE CHAPEL UNDER CONSTRUCTION. Workmen put aluminum sheeting on the steel framework of the ultra-modern chapel under construction at the Air [illegible] Academy near Colorado Springs, Colo. The unusual design of the 17-spire chapel caused controversy in Congress before its final approval. Construction officials of the $3.4 million edifice say the exterior of the building is nearly completed. The interior, however, will not be finished until mid-1962 when the chapel is scheduled for its first services. There will be three individual chapels inside the building—one for Protestants, seating 900, on the upper level; another for Catholics, accommodating 500; and a third for Jews, with 100 seats. The last two will be on the terrace level.

A MIGHTY FORTRESS

Note to pastors:
You must put your address here!

Form 3547 Requested.

JOYCE DETTMER, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for September, is a member of Faith Lutheran Church at Shell Rock, Iowa.

Joyce was a member of the first Confirmation Class of this young congregation in 1956, and has since served as a member of the Choir, president of the Luther League, teacher in Vacation Bible School and Sunday School.

Luther League conventions have been a special interest of Miss Dettmer. She attended the International Luther League Convention at Ithaca, New York in 1958 and the Constituting Convention of the Luther League of The ALC in 1960. At this latter convention she was chosen to be one of the group discussion leaders.

At the Waverly-Shell Rock School, from which Joyce graduated this past summer, her friendly Christian personality influenced many others.

"She is a young lady of many interests, but she puts primary importance on her service in the church", according to the Rev. O. J. Reitz, her pastor.

SEEKING TO BELONG

By Contact Pastor Martin H. Obst

I AM A LUTHERAN CONTACT PASTOR for USNAAS Chase Field, Beeville, Texas. I seek to make personal contact with all the Lutheran Davids, Richards, Macs, Rodgers, Jims, Bills, etc., who come "on board" at the local base.

There was a knock at my office door. "Come in," was my reply. In walked a sailor in his "monkey suit" (no insult meant; it is the sailors' own lingo). He had asked the chaplain about Lutheran confirmation and had been referred to me. Confirmation was not all he wanted. He was seeking to belong.

Back home (if you can call it a home) he had a mother, step-father, step-brothers and brothers. But he did not belong. His step-father had already "confiscated" and sold two of his cars. Twice he had run away from home, once for three months as a magazine salesman earning about $300 a month. But he was only 18 when he came to my office.

In children's confirmation class he had argued and "slugged" the pastor. The pastor said, "I cannot confirm you now. Come back when you grow up." Had he grown up? Was he ready for confirmation? Would he be faithful? Only time would tell, but what he needed most was to belong and be accepted.

I outlined the procedure for confirmation: (1) Complete a course of 15 lessons, 50 minutes each, (2) Show evidence of sincere faith in Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior, including regular Church attendance, (3) Make public confession of faith (confirmation) and have an honest desire and attempt to lead a Christian life at all times.

He agreed to the procedure. He had to prove to himself that he had grown up, and that he had a right to belong, but he wasn't sure he could "lead a Christian life at all times." I pointed out that all I wanted was "an honest desire and attempt" and when he failed in his attempts to feel free to let me know about it.

TWENTY MILLION VACATIONERS who visited America's national parks this past summer had opportunity to relate nature's beauty to the purposes of God and man in services of worship conducted by the National Council of Churches' parks ministry.

This year 156 students from 38 theological seminaries organized and conducted worship services and served as chaplain-counsellors when they were not busy acting as desk clerks, waiters, bellhops and filling station attendants in facilities of 33 of the nation's national parks.

Now in its tenth year of operation, the park's ministry is a joint program of the National Park Service Personnel and the National Council of Churches.

Second Glance

Far-reaching beams of the powerful new Lutheran World Federation radio station being built at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, will extend the already international outreach of "The Lutheran Hour," program of the Lutheran Laymen's League of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. LWF and Lutheran Hour officials have signed an agreement for "cooperation in radio evangelism" over the new station, which will reach to many parts of Africa and Asia. The Lutheran Hour organization will contribute $50,000 to capital costs and will contribute annually in proportion to its share of broadcasting time.

Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, United Lutheran Church in America president, planned many stops on a recent trip to Europe, including chairing sessions of the Lutheran World Federation Executive Committee at Warsaw. One visit on the itinerary of the LWF President was not possible, however. His application for a visa to travel to East Germany, where he was to preach in the Griefswald cathedral, was denied. He returned to the United States after expressing hope the future brings opportunity to cross the barrier.

All possible influence and "moral leadership" of clergymen is being summoned in preparation for the integration of Atlanta, Ga., public schools this fall. All have been sent letters from OASIS, an organization working for peaceful integration, urging them to be on hand on opening day.

"Question 7," the new Lutheran-sponsored movie slated for general release this fall, has added two more honors to a growing list of commendations since its first premieres and test engagements this spring. At the Berlin Film Festival, it won a special award from the City of Berlin government for its value to youth and also the Festival Prize given by the International Catholic Film Office. The picture—on the clash of Communism and Christianity in East Germany—was earlier given an "A-1" rating by the Catholic Legion of Decency in the U.S.

The Army and Air Force are among the heaviest purchasers of films and film strips produced by the National Council of Churches' Broadcasting and Film Commission. It is reported the services have made use of a wide variety of audio-visual material—on subjects ranging from pre-marital counseling to foreign missions, international church relief and the training of youth leaders.

Evangelist Billy Graham, though weakened by virus attacks, completed a British Crusade this summer, then moved his campaign into Lutheran-heavy Minnesota in mid-July.

CRUISING DOWN THE RIVER: Old St. John's Episcopal church of Milwaukie, Ore., was pulled by a barge down Willamette River to a new site at Oaks Historical Park.

		30	Luke 2:39-52

Wanting to belong required first of all that I accept him as he is now, be his brother and listen to his failures to lead a Christian life. There were missed appointments, speeding on a motorcycle, reckless driving charges, failure to pay a charge account, and finally a $32 gambling debt to pay off.

In between all this he was confirmed. He is faithful in Church, communion and even Luther League attendance. He knows he belongs. He is contemplating engagement to a Lutheran girl (her parents have already consented) which is another attempt at belonging. (I am not too happy about teen-age marriages, but he needs to belong.)

Here is a life, in which Christ is Lord, but the Old Adam is still much alive. It is a typical serviceman's life. He needs to belong, he needs an understanding pastor, understanding Christian friends, and a Christian girl-friend. He should also have understanding parents, but he doesn't. He cannot live a Christian life unless he belongs to Christ, his church, pastor, parents, Christian friends and a Lutheran girl-friend. In seeking to belong he is but seeking that for which he was created. And only as his church, his pastor, his Christian friends and his girl-friend accept him can he belong, and he must belong to lead a Christian life.

Are you seeking to belong? Do you know others who are seeking to belong? "Now abideth faith, hope, love . . . but the greatest of these is love." "Inasmuch as you did it unto one of these you did it to me," says our Lord. Love given to Christ's name can help another person belong—and only when he belongs in Christ can he live a Christian life. Christ wants you and others to belong.

New Enlistment Oath Asked

A new bill before Congress would require enlisted men to swear before God allegiance to the Constitution. The current oath makes no reference to God or the Constitution. To become effective, the new oath must secure approval of two Armed Services Committees and the House and Senate. The House Armed Forces subcommittee has endorsed the proposal, made by Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa).

LUTHERAN MEMBERSHIP INCREASES

The total is a gain of 143,015, or 1.7 per cent, during the year—133,872 in the United States and 9,143 in Canada.

Lutherans continue war in Korea --

AGAINST TB AND MISERY

By Neil Mellblom

MANY SIGHTS AND SOUNDS of the Korean war will linger forever in the minds of the thousands of fighting men who were fortunate enough to leave the peninsula alive.

Probably as lasting as any of the memories is the vision of the children of Korea—the round-faced, sad-eyed boys and girls who were forced to fight their own war for survival while war swept back and forth across their paddy-field playgrounds, killing their parents, leveling their towns, demolishing what small heritage they might have had.

GIs will never forget the mobs of rag-tag youngsters fighting over discarded ration cans, clustered around mess hall garbage racks, nearly naked and huddled together for warmth against the remaining walls of shattered buildings.

Any troop will remember the plaintive call, "Chop-chop, hava yes?"

It stands to the credit of countless numbers of United Nations fighting men that they took time, even during battle, to do what they could for the children. They gave them clothing, shared their rations, provided shelter. Some units even were responsible for financing makeshift orphanages.

But the fighting men's business was war, and when that was finished none could be blamed if new duties and new assignments tempered their recollections of Korea.

Among the hundreds of different units that made up the UN force, however, was one in particular that hasn't allowed time or distance to dim its collective memory of Korea and its children. This was the group of Norwegians who fought not with guns but with scalpels and bandages in a front-line mobile surgical hospital.

With their medically oriented backgrounds, the Norwegians saw something the average UN fighting man probably didn't detect. They saw tuberculosis, and were alarmed at the rate it was spreading.

"So when we got home," said Gotfred Rekkebo, who served with the Norwegian team, "we decided to see if we could do something about it. We organized the Norwegian Korean Association."

Rekkebo is a deacon in the Lutheran Church and a trained social worker. For nine years he was a lay missionary in China and during the Korean hostilities he served with the field hospital. In 1953 he became an active worker in the Norwegian Korean Association's campaign to raise funds for aid to Korea.

By 1955 the association was able to send Rekkebo back to Korea. This time he was accompanied by his wife, Rannei, who is a trained nurse and also has a background of missionary work in China.

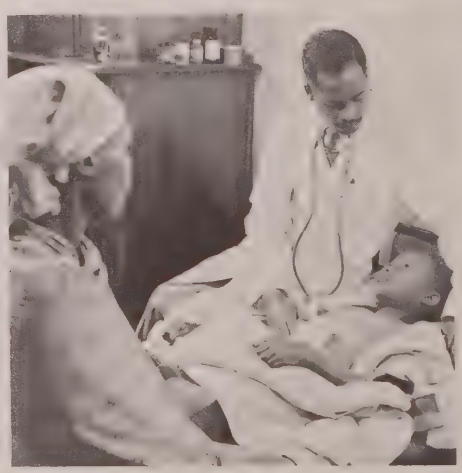
"We had about $5,000 and we were there to work with tubercular children. We weren't sure how to go about it," Rekkebo said in an interview with the NLC News Bureau.

However, the City of Seoul did provide a two-story, reasonably preserved house on the bank of the Han River, and on October 22, 1955, the Han No Hospital admitted its first 17 patients. A short time later all the initial 30 beds were filled.

There was no difficulty getting patients, even though the hospital was only for advanced cases among children. Well over 10 per cent of the population in Korea has the disease, according to statisticians, and the Rekkeboes would place the incidence even higher at that time.

"We saw right away how much more there was to do," Rekkebo said. The hospital itself needed enlarging, the need for a convalescent home quickly became apparent, the overcrowded slum surroundings were crying for sanitation, diagnosis and control programs.

To expand, help was needed. And the U.S. Army in Korea became one early supporter; also, World Vision, Inc. provided the building for convalescents; the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada built the out-patient clinic; Lutheran World Relief and the Danish Korean Association gave funds for expanding the hospital. U.S. surplus food was obtained through Korea Church World Service, in which LWR is a partner, and Rekkebo now supervises eight social welfare workers in a program started with help from the Unitarian committee in Canada.



KOREA ISN'T THE ONLY PLACE where Lutherans help fight misery. In Hong Kong Lutheran World Action and Lutheran World Relief help feed, dress and educate Chinese refugees for work in the free world. The boy in picture above wears a Milwaukee Braves shirt, evidently donated by a Lutheran in Wisconsin, and shipped to Hong Kong by Lutheran World Relief.

The Han No Hospital, first medical institution in Korea specifically for children with tuberculosis, has 70 beds by now.

"It is still so small, and we have had to keep many patients much longer than necessary because they had no place to go," said Mrs. Rekkebo half-apologizing for the fact that in the first five years of its existence Han No admitted only 374 patients.

However, a statistical summary showed that in the same five years there were only 21 deaths among all those who came to Han No with advanced cases of T.B., meaning that 253 lives were saved.

IN TANGANYIKA, EAST AFRICA, Lutheran World Action supports mission hospitals, as well as missions, mission schools and Bible presses.

Safe Driving Duty Under God

MEMBERS OF THE AUGUSTANA Lutheran Church were urged to obey the Fifth Commandment, "Thou Shalt Not Kill", in automobile driving to help reduce the annual toll of deaths and injuries on the nation's streets and highways.

A resolution adopted at the denomination's 102nd annual synod called on its members to look upon driving as an "opportunity to make practical application of religion in daily activity."

"The operation of an automobile is a matter of moral concern," said a report from the Church's Commission on Social Action. "There is a duty under God to drive automobiles in a manner consistent with the teachings of the Fifth Commandment which tell us to regard human life as sacred."

Sharing your Experience:

GOD HELP ME THROUGH!

By A2C Roger E. Jacobson

WHILE READING of the man receiving strength while lost in the jungle, in a recent issue of "A Mighty Fortress", I realized that there are different kinds or types of strength which can be received, for the asking, from God.

At a number of bases overseas immorality is considered common and the guy that tries to lead a clean life is the uncommon.

It isn't enough to rely on one's own strength, because that in time will give way to such statements as "Come on, go with us just once;" before long it's twice and then nobody even has to ask.

I've found that the simple prayer, "Lord help me through" gives me the strength I need to withstand the temptations. I remember, the Lord makes us (me) strong through our (my) weakness.

A Word In Season

By the Rev. Howard A. Kuhnle

GEORGE IS A CONSECRATED LAYMAN in our church, active in every good work. He takes his religion seriously. He not only has faith in his Lord Jesus, but also believes in serving Him and witnessing for Him. As opportunity comes, he speaks to others about Christ, including fellow-employees of the large corporation by which he is employed. He told me recently of this incident.

George was disturbed by the extreme use of profanity of one of his bosses, more especially Mr. Schmidt's use of the Name of the Lord, taken in vain. One day, the two were alone in a company car. Mr. Schmidt began his usual line of cursing. After a moment or two George screwed up his courage a bit and said, "Mr. Schmidt, I wonder if you realize that you are speaking about a friend of mine." No apology; just straight talk; nothing more was said about profanity.

The pay-off: Mr. Schmidt is different now, at least in George's presence, for there is no more profanity.

How Far Do You Go To Church?

THERE IS A WOMAN in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan who makes a 500-mile round trip to church almost every Sunday. No wonder The Milwaukee Journal put her story on its front page with a large headline!

She is Mrs. John A. Marynski of Channing, and she attends St. James Episcopal Church in Milwaukee 250 miles away. There is no Episcopal church in Channing and she does not go to churches in nearby communities because she has no car. Instead, she takes the train to Milwaukee.

Of course, the train ride does not cost her anything—except time. Her husband is a retired railroad man and she has a pass. But the trip involves two nights in coaches. She leaves Channing at 9:30 p.m. Saturday, arriving in Milwaukee at 5 a.m. Sunday. Leaving Milwaukee again at 9:30 p.m., she arrives back in Channing at 4 a.m. Monday. Who would do as much?

We knew of only one somewhat similar case among Lutherans. There was a man and wife living on the west coast of Florida who drove 100 miles on the Tamiami Trail through the Everglades to attend church in Miami some years ago. That was a 200-mile round trip by car.

Cases such as these should put many of us to shame. Some of us find it difficult to go 10 miles to church. With most of us the distance is even less. Do you attend church in spite of distances or other obstacles? How far is it to YOUR church?

From the Lutheran Counselor

Onward Christian Soldiers

Zolnierz Wolnosci, newspaper of Polish armed forces, has proclaimed an emergency—too many soldiers are going to church. The paper has noted with alarm that "the vast majority of soldiers and officers still attend church and christen their children in church." It has called for "urgent measures and intensified atheistic propaganda" among the troops to "remedy the situation."

A2C Jacobson will be the recipient of the September $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

JEANNE MAKI, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for August was nominated by the Luther League of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church (Suomi Synod) at Hibbing, Minnesota, and her pastor, the Rev. Duane Aho.

Jeanne graduated last June from Hibbing High School with the highest honors. Since the seventh grade she had maintained a straight A average. In the last year at school she placed sixth in the state and twenty-fifth in the nation in the National Merit Scholarship Competition given to 525,000 high school seniors. For this, she was awarded two scholarships, which will come in handily this fall when Jeanne enters Mt. Holyoke College in Massachusetts.

Jeanne was also active in drama and the school band. She won first place in Minnesota in declamation and represented her school in the national competition this summer.

At the same time she has been a capable and dependable worker in the Luther League and in Sunday School. She was a Sunday School teacher for three years and was superintendent of the School's primary division this year.

Youth Seeks Role in Today's World

THE LARGEST LUTHERAN YOUTH CONVENTION ever held in this country is expected to bring together some 14,000 delegates of the Luther League of the American Lutheran Church in Miami Beach, Florida, August 15-20.

They will discuss the role of youth in the changing world and specifically examine whether the Christian Church has failed—and how it may succeed—in solving such problems as world tensions and racial prejudice.

For some time the 4,000 local units of the ALC Luther League have conducted studies on questions such as:

"How should the struggle for independence among Asians and Africans affect our mission interest and work?"

"Do Scriptures speak to our turbulent world?"

"Should Christian youth give time working overseas?"

Another commission has been examining the area of racial prejudice. Questions which have been posed included the following:

"How does discrimination affect our lives?"

"Isn't the northerner self-righteous about the racial problems?"

"Are youth prejudiced against adults or vice versa?"

"What forms does prejudice take?"

In Miami the Lutheran young people will hear a number of prominent speakers on various subjects, including Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany, and enact a three-year action program for youth groups of the Church.

Moscow Labels All Religion Reactionary

MOSCOW RADIO, replying to a United States listener who asked what was the Communist attitude toward religion, said "we consider all religions to be basically reactionary."

"Be it Mohammedanism, Buddhism or Christianity," the station said, "they all preach essentially the same thing: 'be patient in life on earth, accept all and everything, turn your left cheek to the man who struck you on your right cheek, for he will go to hell and you to the heavenly kingdom.'

"Religion is against men fighting for their freedom. It has always opposed education and many great scientists were burned at the stake by the Catholics. If, in the beginning, Christianity played an important role, and at times even a progressive one, in the history of mankind, it has through the ages, become a tool of reactionaries the world over."

Second Glance

Washington State's Warren G. Magnuson, a Democratic Senator since 1944, has been named as the "man who has done most for U.S. foreign commerce in 1960" by the Washington, D.C. Board of Trade. Senator Magnuson, a member of the American Lutheran Church, is currently chairman of the Senate's Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee. He believes that an important benefit of travel and trade expansion between the U.S. and other lands would be an "interchange of people" resulting in better international understanding.

"Question Seven", the new Lutheran-sponsored motion picture portraying the Christian struggle under Communism in East Germany, was selected for showing at the international Berlin Film Festival. General release of the film in the United States will come this fall.

Lutherans in Dublin, the capital of the Irish republic, now have their own church building for the first time in nearly a century. They rededicated the renovated St. Finian's church, which they had been leasing for 99 years at a shilling ($0.14) a year. Officiating was Bishop Goesta Lundstrom of Sweden. The membership of the local congregation numbers about 200.

Arab refugees in Syria given medical treatment by the Lutheran World Federation passed the one-million mark this summer. The federation has provided medical and child welfare services in Syria since the beginning of 1953, as part of its Near East refugee work of which the main center is in Jordan.

The pro-Communist League of Evangelical Pastors in Red East Germany suffered another spectacular defeat when its annual conference in Halle—for which invitations were sent to all pastors in East Germany—drew hardly more than the group's own membership, which is estimated at about 200 out of a total of 5,500 active Protestant pastors in the Soviet Zone.

An inter-Lutheran group in Seattle is trying to raise $225,000 to develop Holden Village, a former mining community worth millions, as a mountain religious retreat in Washington State. Holden Village may be reached only by air or by a three-and-a-half hour boat trip to Lucerne, Wash. An 11-mile road winding around mountain peaks will bring visitors from Lucerne to Holden, nestled in a setting of glaciers, trout lakes, streams and waterfalls, tall forests, and abundant mountain flowers and wild game.

HOW ABOUT THIS FOR COOLING OFF IN AUGUST: Chaplain Paul H. Maurer (right) poses for snap shots preparatory to taking off from Sondrestrom Air Force Base, Greenland, for one of his "parishes" on the Greenland Ice Cap where the temperature plunges to 75 below zero. His congregation are the Federal Electric Corp. workers who operate the Distant Early Warning Sites and he flies thousands of miles by ski-equipped aircraft and helicopters to reach them. The 62 year-old former colonel was engaged as chaplain by the corporation after he retired from the Army in 1957. His other parishes include DEW sites in Alaska, Canada and Iceland, many of which he has covered by dog sleds and umiaks (Eskimo skin boats). Heavily decorated for gallantry in action, Chaplain Maurer served with front line troops in five major European battles in World War II and five in Korea. After completing his contract with the corporation Chaplain Maurer, a Congregational Christian minister, plans to return to the Arctic as a missionary to the Eskimo people he loves. RNS Photo

Why a Church College?

THE CHURCH "does not maintain colleges because it distrusts the state, but because it is trying to do something which the state neither can do nor desires to do," according to Dr. Robert Mortvedt, who is executive head of higher education for both the Augustana Lutheran Church and the United Lutheran Church in America.

The main difference between a Christian college and a state-supported college, is that on the campus of the former, religion is openly declared to be supremely important, Dr. Mortvedt told a recent conference of pastors and laymen in Seattle, Washington.

On a Christian campus the sovereignty of God's grace is prayed for and gladly acknowledged, and responsible administrators and scholars are purposefully trying to obey the Lord of the Church, he said.

"This does not mean," he added, "that the English, the algebra and chemistry it offers are different from the English, algebra and chemistry provided anywhere else. It does mean, however, that all courses are offered under the direction of a board and a faculty which have openly declared their intention for seeking all truth, both truth that has been revealed and truth which can be discovered, within the framework of a Christian vision of life."

The educator voiced the opinion that "the clarity of purposes" of Christian education held by the founding fathers does not prevail today.

With excellent state-supported schools, inviting the students and parents alike, many church people "are bewildered," he said, and ask, "Are not church colleges luxuries we cannot afford?"

This would be true, he contended, "only if we believed that a church college is simply a private college supported by the church."

"If a church college is an institution whose board, administration and faculty are employed in such a way as to make Christianity dynamically relevant to the world of learning, it is inconceivable that this kind of self-realization is a luxury," he said.

Dr. Mortvedt also lauded the ministry of the Division of College and University Work of the National Lutheran Council at state-supported colleges and universities as "an important part of the church's single mission in the area of higher education."

"During the time when great segments of the intellectual work minimize the importance of religion, the task of the church is not to fight the world of thought, but to minister to it," he said.

"On the campus of church and state college alike, the Gospel must be proclaimed."

The Lord's Song in a Foreign Land

By Chaplain Eugene S. Swanson, U.S. Navy

"HOW SHALL WE SING the Lord's song in a foreign land?" (Psalm 137). This was the question voiced by the Israelites during their captivity under the Babylonians. Under their trying circumstances and aggravated by the fact that the Babylonians ridiculed them for their beliefs, the Israelites found it difficult to keep their faith alive.

This question of how to sing the Lord's song in a foreign land is being echoed today by many of our service personnel who find themselves thousands of miles from their homes and the Christian influences of their youth.

Duty assignments often place our men in areas where anti-Christian forces are working overtime and where there are few symbols or reminders of the Christian way of life to support them. Many of our servicemen have found themselves in such situations and have experienced the almost overwhelming loneliness of such circumstances.

Our Christian faith is easy to come by and stay by when we are settled in some permanent community where we are surrounded by other Christians who support us in our faith. When we get out on our own to some new country [illegible] environment where evidences of Christian behavior are lacking, we find that the responsibility of living the Christian life is ours and ours alone.

Everytime we go ashore in some foreign port, we feel the pressure of that responsibility. There is little doubt but that we often feel the subtle temptation of the freedom we have in the service to forget our responsibilities to our faith and the church.

Like the Israelites of old, we are often ridiculed for our beliefs by shipmates and others. It is then that the very real question faces us: "How shall we sing the Lord's song in a foreign land?"

In facing up to this problem, we realize that it actually becomes a question as to whether we have any faith or not. If the faith we had in the past is dependent upon some familiar soil and cannot be transplanted to some new soil or taken with us wherever we go, it is a fair question whether our religion of the past was a true faith or not.

Living faith is a powerful energy . . .

A living faith is a powerful energy capable of reasserting itself under new and untried circumstances. None of us can ever be sure that he has a vital faith until it has been proved in some foreign land. A faith that withers and dies under new circumstances is not a true Christian faith.

In learning to sing our own song of faith, we become aware that our faith of the past may have been only an adopted faith, a faith adopted from our parents.

They are the ones who taught us the difference between right and wrong. It was they who first taught us to pray and started us in Sunday School and church, in the hopes that this habit of Christian training would develop until it became our choice, too.

As long as we remained in those surroundings, we followed their teachings and accepted their faith, more by habit than by choice. Now that we are out on our own and away from the direct support of that Christian home, we realize the time has come for us to develop a faith of our own, something that is part of us, something that we can honestly accept with our own heart and mind. Only if this is our own personal faith will it ever stand up under the test and trial of circumstance.

. . . but it must be your own personal faith

This does not mean that our parents' faith was not valid. It means only that if it is to be valid for us, it must become our faith, through our own acceptance of Jesus Christ and our dedication to Him.

The Israelites learned how to sing the Lord's song in a foreign land. They did this by reminding themselves of God's goodness to them in the past, and their convictions became strong in this moment of their adversity. Their experience affords us a lesson that we can apply to our time in the service.

If we would bolster the courage of our convictions, we must deepen our roots in that soil out of which our faith has grown. We must remind ourselves of the good things that came to us through the Christian training we received in the home and the church, and we must build our faith on that foundation which was rooted in the teachings of Jesus Christ, who alone is the Rock of our Salvation.

Jesus said, as He concluded His Sermon on the Mount: "Everyone then who hears these words of mine and does them will be like a wise man who built his house upon the rock; and the rain fell, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat upon that house, but it did not fall, because it had been founded on the rock." (Matt. 7:24,25)

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

COMMUNISTS TO DELETE RELIGIOUS REFERENCES EVEN FROM FAIRY TALES

CHILDREN'S BOOKS PUBLISHERS from Russia and all the Communist countries met in Warsaw, Poland, to discuss eliminating all religious references in their publications.

An official Communist announcement said that the publishers plan to purge even fairy tales of any possible link with religious beliefs.

The Warsaw meeting, it was stated, was part of a planned series of conferences of educators in all the Communist countries designed to "improve the campaign for the atheistic education and upbringing of children."

Sharing Your Experience:

LIFE WITHOUT HOPE

By Chaplain Richard D. Trapp

IT WAS VERY EARLY in the morning. The bright rays of the new day's sun would soon dispel the darkness of a black night. It had been a night filled with the acrid odor of gunpowder and death. But now a new day was only minutes away. A new day which might bring news of capitulation by the enemy; better, unconditional surrender.

The battle orders had been given. Even the lowest private knew what he had to do. Ammunition and K rations had been issued. Canteens were full of properly treated water. The assembly area was quiet. There were no warming camp fires in this forward area. Men did not smoke, for they knew that the glow of a cigaret could be seen for hundreds of yards. The engineer's boats were ready behind the cover of the levee.

The objective, the opposite bank of the Blue Danube, had to be taken. Wasn't there a beautiful waltz about the swifty flowing and bluish water? Yes, but no one hummed the melody. Some may have permitted it to flow through their minds.

Beads were being fingered. Folded hands were in evidence. Testaments which could not be read were held reverently, almost superstitiously. Faces were strained with fatigue and fear. All this could be seen, and more, by straining the eyes.

There was the swoosh of shells flying toward the south bank of the Danube followed shortly by the thunder of battalions of artillery. With the signal explosion of the first volley, the men moved to the boats in an orderly fashion. More shells whined overhead.

A screaming sound! The dread screaming meemies were on their way toward the attackers. Seconds later the screams of wounded and dying men drowned out the similar sounds from the opposite bank of the Danube. There were shouts and piercing cries for help. Commands were given. The boats were moved into the water. But not all. Some would never be manned. More shells came in. All seemed to be mass confusion. The Blue Danube rolled swiftly on, but now it was heavily tinged with red.

The attack failed. There was no word of surrender of the German nation on this April day of 1945, not even the surrender of the enemy on the banks of the Danube. There would be no release from the fear of death. Once again the area was quiet. The stillness was broken only by the occasional moans and groans of the yet-to-be-evacuated wounded.

During the course of the whole operation two men drew considerable attention. And for good reason. When the first enemy shells started to land, the two men fell to the ground while the others continued to advance. They grovelled on the ground, tearing the dirt with their bare hands until their fingers bled. Their eyes became glazed, their faces looked inhuman. They babbled incoherently. They could not hear the man speaking to them. Fear had made them insane.

The man who tried to calm them knew them well. He knew what was wrong. The two men were the rankest of unbelievers. They had no love for God. For them He did not exist. The two godless men were evacuated, never to return to battle, never to return to a useful life. Theirs was a life without hope.

LELA McCLARTY, our Lutheran Girl of the Month of July, is a dedicated member of Christ Lutheran church of West Covina, California.

She has served as treasurer, secretary, vice president and president of the Senior Luther League. A Sunday School teacher and nursery attendant, she also sings in the choir and plays the piano at all Sunday School sessions.

This summer, Lela graduated from West Covina High School where she has been active in the Glee Club, the Jr. Statesman Club, various school plays and other groups.

She intends to continue her education at Mt. San Antonio College and the California Lutheran College with the goal of becoming an elementary school teacher.

"In spite of her busy schedule, when someone is needed to help within the church, Lela is right there to pitch in," according to the Rev. Larry J. Hendrickson, vicar of Christ Lutheran church.

FOR THE ASTRONAUTS FAITH IS VITAL FACTOR

RELIGIOUS FAITH is important for America's astronauts, according to the first American in space, Alan B. Shepard, Jr.

A reporter reminded him at a press conference of the rather famous World War II pilot who wrote a book called "God Was My Co-Pilot," and asked him whether he felt the same way.

"I think that all seven of us (astronauts) have a religious faith which we express in our own individual ways," answered Shepard.

All seven astronauts are identified with religious denominations. They include a Methodist, Presbyterian, Church of Christ, Christian Scientist, Lutheran and two Episcopalians.

SEE "QUESTION SEVEN" NEXT FALL

NATIONWIDE RELEASE of "Question 7," new Lutheran-produced motion picture depicting the struggle of Christians under atheistic Communist oppression in East Germany, is scheduled for this coming fall.

The film was premiered last March in six cities in the United States and one in Canada. It has since then had its "test engagements" throughout Wisconsin and also in Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., St. Louis, Mo., and Pittsburgh, Pa.

"We are very well pleased with the premiere results and several of the engagements were truly smash hits," said Robert E. A. Lee, executive secretary of Lutheran Film Associates.

The movie, written by Allan Sloane and produced by Lothar Wolff, creators of "Martin Luther", was filmed last summer in Germany.

An international cast of 45 actors was chosen from over 250 persons interviewed. The leading role of Pastor Friedrich Gottfried was entrusted to British stage and film actor Michael Gwynn. The pastor's wife was played by Swiss actress Margaret Jahnen. To portray their son, a 15-year-old youth tormented by conflicting ideologies, the producers found 15-year-old Christian de Bresson, a French boy who has acted on off-Broadway stages in New York.

QUESTION SEVEN, the new Lutheran film that will be nationally released in the fall, is a motion picture of gripping drama. Here a dreaded "Vopo" or East German "people's policeman" comes to the Osterstadt parsonage door by night. The faces of Pastor Friedrich Gottfried and his wife clearly show they recall fate of pastor's predecessor, who was arrested by the Reds.

Second Glance

Members of the United Lutheran Church in America are urged to give at least ten per cent of their income to their denomination in a statement adopted by the Church's Executive Board. "Proportionate giving, with the tithe as a reasonable first step, should be encouraged," declared the statement, which noted that the Christian "must offer to God all that he is and has."

Local experimental broadcasts over a one-kilowatt transmitter will be launched in September by the Lutheran World Federations "Voice of the Gospel," a powerful Christian radio station in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. This will be a prelude to full-scale broadcasting expected to start late in 1962, when two 100-kilowatt short-wave transmitters will beam religious and cultural programs to all parts of Africa, the Near East and southern Asia in some two dozen languages.

The Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive of the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, was one of a five-man interdenominational clergy team who recently visited military bases in Alaska, Japan, Okinawa, Formosa, Hong Kong, Guam, the Philippines and Hawaii, to consult with chaplains on various problems relating to their work.

Adding a new emphasis to its material aid program in Korea, Lutheran World Relief has provided an $8,100 grant for hiring of ten Christian Korean social welfare workers to strengthen programs in Korean institutions, particularly those housing homeless children.

The first dance in the history of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., was held recently with some 400 juniors and seniors participating. Dancing was long prohibited at St. Olaf and other colleges of the former Evangelical Lutheran Church, some of whose clergy regarded it as sinful. When the ELC merged with two other bodies to form the American Lutheran Church, sentiment to end the ban grew since colleges of one of the other merging bodies permitted social dancing. St. Olaf became the first of the former ELC colleges to sanction dancing. Whether the others will follow is not known.

Protestant authorities in West Germany are distributing special road maps for the benefit of motorists who cannot attend Sunday services in their own parish church because they are travelling. The maps indicate all Protestant churches and worship centers and the times of services. Short footnotes on the maps also call attention to special artistic or other features of churches.

THE 100,000TH SERVICEMAN to walk through the doors of the Lutheran Service Center at Awase Meadows, Okinawa, had a pleasant surprise. Airman 3rd Class Jim Holt received a torii as a memento of the occasion. The torii, which is an oriental prayer symbol, was presented by Service Pastor George P. Vojtko, while Mrs. James Rommelmeyer, assistant director of the center, stood by with coffee and cookies.

Jim Holt is at home in Grace Lutheran church, a Missouri Synod congregation in De Witt, Iowa. The service center in Okinawa, of which he became the 100,000th visitor, was opened in July, 19[illegible]

Lutherans Hail Peace Corps Plans

A LUTHERAN LEADER PRAISED the Peace Corps for adopting a cooperative policy with religious agencies abroad, while providing strict rules against use of its support in sectarian projects.

"To qualify for Peace Corps support, a private agency must be non-profit and its programs and procedures must conform to high standards and strict criteria," said Dr. Robert E. Van Deusen, the National Lutheran Council's Washington secretary, in a memorandum to Lutheran leaders.

He welcomed the rule against use of Peace Corps support for sectarian projects because "there would be obvious dangers either in the Peace Corps serving as a front behind which sectarian objectives would be carried out, or in a church-related agency becoming a conscious tool of national policy."

Noting that, on the other hand, this raises a question as to whether a church-related agency would be willing "to forfeit the specifically religious content of its program," Dr. Van Deusen pointed out that some Protestant and Roman Catholic agencies have told Peace Corps officials in a series of consultations that cooperation with the Peace Corps projects of a service nature will be feasible.

The National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod have conferred with Peace Corps officials regarding basic principles involved, he added.

Dr. Van Deusen emphasized that Churches can cooperate with the Peace Corps by: (1) Encouraging young people to enter the Peace Corps; (2) Recommending persons of special skills to the Peace Corps and providing teachers for its training program; (3) Providing "auxiliary training with spiritual orientation" for young church people who enter the Peace Corps; (4) Providing a spiritual ministry for them while they are overseas; (5) Setting up a church-oriented program utilizing some of the Peace Corps techniques; and (6) Expanding existing mission projects to supplement the secular work of the Peace Corps in mission areas.

Special endorsement of the Peace Corps recruitment plans was voiced in a letter sent to the 6,000 pastors of the Missouri Synod by the Synod's president. Dr. John W. Behnken urged pastors to encourage qualified members of their congregations to consider service in the Peace Corps because "we hope that a great many members of the Corps will be Christians who will let their light so shine that men may see their good works and glorify our Father which is in heaven."

I Believe That

GOD HAS GIVEN ME SO MUCH

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

DID YOU EVER STOP to realize that you are worth quite a bit? Have you recently taken time out to re-study Martin Luther's explanation of the First Article of the Apostles' Creed: "I believe that God has created me . . ."

You are a being with a body, a mind and a soul. You have the ability to reason, to choose, to plan, to think. According to the Bible, you have been created in the image of God as the crowning point of His creation.

God has endowed man with seemingly unlimited capacities for work. At times it seems man can do everything short of "creating." But God created man not only with senses and these abilities—He also created man to have fellowship with Himself.

This fellowship with God man enjoyed until the time of the Fall when man disobeyed God's command, but since that time, man by nature has been out of fellowship with God.

Nevertheless, through Jesus Christ, God has been seeking to restore man to that perfect fellowship, and after Christ's death on the cross and resurrection, all that is necessary is that man accept salvation, which has been provided, and become one with Him.

Why does God care for us?

Daily God provides abundantly for all the needs of your life, protects you from danger and guards you from evil. Why?

God does this simply because He loves you. He loves you as a Father with divine goodness and mercy. "As a father pities his children, so the Lord pities those who fear Him. For He knows our frame; He remembers that we are dust." (Psalm 103:13-14).

God is love. John brings this out so beautifully in the fourth chapter of his first letter, verses 15 and 16: "Whoever confesses that Jesus is the Son of God, God abides in him, and he in God. So we know and believe the love God has for us. God is love, and he who abides in love abides in God, and God abides in him."

And what do we owe God?

What then do we owe God in return? "What shall I render to the Lord for all his bounty to me?" as the Psalmist asks. (Psalm 116:12).

Martin Luther, in his explanation to the First Article of the Apostles' Creed, answers: "I am in duty bound to thank, praise, serve and obey Him."

You, too, can show God your gratitude for His blessings by living for Him.

How?

That is for you to answer. God is waiting to have you talk to Him about it in prayer. He is ready to speak to you about it through His inspired Word and also by His Holy Spirit in prayer. You know prayer is also taking time to be quiet and allow Him to speak to you.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

IT'S ON THE SIMPLE AND UPRIGHT THAT SOCIETY DEPENDS

PREACHING IN EAST BERLIN'S St. Mary's church Bishop Otto Dibelius of Berlin and Brandenburg sounded an urgent appeal to Evangelical Christians for "afflicted mankind and for the Church of Christ which promises liberation from distress and fear."

He said the internal power of a people didn't rest with the few who do outstanding things and wish to excel before others, but rather with those people who don't want to be anything but just simple and upright men.

"It is particularly on these people that society depends," said the bishop whom the German Communists have blacklisted as an "undesirable NATO clergyman."

OLIVE PICKERS in the Valley of Rephaim (the Valley of Giants) haven't changed their methods much since Biblical times. The olives are picked from the ground after they have been beaten off the branches with sticks and poles.

RACHEL'S TOMB is visited by pilgrims on the way from Jerusalem to Bethlehem. Here Jacob buried his wife and set up a memorial pillar of stones (Gen. 35:16-20). Crusaders built a chapel with a dome which has been restored more than once.

ST. PAUL set out to persecute Christians in Damascus through the Damascus Gate of Jerusalem. While on the way, Jesus appeared to him in a vision. (Acts 9). RNS Photos

Sharing Your Experience:

IN DIVIDED BERLIN

By Sp/4 Lucian v Polk

IN THE DIVIDED CITY of Berlin, 115 miles behind the Iron Curtain, a Lutheran chaplain began a program some time ago that is so commonplace today that the average soldier within the McNair Compound in Southwestern Berlin thinks nothing about it.

Chaplain Thomas O. Williamson arranged for a local church to visit the chapel several times. The men's group of the chapel, as Christian ambassadors, returned the visits to the German church. Now vespers and Sunday services are attended by both Americans and Berliners who enter the compound with a special church pass provided by the Area Coordinator.

When a soldier walks into the chapel for services or into the chapel center for a program, he immediately finds himself feeling like he were in his home congregation, and the highly publicized role of a soldier-ambassador is a natural one.

It is a role that comes freely and without outside pressure from the individual, who realizes, as I did, that all people, no matter of what nationality, color or religious preference, are part of God's congregation even when they are under such Communist pressure as are the people of Berlin.

And yet, somehow the naturalness of this program fades into common place today for the 6th Infantry soldier in this "outpost of democracy, where he finds himself a home-away-from-home in communion with God.

A NEW EVANGELICAL Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial church is rising in West Berlin beside the half-shattered tower of the old church named for Emperor Wilhelm I. The $1,500,000 octagonal structure of stone and glass, with a separate steeple and baptistry, will replace the worship house destroyed during World War II. Church officials wanted to demolish the old tower but Berliners demanded that "Old Faithful" be retained. RNS Photo

Sp/4 Polk will be the recipient of the July $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

Lutheran Diplomat Heads Foreign Service Institute

A LUTHERAN has been named to one of the principal positions in the State Department.

Dr. Carl W. Strom, 61, until recently U.S. Ambassador in Bolivia, became director of the Foreign Service Institute which teaches languages to career foreign service officers and also offers instruction in other subjects of value to their particular career development.

A graduate of Luther College, Decorah, Ia., Ambassador Strom holds an M.A. from Oxford University, England, and a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois.

His acceptance of the new post leaves two Lutherans in U.S. ambassadorial posts: Christian M. Ravndal, 62, in Czechoslovakia (also a graduate of Luther College), and John S. Rice, 62, who was recently named Ambassador to the Netherlands.

Mr. Rice, who is a graduate of Gettysburg College, has seen military service in both world wars. He was an Army private in World War I, and a colonel in the Army Air Force during World War II.

TOP GENERAL WELCOMES LUTHERAN STUDENTS

GENERAL LYMAN L. LEMNITZER, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, personally welcomed 162 Lutheran college and seminary students to the Pentagon.

Greeting participants in the 12th annual Washington Seminar for Lutheran Students, General Lemnitzer, who is a member of the United Lutheran Church in America, said he hoped the students' visit to the Pentagon would give them a more adequate understanding of "the part that the armed forces play in carrying out the objectives and ideals of our country".

During his 20-minute welcome, the nation's top military official pointed to the efforts which the armed forces make to develop character and good citizenship in their personnel.

The 162 participants in the Lutheran student seminar represented ten theological seminaries, 23 Lutheran colleges and teacher training schools, a college preparatory school, a Lutheran deaconess training school, and 11 non-Lutheran colleges and universities.

They were members of six Lutheran church bodies: United Lutheran Church in America, 60 students; Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, 38; American Lutheran Church, 36; Augustana Lutheran Church, 18; Lutheran Free Church, three; and one from the Wisconsin Synod.

COMMUNISTS BOAST 88 PER CENT PARTICIPATE IN RED YOUTH RITES

THE EAST GERMAN Central Committee for Youth Dedications boasted that 142,000 young people in the Soviet Zone took part in the Red youth rites this past spring. This represents over 88 per cent of all eligible youngsters.

An atheistic counterpart of Christian Confirmation, the rites have been denounced repeatedly by Protestant and Catholic authorities.

Although Protestant and Catholic leaders have condemned the Red rites as irreconcilable with the Christian faith, they recently adopted a more lenient attitude in view of increasing political pressure imposed by the Communists upon parents and children to force youngsters to take part in the ceremonies.

East German Protestant Churches have adopted temporary regulations which permit young people to continue taking part in the life of the Church even if they have enrolled for, or participated in, the Communist rites. They also will admit such youngsters to Confirmation after they have shown for at least one year that they want to be active members of the Church.

Soviet Zone Communists have repeatedly admitted that many youngsters are participating in the atheistic rites only as a matter of routine without identifying themselves with the Communist ideological platform. Since the ceremonies were started seven years ago, over 700,000 boys and girls have reportedly taken part in the dedications.

RED YOUTH DEDICATION RITES in Communist Germany are designed to counteract Church Confirmation.

Second Glance

Scriptures have now been printed in 1,165 tongues, according to the American Bible Society, which recently published portions of Scripture in Guajibo, Warao, Kankanaey, Kwangeli, and Senadi. Still, the Bible Society reported, there are 1,500 languages and dialects into which no part of the Bible has been translated, but all together these languages are spoken by not more than 10 per cent of the world's population.

Lutheran Brotherhood, fraternal life insurance society with home offices in Minneapolis, has awarded nearly $40,000 in grants to 19 Lutheran schools and organizations. The amount is part of a total expenditure of more than $650,000 to be given this year for a fraternal activity and benevolence program.

The United Lutheran Church in America needs 444 additional pastors in the immediate future, according to a report issued which cited a "manpower deficit" of ministers in the 2,500,000-member denomination. Of the 4,600 ULCA congregations 308 are without their own pastors.

A new joint seminary in Chicago to be known as the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago will be organized by the four church bodies which expect to be merged in 1962. The proposed school will succeed Augustana Theological Seminary of the Augustana Lutheran Church, Chicago Lutheran Theological Seminary of the United Lutheran Church in America, Grand View Seminary of the American Evangelical Lutheran Church and Suomi Theological Seminary of the Suomi Synod.

Complete and near sell-outs of the New English Bible's New Testament by thousands of bookstores throughout the country have zoomed it to the top of the best-seller list in the United States. The new Bible, a fresh translation into contemporary English idiom from original Hebrew and Greek texts, is the result of 13 years' work by an interdenominational committee of Biblical scholars representing 11 major groups in the British Isles.

All three children of a widowed Esthonian refugee woman who was resettled by Lutherans in the United States in 1949 have by now won $9,000 four-year college scholarships. The first of the three to win the Pitney-Bowes scholarship was Andrus Varnik, son of the widow, who is now a 23-year-old army lieutenant in Korea. His sister, Reet, followed and is now doing graduate work at Columbia University. Recently the scholarship was given to Marit Varnik, 18, the youngest sister.

THE VERY OLD: Ruins of this ancient Christian church are among the countless antiquities and priceless records of the Christian, Jewish and Moslem faiths which the UN seeks to rescue before the Upper Nile Valley is flooded when Egypt's Aswan Dam is completed in 1970. Temples dating back to the Pharaohs are included. A newly formed U.S. committee is cooperating with the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization in the vast project. Teams of engineers and archaeologists already are at work, and one of their tasks will be raising a temple built by Ramses II weighing 250,000 tons. Division of movable treasures among participating nations will be made according to the amount of their contributions.

THE VERY NEW: This is the architect's sketch of a modernistic edifice to be erected by the St. Matthew's Lutheran Church (ALC) on a site recently cleared of slums just six blocks south of the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C. It will be the first major church of contemporary design on Capitol Hill. While a number of churches of modern architecture have been built in Washington's suburbs, new downtown churches hitherto have been of Gothic, colonial or other conservative classic designs. The 350-seat Lutheran sanctuary will be surmounted by a 90-foot steeple, and the roof, 40 feet high, will be supported by a series of triangular louvres representing praying hands raised in supplication to God.

HELP WANTED!

By Chaplain Richard L. Combs, Capt., USA

DID YOU KNOW that every chaplain in the Army is authorized by regulation to have a helper?

In the Army we call them Chaplain's Assistants. They are selected at our five major basic training centers—Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, Fort Knox, Kentucky, Fort Jackson, South Carolina, Fort Dix, New Jersey, and Fort Ord, California—during the first week of basic training.

After completing the eight weeks of basic training they spend eight weeks at the BAAC school—Basic Army Administration Course—and then one week at one of the two Chaplain Assistant training schools—either Fort Dix or Fort Ord.

We are in constant need of chaplain's assistants in the Army. (By the way, it is a career field and you can go all the way to E-7 pay grade and even get proficiency pay as a chaplain's assistant.)

If you are a high school graduate and have a year or two of college under your belt, if you are of sound moral character, and if you are interested in becoming a chaplain's assistant, when you get to that basic training center you step forward and go see the Chaplain and tell him you would like to become a chaplain's assistant.

If you play the organ you will practically be a cinch to get the job.

Traditionally, Lutheran fellows have made the best chaplain's assistants due to several reasons—rich liturgical background, appreciation for church music, and concept of vocation. So why don't you give it a try and answer the call—HELP WANTED!

I have just returned from 90 days Administrative Absence spent at Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota.

THE CHAPEL IN THE FIELD: Pfc. Jack Green, Pfc. Roy Tribe, chaplain's assistant, and Chaplain Richard L. Combs, all kneeling outside Chaplain's tent. Notice in background the field desk, behind which is the field altar and portable field organ.

While I was there I met a young fellow, Roy Tribe, who was one of my first assistants in the Army. It was in the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. Roy had the spirit and enthusiasm and sense of duty to God and country that makes good chaplain's assistants. After his military service Roy finished college at Pacific Lutheran University and is now a senior at Luther Theological Seminary.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

Top General Welcomes Lutheran Students

Five of the participants were members of other Protestant denominations who are attending Lutheran colleges. Two foreign participants came from Canada and Sweden.

While in Washington the students had an opportunity to observe the federal government operation, discuss current issues, clarify the responsibilities of Christian citizenship in a democracy, and appraise the role of Christians in public life.

Lutherans in high government positions who took part in various sessions of the seminar were: Congressmen Walter H. Moeller (Mo. Synod) of Ohio and Albert H. Quie (ALC) of Minnesota; Dr. Myrl E. Alexander (ULCA), assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons; and Carl W. Loeber (Mo. Synod), acting chief, Spectrum Division, Directorate of Telecommunications, U.S. Air Force.

Ray Scherer (Mo. Synod), White House Correspondent for the National Broadcasting Company, and Chaplain (Commander) Robert Schneck (ULCA) of the ecclesiastical relations branch in the U.S. Navy's Chaplains Division also participated in the seminar.

An address by Morris Abrams, chief counsel for The Peace Corps, on "A New Approach for a New Age" gave the students first-hand information about this new government venture.

In the key-note address, Dr. Robert E. Van Deusen, Washington Secretary of the Division of Public Relations of the National Lutheran Council, discussed "The Christian Citizen in a Democracy."

After General Lemnitzer's welcoming remarks at the Pentagon, the students heard speeches on "The Role of the U.S. Armed Forces in World Affairs," "Our Missile and Space Programs" and "Character Guidance Programs in the Armed Forces" given by Thomas C. Thayer of the Defense Department's Office of International Security Affairs; Colonel Carolos R. Tosti, deputy chief of the U.S.A.F. Ballistic Missiles Branch; and Chaplain Schneck.

State Department officials pointed out the citizen's role in foreign affairs, told of the current status of disarmament negotiations and described the situation in Southeast Asia.

Sharing Your Experience:

DECISION IN KOREA

By The Rev. George F. Spieker

LIKE SO MANY YOUNG MEN, when I completed college I was still undecided concerning my life's work. Therefore, I waited for the inevitable call to serve my country. Little did I suspect, at that early date, how instrumental my experience in the Army would be in choosing a career.

The significant factors can be traced to my 15 months in Korea. There, in a strange country, separated by more than 8,000 miles from my family, it fell my lot to be assigned to an infantry company.

At that time, line units were still occasionally suffering heavy casualties. We were in reserve. Following a period of training, our regiment replaced another regiment in a sector of the M.L.R. We were all feeling pretty miserable. How we rejoiced when the cease-fire was signed that summer.

Earlier I had met the chaplain of our unit. He had conducted services for our company in a large bunker while we were on line. I had spoken with him frequently. He gave me the encouragement I needed so badly.

Then it happened! The chaplain was to be away. There was no one to conduct the service that Sunday unless I would accept the challenge to preach the sermon. Well, you can appreciate how I felt. I had worked in Sunday School before, but never had I conducted a church service, much less preached a sermon.

Nevertheless, I accepted the challenge and prepared the sermon using a Testament and several daily devotional booklets. I'm sure that first sermon was hardly adequate, but my friends assured me it was presentable.

Some months later, I again had a similar opportunity to substitute for the chaplain. I certainly shall never forget those early experiences. I still have copies of those two sermons on file.

I probably will never know to what exte the chaplain's influence and interest was a deciding factor in the choice of my life's work. And precisely at what moment I made my decision I cannot say. But during those long months in Korea, I gradually came to an awareness of what I was to be. I sought entrance at our seminary in Philadelphia, spent three years there, and was ordained a Lutheran clergyman.

As I reflect upon those two years in the Army, I know now they were not wasted. Somehow, God used them to help me choose to serve Him as a minister in His Church.

THIS WAS KOREA: In August, 1950, an Army chaplain, kneeling on bank, said last rites for American soldiers lying in ravine with hands tied behind their backs—shot by Communist-led North Koreans.

Pastor Spieker will be the recipient of the June $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

A MIGHTY FORTRESS

VOL. XI New York, N. Y., May, 1961 NO. 1

SYLVIA KINARD, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for May, is a secretary in the Stewardship Department of the United Lutheran Church in America.

She came to New York recently from her home town, Red Lion, Pa. In Red Lion, Sylvia was president of the Luther League and a Sunday school teacher of Grace Lutheran Church.

While working in New York she attends St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Manhattan, where she is a member of the Young People's Club.

She is a graduate of Red Lion Area High School where she was a cheer leader, a member of the dramatic club, the school paper and yearbook staff. Prior to joining the church staff she was secretary at a bank in Red Lion and served as a waitress at The Inn, Buck Hill Falls, Pa., during the time the executive committee meeting of the Lutheran Laymen's Movement was scheduled.

After attending church services with the committee and staff, she accepted an invitation to come to New York to serve in the LLM—Stewardship Department office.

COMMUNIST RADIO BOASTS RELIGIOUS RITES 'DYING OUT'

THE BUDAPEST RADIO broadcast statistics which it claimed showed that christenings and other religious rites are "gradually dying out" in Communist Hungary and being replaced by "socialist ceremonies."

It said that since the first Communist "name-giving" ceremony was held at Budapest in 1959 to replace Christian baptism, it has been widely acclaimed and copied. Meanwhile, it stated, Communist substitutes have been introduced also for Christian marriages and funerals.

CRITICS HAIL LUTHERAN MOVIE

MOVIE CRITICS warmly praised "Question Seven," a film dealing with the agonizing problems faced by a Protestant minister in East Germany under Communist persecution, following its world premiere in Washington, D.C.

Congressmen, government officials and Washington religious leaders attended. The film was produced for Lutheran Flim Associates by Louis de Rochemont Associates of New York. Six other premieres are being held in the U.S. and Canada.

"Question Seven" was termed a "heart stirring drama" by critic Jay Carmody of the Washington Evening Star. Richard L. Coe of the Washington Post called it "a microscopic view of today's major battle . . . immensely able cast."

James O'Neill, Jr., of the Washington Daily News and Scripps-Howard papers said: "This is not merely propaganda, but rather a story with a deep and important meaning for all creeds, beliefs and faiths. By all means see 'Question Seven' if you have any doubts as to what would happen to your church and your religion if you were so unfortunate as to be living under Russian Slave rule."

The portrayal by British actor Michael Gwynn of the pastor-hero was praised by the three critics as "superb," "wholly creditable" and "exceedingly well-played."

Religious leaders of all faiths have indicated they would strongly recommend the film.

QUESTION SEVEN depicts the battle for the mind and souls of youth in East Germany, where the struggling and persecuted Church is all but smothered by the pressure and propaganda of the Communist state with its program of atheistic indoctrination and movements such as the FDJ (Free German Youth) parading with trumpets and flags through towns and cities.

Second Glance

The Commander's Cross of the Federal Republic of Germany was bestowed on Dr. Paul C. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, in recognition of his efforts in German church reconstruction, material aid and refugee resettlement. The NLC director was cited for his widespread work toward German rehabilitation, with emphasis on his leadership in church reconstruction.

The Lutheran World Federation has inaugurated a new tuberculosis rehabilitation program for Chinese refugees in Hong Kong. In the beginning, some 300 refugees will benefit from the program which is financed in part by Lutheran World Action funds.

Congressman Walter M. Mumma, a Lutheran from Harrisburg, Pa., died in Washington, D.C. at the age of 70. He was a member of St. John's Lutheran church in Steelton, Pa.

Detroit, Michigan, has been chosen as the birthplace of the Lutheran Church in America, a new denomination of 3,150,000 members which will be created at the end of June, 1962, when the United Lutheran Church in America, Augustana Lutheran Church, the Suomi Synod and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church will merge. The constituting convention at Detroit will be attended by 1,000 delegates from the four church bodies.

U.S. Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona is scheduled as one of the major speakers at the annual Ashram of the Lutheran Student Association, to be held August 27-September 3 at Williams Bay, Wisc.

If you think that American Lutherans are the most generous in supporting missions and refugee aid projects, you are wrong. According to a recent Lutheran World Federation survey, the 55,000 member United Evangelical Lutheran Church in Australia, has—for its size—far surpassed all its sister Churches in the rest of the world in pouring resources into such Christian service. In one year it provided 121 missionaries and gave $57,900 for missions and $20,287 for World Refugee Year projects. At the same time, the 37 million German Lutherans provided 748 missionaries, $2,248,870 for missions and $304,793 for refugees; while the eight million Americans provided 1,378 missionaries, $10,129,723 for missions and $489,348 for refugees.

"Bread for the World," German Protestant fund drive for material and social aid to underdeveloped countries, which is now in its second year, is to be continued in future years. In its initial year it brought 19.5 million marks ($4,678,000), and the second annual campaign, launched last December, is expected to exceed this sum.

LUTHERAN SERGEANT GIVES BIBLES TO ROK ARMY: An American Army Sergeant, who said he is trying to "Bring Christ to the nation," has given 50 New Testaments printed in Korean to the Republic of Korea chaplain's office, the "Stars & Stripes" reported recently.

For two months Sgt. Theodore Nichols, Hq. Det., U.S. Army Advisory Group, Korea (KMAG), was buying the New Testaments with his own money, then Grace Lutheran Church in Killeen, Tex., his home church, became interested in his work and pledged financial assistance to buy 1,000 New Testaments and 227 King James Bibles.

Nichols said he will donate 100 New Testaments a month for the next 10 months until the 1,000 pledged Bibles and 227 King James versions are delivered.

I believe that

GOD CREATED ME

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

IN THE BEGINNING God created the heavens and the earth.

Who is God? According to Scripture we find that He is God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit. They were all there, all three, the three in one.

In thinking of the work of the three persons of the Godhead, we oftentimes associate the creation with God the Father, and yet in a real sense all three persons were there.

I know God the Son was there because it says in John, the first chapter, verses one through three, "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God; all things were made through him, and without him was not anything made that was made."

In the fourteenth verse it identifies that Word when it says, "And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us . . . and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth."

We also know that God the Holy Spirit was there, because it says in Genesis, the first chapter, verse two: "The Spirit of God was moving over the face of the waters."

It is interesting to notice also in the first chapter of Genesis that God says in the twenty-sixth verse, in regard to the creation of man, "Let us (note the plural)—let us make man in our image, after our likeness"; God is one and yet there are three persons in that Godhead.

In Psalm 95, verses three through five, we read, "For the Lord is a great God, and a great King above all gods. In His hand are the depths of the earth; the heights of the mountains are His also. The sea is His, for He made it; for His hands formed the dry land."

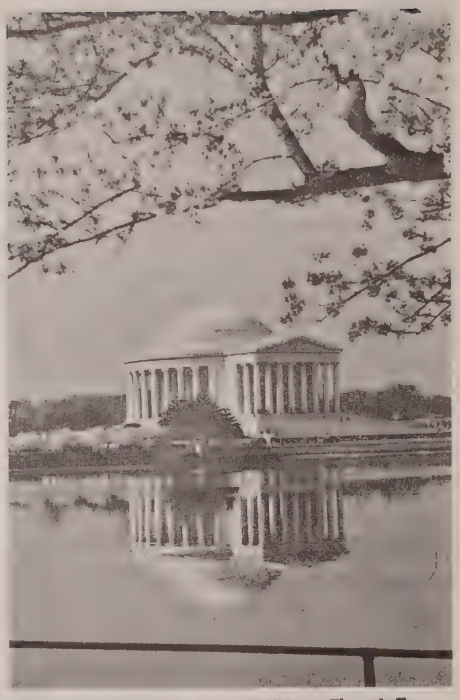
What tremendous resources there are in the earth—gold, silver, metals, precious stones, oil, uranium, and others. In recent years in some areas in the upper Midwest one farmer after another has discovered oil on his property. This oil which he has found is God's. God has permitted him to find it and use it.

It behooves each discoverer of God's riches to use this wealth in a way pleasing to Him, but there are some people who cannot enjoy prosperity; some can't stand to be rich.

Jesus knew this. That's why He said, "It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of heaven." And so we have had examples of people who have had a Christian faith while living in poverty but, having become wealthy, have acted as though they alone owned this wealth, when in reality they are just stewards. God really owns it.

The resources of the earth and the world which we discover, which we have and possess, can be used to bless us and mankind if we are just willing to turn it loose according to God's scheme of things. And remember, by comparison with peoples of other parts of the world, almost everyone reading this article is rich even in regard to material things. A brief trip to such a place as India, China, Japan, or the Philippines would soon convince us of that.

There are tremendous resources in the sea. Each molecule of water, yes, each drop of water, has life in it. Scientists are working on a way by which the amoeba, the one-celled creation of God, will provide bread for all the people of the world. Sometimes I've seen the Pacific Ocean as still as it could possibly be. It resembled a sheet of glass. At other times it has become like an angry monster raging in fury.



In Psalm 147 we are told, "He determines the number of the stars. He gives to all of them their names. Great is our God, and abundant in power; His understanding is beyond measure." Verses 8-9: "He covers the heavens with clouds, He prepares rain for the earth, He makes grass grow upon the hills. He gives to the beasts their food, and to the young ravens which cry."

God keeps track of all these things. No human being could possibly know everything that there is to know even about one subject, but God knows about them all. He knows everything about the creation. He creates, but He also keeps. He sustains. He has His whole universe in the hollow of His hand. If He were to remove His hand, the whole universe would collapse.

But do you know, the remarkable thing about it is this—that even though in comparison to the rest of God's creation you and I are quite small and insignificant—yet we find, according to Psalm 147, that God's delight is not in the strength of the animals nor in the strength of men, "but the Lord takes pleasure in those who fear him, in those who hope in His steadfast love."

Certainly this God of creation is great, or as Isaiah put it in chapter 40, verses 25-26-28: "To whom then will you compare me, that I should be like him? says the Holy One. Lift up your eyes on high and see: who created these? He who brings out their host by number, calling them all by name; by the greatness of His might, and because He is strong in power not one is missing. Have you not known? Have you not heard? The Lord is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He does not faint or grow weary, His understanding is unsearchable."

Have you not known? Have you not heard? The Lord is the everlasting God. I believe that God has created me and all that exists. Next time we will look further into that statement. We will look at man and see what God has created in him.

Sharing Your Experience:

ALONE IN THE JUNGLE

By Pfc. Merland D. Tollefson Jr.

AS TRAINEES at the U.S. Army Jungle Warfare Training Center in the Canal Zone, we had looked forward to one of the highlights of the three week course, the "Escape and Evasion" problem.

This is a simulated emergency situation in which the trainee is expected to make his way through several miles of jungle alone and unaided.

On the appointed day we set out in high spirits, which in my case, did not last long.

After several hours of toiling through the heavy underbrush I sat down to rest.

"That's funny," I thought, "I should have reached the base camp by now." And as I drained the last drop of water from my canteen, I realized that I was lost.

With darkness descending, I panicked as visions of bottomless pits, spiny plants, heat exhaustion, poisonous snakes, and unseen insects flashed through my mind. I plunged through the steaming foliage until I fell exhausted to the ground.

Then, slowly, new phrases began ebbing into my conscious, "He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty" . . . and . . . "Thou shalt not be afraid of the terror by night." Scriptures learned in tedious summer Bible Sessions and long since forgotten.

Panic left me, and I set to work constructing a shelter in which I spent the night. The next morning I remained there until I heard shouts and said a silent prayer of thanks as the search party came into view.

Pfc. Tollefson will be the recipient of the May $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

350th ANNIVERSARY OF THE KING JAMES VERSION: Portrayed here is the historic Hampton Court Conference in 1604 at which bishops of the Church of England and Puritan leaders mapped plans for a new translation of the Bible into English. Completed in 1611, the Authorized Version, more popularly, known as the King James Version, has long been endeared to millions because of its literary beauty. This scene is from an American Bible Society anniversary film entitled "How Our Bible Came to Us."

MORAL ISSUES STRESSED IN RISING HIGHWAY DEATHS

THE 800 MINNESOTA CONGREGATIONS of the American Lutheran Church have been urged to discuss the moral and spiritual issues raised by the rising highway death rate.

A statement submitted to the congregations urges Christians to practice driving discipline and to ride as passengers only with drivers who discipline themselves.

"The Christ we preach expects His followers to lead disciplined, controlled, responsible lives, governing themselves by the effects of their actions upon others," the statement declares. "Rash, impetuous, thoughtless and irresponsible behavior are alien to the Christian spirit."

THIS UNUSUAL PAINTING of the Crucifixion, by Salvador Dali, more noted for surrealist spectaculars, hangs in the Glasgow, Scotland, museum. It is called the "Christ of St. John of the Cross." Forcibly calling our attention to the message of Christ crucified and risen, it has become recognized as a major painting of religious significance.

EASTER celebrates far more than the springtime reawakening of nature—it proclaims God's triumph over death in the glorious resurrection of His Son Jesus Christ! But the blossoming-forth of winter-deadened earth has long been considered a symbol of the life and immortality which Christ brought to the world through His victory. (RNS Photos)

The Word for Easter—

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

NOT LONG AGO a terrible tragedy took place when two airmen and their wives, flying in a civilian plane, plunged to their death. Officiating at one of the two military funerals was an unforgettable experience. Between the two caskets there was placed a photograph of this couple, just married a few years ago. Some of the comments frequently heard were, "They lived a full life", "They enjoyed flying" and "They enjoyed each other's company."

This whole experience reminded us of the brevity of life. How often do we not think and act as though we were going to live forever. All of us, whether we are in danger zones on military assignment or driving "safely" on a highway or flying in a plane, generally think that a fatal accident "will never happen to me." But tragedy does strike without previous notice and with finality.

At funeral services frequently there is a passage which is read from Psalm 90:12, "So teach us to number our days that we may get a heart of wisdom." When we were children we thought of teen-agers as being quite "grown up." As teen-agers we may think of middle-aged forty years olds as being quite advanced in age. By the time one reaches forty he doesn't feel nearly as old as he thought he would. When he looks ahead he realizes that seventy is not too far away. And even if one lives to be eighty or ninety, which most people do not, how long is such a life span in comparison to eternity, where time is no more, where there is everlasting life?

Psalm 39:4 says, "Lord, let me know my end, and what is the measure of my days; let me know how fleeting my life is!" Behold, thou hast made my days a few handbreadths and my lifetime is as nothing in thy sight. Surely every man stands as a mere breath! Surely man goes about as a shadow!"

How difficult it is for us who live in this hustle and bustle of the 'sixties to hold up short and "begin to number our days." But if we would, then the Lord could give us a heart of wisdom. Life insurance companies have made us very conscious of time, of preparing for old age and providing for loved ones when we have left this earth. It is absolutely essential that we also give thought to eternity and to providing a place for ourselves when we leave this earth. How wonderful it is to know that the Lord is providing a place for us. All we have to do is to accept in faith what He has promised as we come to Him in repentance and trust. Certainty for eternity is even more important than temporal security.

During the Easter season we are reminded of the great hope which the Christian has, namely, eternal life with our Lord and loved ones who are followers of the Savior. Humanly speaking, Jesus had lots of nerve to make the claims that he did. But you see, He was not just a human. He was God and man in one person. This is why He could say, "I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live, and whoever lives and believes in me shall never die. Do you believe this?" (John 11:25, 26).

One of the great blessings from God Himself is the assurance of eternal life through Jesus Christ who rose from the dead. If we are taken by death, will loved ones left behind be able to speak with confidence and hope that we have not just gone to a "beautiful isle of somewhere"? Will they have the assurance that on the basis of God's Word we have entered eternal life and have gone to that "place" prepared for us by the Lord Himself?

Christ said, "In my Father's house are many rooms; if it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you? And when I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also" (John 14:2,3). The Apostle Paul could say, "For me to live is Christ and to die is gain" (Philippians 1:21). Can you say this?

GIRL OF THE MONTH

BONNIE LOU WULBER is Lutheran Girl of the Month for April.

The second oldest of eight children, Bonnie has many responsibilities at home and on her family's Ohio farm. These have not hindered her active participation in school and church activities, however.

At Versailles, Ohio, High School, from which she graduated in 1962, our "Lutheran Girl" was an academic leader. In her parish Church, St. Paul's of Willowdell, Ohio, she sings in the choir, teaches Sunday school and a Junior Lutheran class, and has been a Luther League officer.

Bonnie intends to enroll at Capital University, Columbus, Ohio, this coming fall, where she will major in elementary education.

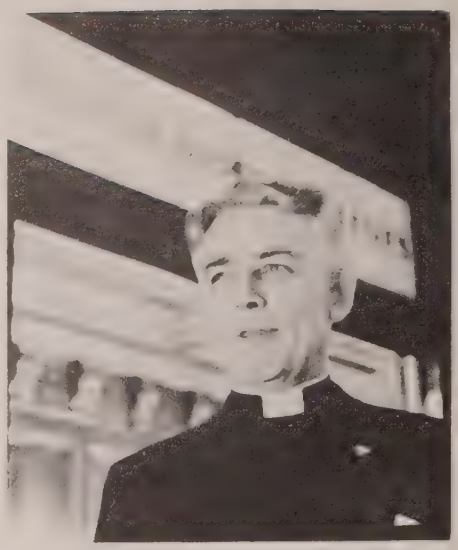
'PERFECT PRAYER' OF HERO CHAPLAIN RECALLED AFTER 20 YEARS

CHAPLAIN Clark V. Poling, one of the immortal four chaplains of the U.S.S. Dorchester, offered the "perfect prayer" before he sailed on what was to be his last mission, his father, Dr. Daniel A. Poling, said. He offered the prayer, "Lord, make me adequate," his father recalled at a dinner in Washington marking the 20th anniversary of the death of the four chaplains on Feb. 3, 1943.

Chaplain Poling—together with his colleagues, Chaplains George Fox (Methodist), Alexander D. Goode (Jewish) and John Washington (Roman Catholic)—lost his life in the sinking of the troop ship in the North Atlantic.

The chaplains gave their lifebelts to enlisted men who came to deck without the life-saving aids. When last seen, the chaplains were standing at the sloping rail, their arms linked together in prayer.



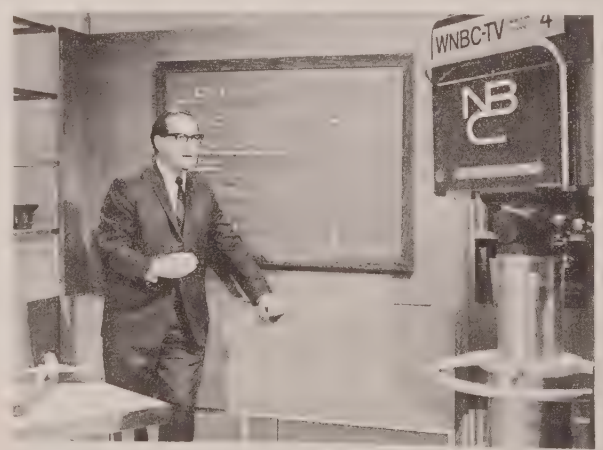
Dr. Poling recalled that his 31-year-old son, pastor of a Dutch Reformed Church in Schenectady, N.Y., came to his home just before sailing overseas and asked him not to pray that he would return. "I have no premonition and I think I will return," he quoted his son as saying, "but I ask no prayers on my behalf other than that I be adequate to the tasks I have to perform."

"This was a perfect prayer," said Dr. Poling, "it did not ask for preferment or for anything miraculous but just to be adequate to his responsibilities. And when I heard of how he died, I knew he had been adequate, and that the other men who died with him had been, too," Dr. Poling declared.

"I have often been asked what Clark accomplished by his death," Dr. Poling said. "He accomplished the same that the other 300,000 of our men who died in World War II bought with their lives."

"They bought us time to talk, to plan for a world of peace—just a little more time to try to win the peace," he told the 300 persons gathered for the commemoration. "If they had lost, we would not be here."

Dr. Poling appealed for a world of brotherhood and peace that would be worthy of the sacrifice the four chaplains made. "The hour may be late and the outlook very dim, but we have not lost the peace yet, and, God willing, perhaps we may not," he said.



THE CLERICAL GARB of Pennsylvania State Representative Earl S. Walker often causes his fellow representatives to mistake him for the chaplain of the House. Actually he is a Lutheran clergyman as well as a freshman legislator. The pastor of Mt. Hebron Church, East Pittsburgh, Pastor Walker says he intends to go right on wearing clerical suits because the people "saw my picture on campaign folders that way and they voted for me that way. When they come to Harrisburg, they'll find me that way, as I do the job for which I was elected." He says if there is ever a conflict between religion and politics in his thinking, "I am a pastor first." (RNS Photo)

PASTOR OPENS 'KEY CLUB' PROGRAM FOR YOUTH

A DETROIT Lutheran Church has opened a key club for teenagers which won't have the "bunnies" associated with adult key clubs.

"Bunnies are a symbol of a playboy attitude which is irresponsible," commented the Rev. David Eberhard, pastor of Riverside Lutheran Church. "We want to show that church youth are responsible."

To be eligible for the club, each teener must put in four hours of service to the Church. Membership fee is $1 and dues are 10¢ a month. The club will provide recreational facilities, such as table tennis, barbells, games, television, and record player. Members also may have a juke box if they want to buy one, Pastor Eberhard said.

PICTURED AT LEFT is Dr. Hagen Staack, professor at Muhlenberg College, Allentown, Pa., as he gives TV course in the Book of Genesis. The three-month series continues through April on NBC-TV Frontiers of Faith program. Trained as a geologist, Dr. Staack is also an ordained Lutheran pastor. He has been called a "fresh and exciting personality" who "will open the eyes of his television viewers to the relevance of the Book of Genesis to today's world."

¶ Speaking at the annual Presidential Prayer Breakfast in Washington in February, President Kennedy told 700 national leaders that "we cannot depend solely on our material wealth, military might or intellectual skill or physical courage to see us safely through" times of national crisis. "Along with all of these we need faith—the faith with which our Founding Fathers proudly proclaimed the independence of our country in what seemed at that time an almost hopeless struggle.

"We are the builders of the future," the President said, "and whether we build as public servants or private citizens . . . we all know the truth of the ancient psalm, 'Except the Lord build the house, they labor in vain that build it'."

¶ The Rev. William Crews, chaplain of the New Mexico State Legislature, opened a recent session with a prayer that has caused considerable comment. The pastor of St. Bede's Episcopal Church prayed: "Almighty God, we who spend $10,000 for a bus so our children will not have to walk, and then budget $100,000 for a gym so they can get exercise, do now seek Your guidance in all matters, that Your creation might be used with wisdom for the welfare of Your people."

¶ The National Lutheran Council's annual meeting passed a resolution calling on Christians in our land to make greater efforts to know and understand the United Nations, its strengths and weaknesses, its problems and achievements, "to the end that intelligent and prayerful support may be given to the efforts of nations to regulate their affairs for the best interests of all humanity."

¶ Lutherans in America raised over $4,203,000 in 1962's Lutheran World Action appeal. This was 98.1% of the announced goal. LWA funds are used to support the Church's ministry to service men and women, as well as various global mission and relief projects. A goal of $4,450,000 has been set for 1963.

¶ A total of 428,809 military personnel and their dependents utilized Lutheran Service Commission facilities in 1962, it was reported to the NLC annual meeting. The agency operates 20 service centers in the U.S. and overseas, and provides financial support to 28 congregations which maintain special programs for nearby armed forces personnel.

¶ The (Lutheran) Norwegian Missionary Society "has no intention of complying with a (South African) government order to evict the more than 3,200 Zulus now living at its Inhlazatsche and Imfule stations," it was reported. The segregation move ordered by South Africa would uproot tens of thousands of African Christians. Reason for the action is that the missions are situated in areas which, according to apartheid plans, are to be exclusively for whites.

Spring Fair at Lutheran College Promotes World Friendship, Good-will

YOUNGSTERS appear fascinated by a "tribesman" outside his fraternity's booth at Augustana College Friendship Fair. Students of the Lutheran college annually raise over $5,000 for scholarships for foreign students.

¶ Nineteen young Protestants, two of them clergymen, have been sentenced by the East German regime to jail terms for what was described as "militant religious activity."

¶ Growth in U.S. church membership failed to keep pace with population growth in 1961, for the first time in a century, according to recently released statistics. Church membership has grown from less than 10% of the population in 1776 to over 65% today.

THE REV. DR. P. O. BERSELL of Minneapolis, 80, receives a "Testimonial of Service" from Major General Robert P. Taylor for "outstanding assistance to military personnel and their dependents" dating back to 1917. Gen. Taylor, Armed Forces Chaplain Board chairman and chief of Air Force chaplains, also gave Dr. Bersell a letter of appreciation from the Department of Defense, citing his 45 years of service. The citation was presented at the 45th annual meeting of the National Lutheran Council. Dr. Bersell is retiring from chairmanship of both the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel and the Lutheran Service Commission.

EACH SPRING at Augustana College in Rock Island, Illinois, students prepare a campus-wide activity known as Friendship Fair.

Plans are begun early in January in preparation for the announcement of the theme late in February. Work then begins among campus organizations to plan and construct mammoth booths which extend into the rafters of the gymnasium. In the past these booths, built with the theme in mind, have depicted anything from Greek temples to fishermen's wharves to George Orwell's "Animal Farm." For a day the gym is transformed into a world of fantasy and fun.

Behind all of this, however, is the serious purpose for which the fair was founded—to do a small part in helping foreign students obtain an education, and to send Christian friendship and good-will abroad. With the money raised, overseas students are brought to Augustana and an Augustana student is given the opportunity to study abroad.

The theme of .the 1963 Friendship Fair is "Musical Marquees." On April 27, the booths at the fair will portray scenes from any musical ever advertised on a marquee. Preconstructed weeks in advance, the booths are completed in the gymnasium in one all-night affair. Thought, ingenuity, planning, and near-hysteria accompany the booth building.

On Saturday afternoon, the new world opens to people who come from many states to view the spectacle and join in the games which await them inside. Saturday evening an auction is conducted in the gym, at which everyone can bid for items donated by foreign students, friends of the college, and community businessmen.

At 10:00 the doors to the gym swing closed, but the people don't go home. They flock to Augustana's Centennial Hall for the big formal auction. Here small groups and large organizations have the chance to buy such parties as steak fries, boat rides, breakfasts, or just dinner for two. Bids soar to unbelievable heights for the best parties.

The climax comes when the scholarship winners from overseas are announced to the audience and a student from Augustana is awarded a scholarship to study abroad during his junior year. A Miss and Mr. Friendship, elected by the fair-goers, are crowned from the candidates who were selected by the student body. Finally, the grand total of the proceeds is announced. Last year, $5,700 was raised.

As a result of last year's fair, Augustana is proud to have on its campus Boniface Kwimbere and Geoffrey Mushi from the Lutheran mission field in northern Tanganyika, Africa, and Mikreyohannes Woldearegay from Fitche, Ethiopia. The student body is equally proud to be represented abroad by Carol Johnson, a junior from Chicago, who is studying in Germany.

Augustana's Friendship Fair continues to be a conscious effort on the part of American students to know and understand students from other countries.

By SFC Norwood Boyette

AN UNUSUAL set of circumstances lends itself to a story concerning an Army Specialist who is a member of Memorial Lutheran Church, Harrisburg, Pa.

I first met Sp-4 John T. Griffith when I took charge of the Public Information Office at Camp Darby located at Livorno in central Italy. From our first meeting, we 'hit-it-off' and became a team working toward our mutual goal of helping the Italian people understand America. The task of presenting America in a good light demands the greatest degree of tact, since the city of Livorno is a Communist stronghold in Italy.

A combination of religious background acquired from Luther League work, leadership abilities and public relations finesse made him a natural for this type of job.

After much encouragement from the office staff, he entered the noteworthy picture in his first photo-competition. It won first prize and a cash award.

A few days after the announcement was made of his award, the shocking news was heard of earthquakes in the Naples region. Remembering his pleasant trip to the area (Capri is a two-hour trip by boat) and realizing their plight, Griffith decided to endorse the check and forward it immediately to an American newspaper in Rome collecting contributions for the disaster victims.

While there were many things he could have purchased with the check, it was indeed heartwarming that a young fellow Lutheran was one of the first to answer the call of help by turning his check over to the relief fund. In my opinion, this illustrates the Biblical adage: "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it."

FRAMED . . . Sp-4 John T. Griffith of the 8th Logistical Command in central Italy, used a fisherman's net to frame the picturesque harbor on the Isle of Capri. He later contributed his monetary award as first-prize winner in a photo contest, to aid Naples earthquake disaster victims.

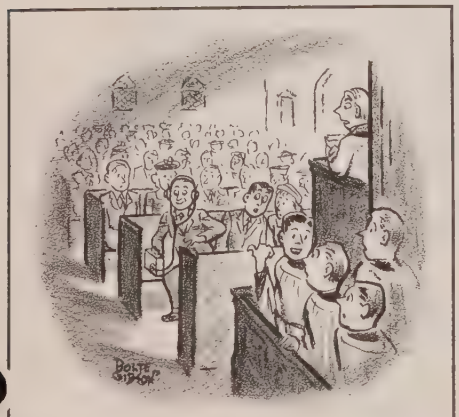
JUDY GREIF of Des Moines, Iowa, is March's Lutheran Girl of the Month.



A member of a recently organized congregation, Prince of Peace Church of Northeast Des Moines, Judy herself is a recent convert to the Lutheran Church, having been instructed and baptized just two years ago. Since then, according to her pastor, the Rev. Harlan Blockhus, her "inspiring and devoted leadership has been much appreciated" by her parish.

Her church activities include participation in the choir, Sunday school staff, and Luther League. She presently serves the latter organization as its president.

Eighteen-year-old Judy's helpfulness was recognized at her high school commencement last June, when she was selected to receive the Distinguished Citizenship Award for being the "most helpful" member of her class.

She is now employed as a secretary in the credit department of a large store in Des Moines.

LUTHERAN SUCCEEDS LUTHERAN AS HEAD OF NATO FORCES

GENERAL Lauris Norstad, son of a Lutheran pastor, retired recently from military life and a post he has held since 1956, Supreme Commander of Allied Forces in Europe. He was succeeded by another Lutheran, Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer.

General Lemnitzer, 63, assumed the top NATO military post after two years as Joint Chiefs of Staff Chairman—the highest uniformed military position in the United States.

General Norstad, 55, who had been in NATO commands for twelve years, was the fourth U.S. general to hold the key command post of the western defense alliance. His predecessors were former President Eisenhower, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway and Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther.

A son of the late Rev. Martin Norstad, Gen. Norstad was born in Minneapolis but spent most of his childhood in Red Wing, Minn. A brother, the Rev. Fredric M. Nordstad, went into the ministry. He served pastorates, as a Navy chaplain, as a director of chaplaincy services of the Lutheran Welfare Society of Minnesota and is now professor of Practical Theology at Luther Seminary in St. Paul.

GEN. NORSTAD

Gen. Norstad was the first Air Force officer and the youngest man, at 49, named to the top NATO command. A graduate of West Point in 1930, he entered the Army Air Corps a year later. He went to Germany in 1950 as Commander of the United States Air Force in Europe. In 1951, he assumed additional duty as Commanding General of the Allied Air Forces in Central Europe. Two years later he became Gen. Gruenther's Deputy Air Commander.

Similarly, Gen. Lemnitzer graduated from West Point in 1920. At the age of 51 he qualified as an army parachutist. He was Army Chief of Staff from July, 1959, until he assumed chairmanship of the Joint Chiefs on Oct. 1, 1960. General Lemnitzer has been called a "soldier-diplomat" because of his negotiating ability which came into prominence during the second World War.

GEN. LEMNITZER

LUTHERAN CHAPLAIN CITED FOR NUCLEAR SERIES WORK

LUTHERAN Chaplain (Capt.) James R. Hayes has been cited by the Army for meritorious service during the 1962 nuclear test series held in the Pacific. This marked the third time in as many years that he has received a significant military honor for his activities.

Chaplain Hayes, 43, was awarded the Army Commendation Medal (First Oak Leaf Cluster) for contributing to the high morale of personnel at an isolated location and for preparing a history of the test series conducted at Johnston Island.

The commendation dated November 28, 1962, stated that in addition to normal ministerial activities, Chaplain Hayes wrote a "highly professional historical record of the operation (which) added a permanent contribution to the success of the project." The award was signed by the Secretary of the Army.

Chaplain Hayes has been on continuous active duty since January, 1954. During World War II he served as an enlisted man with the Counter Intelligence Corps in the Pacific. He then entered Lutheran Theological Seminary in Philadelphia, Pa., and returned to military service as a chaplain.

OLD AND NEW IN CHURCH ARCHITECTURE

At left is St. John's Church in Phoenixville, Pa., which has been given the Pennsylvania Society of Architects' silver medal as the outstanding building of 1962. Architect Lawrence Drake used the 217-year-old Augustus church (upper left) in nearby Trappe, Pa., the oldest unaltered Lutheran church in America, as the inspiration for his design for the new $375,000 building.

The new St. John's is reminiscent of Reformation period buildings in Germany which German colonists copied when they settled in Pennsylvania.

At right are two views of a church that has been described as a bird, an airplane and a fish! It is the new building being built in Rocky Point, N.Y. for Trinity Church. Top photo is a rear view of a model of the structure, bottom photo a front view.

The Rev. Armin R. Heidmann, pastor, describes it as "a structure of our age." The building, which will cost $112,000 stresses the repeated use of triangular-shaped timber in the roof-line that sweeps upward from a long horizontal front. The triangular theme symbolizes the Holy Trinity. (RNS Photos)

CONGRESS OPENS SESSION WITH PRAYER

Two Senators and 15 House members in the new Congress are Lutherans. Of the 17, seven are Democrats and ten Republicans. They are members of the three major Lutheran Churches: seven belong to the Lutheran Church in America, seven to The American Lutheran Church and three to the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

Fewer Lutherans are serving in this Congress than last. There were 21 in the 87th Congress, four Senators and 17 House members. (RNS Photo)

Second Glance

¶ The new year marked the start of official functions of the Lutheran Church in America, formed by merger of four Lutheran groups at a Detroit convention last June. It serves 3,250,000 out of North America's 8,600,000 Lutherans. Its new magazine, The Lutheran, a bi-weekly, appeared on Jan. 2, and was mailed to 355,000 subscribers.

¶ Another Lutheran merger was completed Feb. 1, as the Lutheran Free Church joined forces with The American Lutheran Church. A few congregations of the 90,000 member Free Church refused to join the 2,400,000 member ALC and are taking steps to organize a conference of their own.

¶ The Lutheran World Federation executive committee, meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, heard reports from Lutheran observers at the Roman Catholic Vatican Council. Executive secretary of the LWF, Dr. Kurt Schmidt-Clausen, remarked that "despite all the reservations which we have in regard to the Roman Catholic Church, the improvement of relations between this Church and ourselves . . . should fill us all with joy and thankfulness."

¶ The President of Finland, Dr. Urho Kekkonen, will address participants in the Helsinki Assembly of the Lutheran World Federation next summer, it was announced. Lutheran churchmen from all over the world are now making plans to attend the Helsinki meetings, in which the common concerns of the world's 70 million Lutherans in doctrine, witness and service will be discussed.

¶ Establishment of more Lutheran parochial elementary and high schools was urged by Dr. Conrad Bergendoff, executive secretary of the LCA's Board of Theological Education, in a speech before the National Lutheran Educational Conference. LCA congregations presently operate only 16 such schools, ALC congregations sponsor 57, while Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod schools number 1,400.

A Discipline for Lent—

CHECK UP ON YOURSELF!

by the Rev. Charles D. Trexler, Jr.
Lt. Col., USAR

THE NIGHT when Jesus was betrayed He met with his disciples for the Last Supper. There is always something very sad about a last meal together. Remember your last meal with your family before you left to go into the service? The Last Supper in the upper room had this sorrow of parting hanging over it. But this sorrow was deepened when Jesus said, "The hand of him that will betray me is on the table with me." Immediately the disciples became very much disturbed. You know Da Vinci's painting of the Last Supper. Jesus has just told them about the betrayal. The artist captures something of the turbulent scene as the question "Lord, is it I?" goes around the table.

It is to the credit of the disciples that they asked this question, each one referring to himself. They might very well have asked it of the other fellow. This is the all too familiar human pattern. James and John had asked for a position of honor at Jesus' right and left. The other disciples might very well have been suspicious of that. They might very well have asked, "Lord, is it James?" or "Lord, is it John?" They might have been suspicious of the one who was handling the funds and have asked, "Lord, is it Judas?" Or they might have asked, "Lord, is it Peter?" —because Peter, in his impulsive way, was always putting himself in the foreground and was looked upon as their leader. But each of them, as the question was asked, said, "Lord, is it I?" It was a good thing that they asked the question about themselves.

It was a good thing that they judged themselves first. It's always easier to see a fault in another person than in yourself. But of this you can be sure: the very faults that you see most clearly in other people are the faults you have yourself. It is easier to judge other people than to judge ourselves. Our Lord warns us to be sure to take the plank out of our eye before we try to take the speck of dust out of someone else's eye.

It is good for us as disciples of Christ always to be asking this question—always to be testing ourselves as to whether our lives are betraying our Lord. We always have to be checking up on ourselves. St. Paul warns those who are standing up straight to take heed lest they fall. There's a story about Da Vinci and the famous painting of the Last Supper. He was looking for models. He found a young man in the cathedral choir at Milan who was, he thought, a wonderful model for Christ. But he had a problem in finding a model for Judas. Time moved slower then, and he waited 20 years to finish the painting. Finally he found a derelict of a man in the streets of Rome and used him as a model for Judas. Imagine his amazement when he discovered that this model was the same person who had posed for the figure of Christ years ago. If we are on our own we never know what we are capable of becoming. We must constantly be sure we are in a state of grace. We must constantly be asking the question, "Lord, is it I?"

It is good for us to ask this question. It is good for us to judge ourselves—at least to question ourselves—before we judge or question others. The only way that Christ can come into our hearts with his strength and power is by the road of humility. His strength is made perfect in weakness. It is the seeming weakness of sincere humility which is the greatest strength we have.

What about your life — your actions — your conversation? Are you betraying Christ? Lord, is it I?

AS LENT BEGINS, an American GI who guards the "truce line" between North and South Korea is shown praying near a wooden cross overlooking his guardpost. The soldier is a member of the U.S. Army's First Cavalry Division.

Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, was Feb. 27 this year. The season continues for 40 days, not counting the six Sundays in Lent. Lenten observances concentrate in a special way on our Lord's struggle against the powers of sin and death, culminating in the events of Good Friday and Easter.

For those who have not kept up a regular devotional life, Lent is a good time to begin the practice of daily Bible reading as suggested on the last page of this issue.

"Radio Voice of the Gospel" Begins Operation in Ethiopia

ADDIS ABABA, the capital of Ethiopia, is the location of a new radio station, owned and operated by the Lutheran World Federation. Operating under the call letters ETLF, the station was officially opened by Emperor Haile Selassie I on Feb. 26.

With its two 100 kilowatt shortwave transmitters, the station will be a powerful tool in the hands of the Church in its effort to proclaim the Christian message to the peoples of Africa and Asia.

Development of the station began with endorsement of the idea by the LWF's Commission on World Mission in 1958. The strategic importance of reaching Africa with the Gospel and the rapid increase in the number of radio receivers in an area where most people cannot read or write suggested this move. A 30-year agreement was signed with the Ethiopian government, property for erection of studios and transmitters was purchased, staff members appointed, and construction begun.

In addition to the main studio in Addis Ababa, seven area production studios are in operation in various countries to which broadcasts are beamed. Another nine such area studios are planned. Initial broadcasts are in the following languages: Amharic, Arabic, English, Malagasy, Sesotho, Afrikaans, Zulu and Swahili. Additional areas will be added later, including broadcasts to India.

"Radio Voice of the Gospel" staff at the home studio includes more than 65 persons, representing more than 20 nationalities. Several Americans are included, among them Erich Kraemer, technical director of the station. General director is Dr. Sigurd Aske, a Norwegian. A large group of Ethiopian nationals works hand-in-hand with the foreign staff members.

About 30% of the station's programs will be evangelistic in nature, 70% educational. Almost 50% of the broadcasts will be under non-Lutheran church auspices.

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

Beginning this month, our daily Bible reading suggestions are based on The Uniting Word, a daily Bible reading guide issued by the youth offices of the Lutheran church bodies.

These readings follow the Church Year. Monday through Saturday, the passages are texts for the coming Sunday; the Sunday reading is the Old Testament Lesson for that day.

Thousands of your fellow Lutherans are reading the same Scripture passages each day as this guide suggests. By following this plan you will be united in reading the Word with them.

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He comands, obey. When He guides, follow.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

NANCY JANE FROMM, a member of St. Mark's Church in Reading, Pennsylvania, is Lutheran Girl of the month for February.

Service to her church is high on the list of Nancy's activities. She is military personnel contact secretary, in charge of mailing A MIGHTY FORTRESS to service men and women of her parish. Her musical accomplishments equip her to be substitute organist and an alto in the choir, as well as pianist in the church school.

At 24, only a few years out of high school, she is secretary to the vice president of an insurance company, and has been "cover girl" for the company's publication. She frequently takes part in seasonal dramatic productions in her church.

Pastor Laurence G. Horn of St. Mark's, who nominated Nancy, describes her as "attractive, with an infectious smile and brown eyes that match her hair."

"The guest preacher this morning will be Dr. Glucose—who is definitely more in the mood than I am!"

LUTHERAN CHAPLAIN LEADS AIR FORCE TV "CHAPEL"

A LUTHERAN CHAPLAIN has been named permanent minister of the Air Force "Chapel of the Air"—a weekly televised service viewed at USAF installations throughout the world. It has been estimated that the program has a larger military audience and wider geographical coverage than any other Protestant weekly service.

Chaplain, Major, Hans E. Sandrock, a pastor of The American Lutheran Church, was recently assigned to the professional division of the Chief of Air Force Chaplains office. One of his principal responsibilities is the "Chapel of the Air." He preaches weekly to thousands via kinescope recordings.

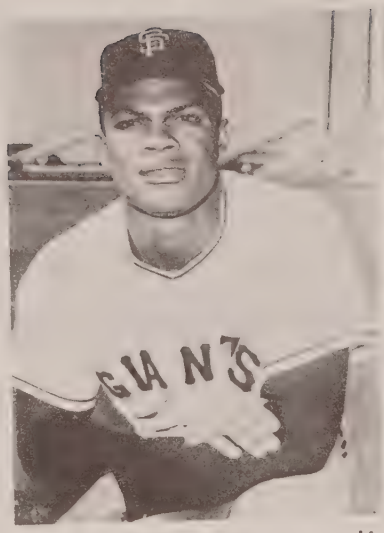
The half-hour service is produced by WTOP-TV and telecast to its Washington, D.C. audience each Sunday morning. Kinescopes of the program are subsequently viewed over armed forces television stations in Alaska, Iceland, Greenland, Puerto Rico, Okinawa, Korea, the Philippines, and the Azores.

After the kinescopes have been viewed by television audiences, they are distributed to radar sites, missile installations and other isolated Air Force units where they are shown by motion picture projectors.

The usual format of the weekly "Chapel of the Air" since its beginning on April 8, 1956, included a guest preacher, either an Air Force chaplain or a Church official, with the permanent minister conducting the order of worship. In October the Air Force Chaplain Chief, Major General Robert P. Taylor, designated that the preaching also be a responsibility of the permanent minister.

Chaplain Sandrock said that this is being tried for several months in an effort to strengthen the continuity of the weekly service.

A native of Waverly, Iowa, Chaplain Sandrock is a graduate of Wartburg College (Waverly) and Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa. He has taken graduate work at the University of Iowa and the Air University, Maxwell AFB, Alabama. His military experience since entering the Air Force in 1950 has included duty at bases in Mississippi, Alabama, California, Alaska and Iceland.



He is one of 244 chaplains of Churches participating in the National Lutheran Council who are on active duty in the armed forces. Eighty-one of these serve in the Air Force.

SPORTS FIGURES SPEAK THE WORD "OUT OF SEASON"

TAKING LITERALLY the Biblical injunction to "preach the Word . . . out of season . . ." (2 Tim.4:2), two young sports personalities are witnessing for Christ in a special way when not occupied on the playing fields.

Pictured at right is Felipe Alou, star outfielder of the San Francisco Giants. After the close of the baseball season last fall, he joined a Pocket Testament League team in Peru, to help in an evangelization and Scripture distribution campaign in South America.

A native of the Dominican Republic, Mr. Alou's command of Spanish especially fitted him for witness in Latin America. The young ballplayer has been a National League batting star for five years.

A brilliant pass-catching end of the Boston Patriots of the American Professional Football League, Anthony Romeo is pictured at far right exercising his other profession: a Baptist minister. Since entering the pulpit two years ago, he has preached on Sunday evenings during the football season to a large crowd of young men and women. During the off-season he speaks four times a week, and leads revival meetings in many parts of the country.

Professional football is paying for his continued education and that of his wife. Mr. Romeo forthrightly states that his path to the ministry was "erratic." His early college years were punctuated by a drinking problem, brawls and cheating on a college examination. For the latter infraction, he was barred from football for a year at Florida State University.

The football star attributes much of his growth as a man and as a Christian to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Looking back, he said: "I think the Lord had his hand in my life all along to change me from what I was. . . . I would like to show what the Christian life has meant to a person like me. The first step is the willingness to do what God wants, not what the individual wants." (RNS Photos)

Second Glance

¶ The Army has been keeping more chaplains on active duty than authorized in its normal table of organization in order to meet the needs of the military buildup brought on by the Cuban crisis.

At the end of October there were 1,346 chaplains on active duty: 975 Protestant, 327 Roman Catholic, 44 Jewish.

¶ Reports at the close of the first session of the Roman Catholic Second Vatican Council on Dec. 8 indicated that "progressive" tendencies within the Church had found widespread support among the more than 2,000 bishops gathered as "Fathers of the Council."

Although no official announcement of Council decisions was made, it appeared likely that church leaders in various countries would be permitted to introduce the language of the people into various parts of the Mass, in place of the traditional Latin. The bishops also voted not to accept a committee report on the sources of revelation (Scripture and Tradition) which was considered offensive to Protestants.

¶ Lutheran leaders in America began talks in January to plan a new cooperative agency for theological study and Christian service. Meeting in Chicago, representatives of The American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod reviewed the theological basis for inter-Lutheran activities and the present cooperative relationships between Lutheran bodies, as well as the general purpose and objective of the proposed new association and possible fields of work. More than 95% of America's 8,600,000 Lutherans are members of these three groups.

¶ Bishop Otto Dibelius, 82-year-old-German churchman, will continue for the time being as head of the Evangelical Church of Berlin and Brandenburg. Meeting separately because of the Berlin wall, the East and West Berlin Synods could not agree on a successor.

Bishop Dibelius, who has signified his desire to retire, has been barred from visiting Soviet Zone Churches by the East German government. It was feared that Dr. Kurt Scharf, considered the logical successor to the Bishop, would also be barred from the Eastern Zone, and hence he failed to receive the necessary two-thirds majority in the East Berlin Synod.

¶ Lutherans in Germany and Sweden donated two fully equipped $40,000 mobile clinics for medical relief work in Algeria. Lutheran World Relief has increased clothing shipments to the revolution-torn country and also sent 10,000 blankets for use by refugees.

¶ Cuban refugees are being aided through an $80,000 program of Lutheran Immigration Service. Over 100,000 Cubans are now in the Miami, Florida area. About 700 families will be helped each month by Lutheran efforts, which will supplement the work of other church bodies.

¶ Government, religious and civic leaders participated in the First National Institute on Religious Freedom and Public Affairs in Washington, D.C., in November. Members of several major religious groups discussed such topics as the "religious vote," political pressure by religious groups, the changing meaning of religious freedom, and fair practices by religions in the public life.

¶ Delegates to a conference on "The Church's Concern for a Diverse Society," sponsored by the National Lutheran Council's Human Relations Department, heard a seminary professor condemn racial discrimination. Dr. N. Arne Bendtz of Lutheran School of Theology, Rock Island, Ill., urged disciplinary action by the Church against any pastor or congregation guilty of discrimination. "The transfigured presence of Jesus Christ in the sacrificial-sacramental structure of the Church" should make it intolerant of all forms of segregation, he told the Chicago conference.

RECALL HERITAGE OF GREAT PRESIDENTS' RELIANCE ON GOD

"There Is a Time for Everything"

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

BOTH OF THE PRESIDENTS whose birthdays are celebrated widely in February were schooled in the heritage of the Bible. In their speeches and writings, as well as in many of their official actions, the Christian background of their thinking can be plainly seen.

George Washington, revolutionary leader and "father of his country" was known as a God-fearing man. Except for the more formal portrait by Stuart, perhaps the most famous painting of Washington is that depicted below. It shows the General on his knees, asking for divine guidance at Valley Forge, where his ill-fed troops, "barefoot and otherwise naked," suffered through the winter of 1777-78. In Washington's time, the philosophy of "deism," which denied many of the teachings of Biblical Christianity, was widespread. In spite of this, the President remained an active Christian—a member and vestryman of the Episcopal Church at his home in Mount Vernon, Virginia.

Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth president and "great emancipator," was never a member of a Christian Church. In his early years he at times expressed himself as hostile to certain orthodox beliefs of Christianity. Nevertheless, his close familiarity with the Bible can be seen in his many recorded utterances, especially in the second inaugural address.

Recent research has shown that Lincoln grew more appreciative of the traditional faith of the Church toward the end of his life. His Civil War experiences seem to have driven him toward a more personal reliance on God in prayer and the Scriptures.

Interestingly, Lincoln was for a time a financial supporter of a Lutheran college—Illinois State University in Springfield, Ill. This school was closed during the Civil War, but is associated with the beginnings of Augustana College and Seminary, now in Rock Island, Ill., and with Carthage, Ill., College.

"FOR EVERYTHING there is a season and a time for every matter under heaven." So writes the author of Ecclesiastes, a rather unknown book of the Old Testament. He goes on to say among other things that there is a time to kill. . . . . and a time to heal;

"a time to be born. . . and a time to die;
a time to weep. . . . . and a time to laugh;
a time to embrace. . . . and a time to refrain from embracing;
a time to keep silence. . and a time to speak;
a time for war. . . and a time for peace."

As human beings we are stewards of time. We realize in the service the importance of certain hours, appointments and dates. Those who are involved in the astronaut programs know how important is the meeting of certain time schedules. We also know that on certain occasions we have a great deal of time for ourselves. What do I do with my time on liberty, on furlough or on leave? It is possible simply to "kill time." It's also possible to use time wisely and profitably.

As far as men are concerned, the writer of Ecclesiastes tells us, "I know that there is nothing better for them than to be happy and enjoy themselves as long as they live; also that it is God's gift to man that every one should eat and drink and take pleasure in all his toil" (Eccl. 3: 12, 13).

"Take pleasure in all my toil?" someone asks. "I thought work was a punishment given to man after the Fall as recorded in the third chapter of Genesis."

"Because you have listened to the voice of your wife . . . cursed is the ground because of you; in toil you shall eat of it all the days of your life . . . In the sweat of your face you shall eat bread till you return to the ground."

There is a sense in which this is true but there is another side to the coin. You recall that at the Creation, after God had made the earth and all the living things upon it and saw that it was very good, He then created man in His own image, male and female. "And God blessed them, and God said to them, 'Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth and subdue it; and have dominion over the fish of the sea and over the birds of the air and over every living thing that moves upon the earth.'" God said the same regarding everything that creeps on the earth, everything that has the breath of life, every plant and tree bearing seed (Gen. 1). "The Lord God took the man and put him in the garden of Eden to till it and keep it" (Gen. 2:15).

Man was not to sit around and twiddle his thumbs in a glorified state of doing nothing. A Christian should find great pleasure in his toil—in his work. To do one's work carefully, with pride and dignity, no matter how insignificant or menial it may seem, brings honor to God. More than once I have seen a machinist witness to the Lordship of Christ in his life by being the best workman in the shop. Good cheerful attitudes of helpfulness, cooperation and loyalty are also fruits of the Spirit of God in one's life, bearing witness that this man has been touched by the greatest of men, the God-man Jesus Christ.

Ecclesiastes, however, draws a sharp distinction between those who are living life "to the full" apart from God, as over against those who are pleasing Him. "There is nothing better for a man than that he should eat and drink, and find enjoyment in his toil. This also, I saw, is from the hand of God; for apart from Him who can eat or who can have enjoyment? For to the man who pleases Him God gives wisdom and knowledge and joy; but to the sinner He gives the work of gathering and heaping, only to give to one who pleases God. This also is vanity and is striving after wind" (Eccl. 2: 24-26).

It was Pastor Dietrich Bonhoeffer, who while in prison awaiting the death penalty under Adolph Hitler, wrote of "time" as being the most precious gift one could have. Although he was to face a firing squad, he still thought of himself living a full life, enriched by "experience, creative endeavor, enjoyment and suffering." He, with others, lost many possessions but they did not lose "time," because they made the most of the time that they had. (Letters and Papers from Prison by Dietrich Bonhoeffer. New York: Macmillan Co. Paperback edition.)

There is a time for everything. For the Christian, however, there is the added dimension of using all God-given time to His glory (1 Cor. 10:31; 11:1).

WASHINGTON IN PRAYER at Valley Forge is the way many Americans like best to remember our first President. It is said that this difficult winter showed "the true fibre of his character and the courage of his soul." (RNS Photo)

THE BIBLE ON THE RIVER KWAI

by Ernest Gordon

THE BIBLE is always relevant. It is as relevant today as it was for our forefathers of the early Church. Scientific and philosophical works become dated and old-fashioned. What is it then about the Bible that makes it as important for the man of the twentieth century as the man of the first?

Simply this: that it tells us of God's dealings with the children of His creation and redemption. God does not grow old; neither do the things of the spirit that belong to Him. God and man's dependence on Him never change from one generation to another. What is unique about man is that he was created for fellowship with his Creator. Fallen though man is, God loves him and comes seeking him.

In my book Through the Valley of the Kwai, I have told the story of how God reached down into the condition of despair and degradation we were experiencing as prisoners of war of the Japanese in the jungle of Thailand as we built a railroad through it to Burma. This railroad was known as the Railroad of Death because every mile of it cost the lives of 64 prisoners of war and 240 Southeast Asians. But it was also the Railroad of Life for many of us. God found us even in the shadows of death.

One ex-prisoner told me that after he had experienced the grace of God he longed desperately for a Bible. There was none in his camp so he had to wait a long time until his wish was realized. "This," he commented, "was the greatest deprivation of all."

In the camp where I was at Chungkai we were much better off. A young Scottish soldier from Aberdeen had organized a lending library of Bibles. These he had inherited from men who had died. Daily he hobbled along through the huts giving out his Bibles for the sick men who were there in such numbers. Whenever one group had finished their reading, he would pick up his Bibles and go on to the next group until he had covered the whole hospital area.

Jock was desperately ill himself, but he kept going on with his self-appointed task of "Word-bearer" until his Master summoned him home. He was a simple lad by worldly standards, but I am sure he received a king's welcome. For him the trumpets would blow with no uncertain sound.

When I think of him I can still see him limping along carrying a rice-sack full of Bibles over his shoulder.

"Here's the Word for today," I can hear him say as he handed out the Bibles with a kindly smile.

Jock was right. "Here's the Word for today," because it is God's Word.

Many people allow themselves to be defeated by the events of life in this confused age, because they never take time to hear what God has to say. The bombastic utterances of power mad dictators are given priority in our newspapers and too often in our lives. If the words of such men were the only news then we would have every reason to suffer from failure of nerve and the paralysis of the will. There is other news, however, the Good News of God in Christ toward which the Old Covenant points, and of which the New Covenant proclaims. This is the good news of the "comrade God" who has promised to be with us always.

No matter how hard the journey may be, He prepares a table for us even in the presence of our enemies. What is more, He prepares a way for us that is the way of eternal life.

Shortly after my release from prison camp, I was flown into Rangoon. One of my men met me in the hospital where I had been taken. "Wait a minute," he said, "I'm going to get something for you." He soon returned to hand me a new Bible. "Here," he said, "I talked a chaplain out of this for you. I knew you'd want it. We'll need it as much as we ever did in the jungle."

The Book that was relevant for our captivity was also relevant for our freedom: for it is the Message of life now and always.

THE REV. DR. ERNEST GORDON is now dean of the chapel at Princeton University. This article is reprinted with permission from the Bible Society Record.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

Lutheran
GIRL OF THE MONTH

SUE BAKER, our Lutheran Girl this month, has demonstrated Christian leadership in both civic and church affairs. Her home is in Wheeling, West Virginia, where she is a member of Christ Luther- Church.

At Wheeling High School, from which she graduated last June, she was president of the Y-Teens, head majorette of the band, and secretary of the senior class. In her Church, Sue served as president of the Luther League, vice president of the Ohio Valley Luther League Association, a choir member and Vacation Church School teacher.

Now enrolled at West Liberty State College, she is preparing for a career in teaching. Her interest in this profession was shown last year by her service as secretary of the Future Teachers of America of Wheeling. Extra-curricular interests include playing the bassoon, swimming (she's a senior life-saver), and sports in general.

Her pastor, the Rev. William H. Kurz, pays tribute to Sue as "a devoted Christian girl and a capable leader."

FAMED LUTHER RETREAT USED BY EAST GERMAN PROPAGANDISTS

THE WARTBURG CASTLE, prototype for the castle design on the masthead of "A Mighty Fortress," has become a source of cold war controversy. The castle, located near Eisenach, East Germany, is most famous as the retreat where Martin Luther found refuge for almost ten months after his condemnation by the Diet of Worms in 1521.

The East German press recently reported that more than five million people have visited the castle since the close of World War II. A new reception hall has been built where visitors will be given short lectures on the castle's history in German, Russian, Hungarian, English and Polish.

In West Berlin, however, it was said by church sources that visitors from "capitalist countries"—if they receive entry visas—are required to apply for special passes to visit the castle. Quite often, they said, passes are refused. The West Berlin sources also said that often Communist propaganda sheets are passed out to visitors. The castle was put under the "guardianship" of the East German government in 1952 as a "national cultural site." It is administered by a foundation jointly sponsored by the City of Eisenach, the Erfurt District (state), and the Lutheran Church of Thuringia.

Dr. Siegfried Asche, long a director of the foundation, fled to West Germany in 1960, claiming that under the communist regime "unpolitical and free scientific work" was possible no longer.

Last spring, the Wartburg Castle was the site of atheist youth dedication ceremonies for children from the Erfurt District. They caused widespread indignation in Lutheran circles and were condemned as a desecration of one of Protestantism's most historic shrines.

After attending the Diet of the Holy Roman Empire at which he made his famous "Here I stand" speech, refusing to retract his writings unless convinced by Scripture and right reason that he was wrong, Luther was "kidnapped" by influential friends who sheltered him at the Wartburg for his own protection. This was necessary since the Reformer had been declared an outlaw by the Emperor, giving anyone the right to capture or kill him. While living at the famous castle, he translated the New Testament into German.

"Divine Nonsense"

by The Rev. Dr. Paul C. Empie

IT IS OFTEN SAID that the victory of Christianity came about the year 325 when the Emperor Constantine removed the ban on the Christian religion and made it legal for Christians to come out of the catacombs to worship in broad daylight. No longer were they persecuted because of their faith, sold as slaves, burned as torches, torn apart by lions and wild horses. Finally, it is said, the Church had won. But this wasn't really the time of victory! When was the victory won? The victory was won every time one of the hundreds of thousands of martyrs paid the price by going into slavery, paid the price by submitting to beatings and persecutions, and with hymns on his lips went to death rather than yield to the slavery of believing in false gods. That is the way it is today. Victory is won when you pay the price for it.

Certainly, those in the armed forces ought to be first to recognize this fact. Victory is not won by the signing of a peace treaty. It is won through the sacrifices of committed and disciplined men. They may or may not die in the course of it; but giving up their right to themselves in the service of their country, they are contributing to the victory each moment they pay the price for it in the line of duty. This relates to another significant thing that our Lord says to us: "If a man would come after me, let him deny himself. . . ." Now "denying himself" doesn't mean going without something, but rather denying oneself. Phillips translates this passage as follows: "Let him give up his right to himself, take up his cross and follow me."

This is God's divine nonsense.

(From a baccalaureate address given by Dr. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, at the Air Force Academy.)

DID YOU KNOW that Constantine ended 250 years of Roman oppression of the Church after he claimed to see a cross in the sky with the words, "In this sign you will conquer"? He thought the vision referred to a military victory. Later, just before death, he was the first Roman emperor to be baptized a Christian.

TWO OUTSTANDING LUTHERAN CADETS at West Point are congratulated by the Rev. James D. Ford, Lutheran pastor who is assistant chaplain of the U.S. Military Academy. In center is Cadet Homer Holland, Brigade Executive Officer, who was recently honored at a review for standing first academically in the First (Senior) Class. A member of St. Paul's Church, East Troy, Wis., he teaches in the West Point Sunday School. At right is Cadet William Alexander, Brigade Activities Officer, head acolyte at West Point for 1962-63. His duties include lighting candles, acting as crucifer, and reading Scripture lessons. His home Church is Zion, Pennbrook, Pa. (NLC News Photo)

A JAZZ EXPERT who is also a Lutheran pastor was featured recently on a weekly radio program, "Two Worlds of Jazz," along with a Roman Catholic priest. The Rev. John Gensel, pastor of Advent Lutheran Church, New York City, has developed a special ministry in the world of night clubs and jazz spots, where he visits musicians often overlooked by the Churches. Pastor Gensel is shown in center of above picture, flanked by Father Norman O'Connor, also a jazz expert, and author Nat Hentoff. Known as New York City's "jazz pastor," the Lutheran clergyman must conduct his ministry at unconventional hours to reach the night-living musicians. (RNS Photo)

LEADER'S COURAGE IN SHIPWRECK HELD TESTIMONIAL TO PRAYER

A LEADER'S COURAGE, maintained by faith and prayer, has been credited for the survival of 12 of 17 Tongan islanders who were stranded for three months on a barren reef in the South Pacific.

Forty-three-year-old David Fifita, a Christian, was the brave leader who held his crew together and gave it hope during the long weeks which took the lives of five of the party.

The saga began when the group's vessel was wrecked on Minerva Reef while on a voyage to New Zealand. There was no vegetation on the reef and the men were forced to distill sea water to remain alive. Taking shelter in the wreckage of a 60-ton Japanese trawler, the Tongans used its timbers to keep a constant fire burning for the distillation of the water—enough to give each man a small cupful daily.

After assessing the party's position on the reef, Captain Fifita started a daily routine for his men—work, rest, and prayer. The men were well-behaved, he said: "They prayed and they grumbled and sometimes were hard to manage, but mostly they were good. Sometimes I felt weak, but not for long. . . . I prayed and kept strong. When I was weary and troubled, I shut myself in a cabin away from everyone and I prayed."

"Sundays we have a big service and I would give a talk . . . not a sermon, because I am not clever like that. But I talk of all that has happened in the week we have just lived through. I tell them that perhaps they thought they would not get through the week, but they did and they can do the same for the next week and then more weeks."

After several weeks, Captain Fifita realized that the chances of being sighted by a rescue party were slim, so he authorized the construction of an improvised boat to sail for help. The Tongans made the boat by marking boards with a knife, laying a strip of hot iron across the mark to make a groove, and then cutting into the wood with a chisel and nails. The task took five weeks, with the men becoming sick and often fainting.

At last, when the boat was finished, Captain Fifita, his son, Sateki, and another man set out to summon help. They were supplied with a piece of shark, a piece of octopus, and a seabird caught on the waters. Their water supply ran out on the fourth day at sea.

Ten days after setting out from the reef, the three sighted the Kadavu coast, 40 miles south of Suva, Fiji. Rough seas prevented headway in the makeshift boat, so they started to swim the nearly two miles to shore. Fifita had to support his son and the other man, both of whom steadily became weaker by the swim.

At last his son reached the point of complete exhaustion. Sending the other man ahead, Captain Fifita talked with the young man. They agreed he could go no farther. They then said a prayer, the father kissed his son and left him. Only 100 yards further, he could touch sand beneath the water. He turned around, but his son had disappeared.

Once on shore, Captain Fifita told the story of the shipwreck. New Zealand Air Force planes based on Fiji were sent to the reef and the other 10 survivors were rescued, only hours after the fourth man died there.

DID YOU KNOW that the Bible presents an exciting amount of shipwreck and rescue which in some points is similar to the modern experience reported above? Read the 27th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles to learn how St. Paul found courage from God and shared it with his companions in one of history's most famous shipwrecks.

N.Y. WORLD'S FAIR TO HAVE PROTESTANT EXHIBIT CENTER

WITH SEATTLE'S CENTURY 21 exposition successfully completed in October, American fairgoers are turning toward 1964 when the New York World's Fair will open. Evangelical Christianity will be represented at the fair by a Protestant Center.

A Lutheran spokesman at the November ground-breaking ceremonies for the $960,000 structure called it vital to the full meaning of the exposition, "a place of peace in the jumble of sights and sounds." The Rev. Dr. Philip A. Johnson of the National Lutheran Council, said that "we . . . who are planning to exhibit in the Protestant Center are here . . . to bear witness that the Christian faith belongs at the very heart and center of life. . . ."

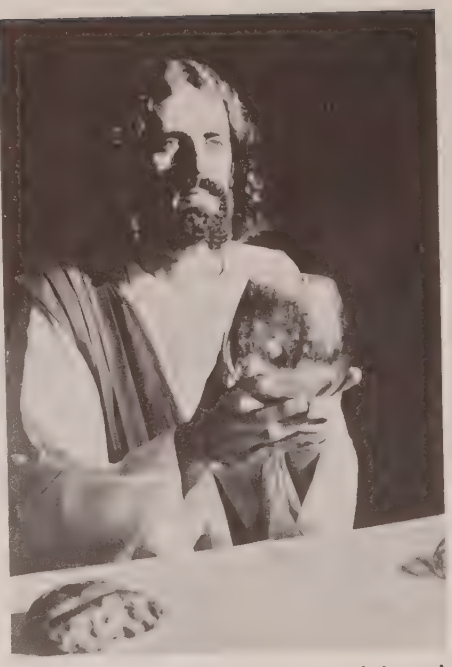
UNIQUE PROGRAM BRINGS TEEN-AGERS BACK TO CHURCH



A YOUNG PASTOR who speaks their language is bringing the high school kids back to church at Our Savior's Lutheran Church in Moorhead, Minn. He is the Rev. Ronald Hinrichs, 27, who terms himself "a fairly young punk as pastors go—fresh from the seminary."

Under the program, 150 sophomores, juniors and seniors select the subjects they want to learn about, and the people they want for teachers. It's their baby and it's all done on a voluntary basis. What they want is what they get. Fourteen subjects are taught. There is no grading.

Says Pastor Hinrichs: "We've broken the Sunday school train of thought. We're treating them as adults. We're de-emphasizing the teacher and emphasizing the student."

Here's what the program is: Every other Sunday night is class night. There is a minimum of one hour for each class, but when the discussion gets hot, the class runs on. There is no time limit. The instructors—moderators would be a more appropriate term—come from every walk of life—morticians, mechanics, anything—and not all are from Our Savior's congregation.

By having the activities on Sunday night instead of Sunday mornings, the youngsters are freed for Sunday services and are integrated into the Church and given specific responsibilities.

PORTRAYING CHRIST in the choral and dramatic production that highlighted the Lutheran Reformation Festival in Chicago early in November was John P. Jefferson of Indianapolis, Ind. Mr. Jefferson, an active Lutheran layman, has played the lead in several performances of "Declare His Glory," which is based on the Lutheran Communion liturgy. All major Lutheran groups in the Chicago area cooperated in sponsoring the Reformation observance, which drew a capacity crowd of over 5,000 to the Arie Crown theatre. Christians of all Protestant and Roman Catholic bodies were invited to attend the festival which emphasized the central message of Christianity. (RNS Photo)

Second Glance

¶ Delegates to the American Lutheran Church convention in Milwaukee listened to President Kennedy's speech on the Cuban crisis and then sent a message assuring Mr. Kennedy of their "united support in prayer in this hour of national crisis."

The message said: "May the God of peace sustain your strength, grant you wisdom, and guide your steps in the coming crucial days that an honorable and peaceful solution to the crisis may be found."

¶ Important actions by the ALC convention in late October included: the decision, by a vote of 647-307, to continued ALC membership in the World Council of Churches; unanimous approval of plans to merge the 90,000 member Lutheran Free Church into the 2,400,000 member ALC; approval of talks to be sponsored by all three major Lutheran bodies in America, looking toward a common Lutheran agency for theological discussion and cooperative church work; adoption of a budget of more than $22 million for the Church's work in 1963; issuance of a policy statement asserting the right of the Church's welfare and educational institutions to lay claim to federal loans and grants, but warning against implications of governmental control.

¶ Dr. P. O. Bersell, 80 year old president emeritus of the former Augustana Evangelical Lutheran Church (now part of the Lutheran Church in America) predicted a merger of the LCA and the ALC within 15 years, in a recent newspaper interview. He also forsees merger with the third major Lutheran body, the Missouri Synod, in 25 years.

¶ The "Peace Corps" idea has found a reflection in a Lutheran program proposed for a slum area of New York City's lower east side. Students at Valparaiso (Ind.) University will work for a subsistence salary while assisting the pastor of Trinity Church, Manhattan, where the parish population density numbers 100,000 per square mile. Volunteer junior and senior male students of the Lutheran college will especially concentrate on work with children and teen-agers.

¶ Two Lutheran pastors running for congress were defeated in the November elections. In Ohio, Rep. Walter H. Moeller, a clergyman of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, lost his bid for a third term by a narrow margin. In Washington a pastor of the Lutheran Church in America, Richard G. Christensen, was defeated by incumbent Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, a Lutheran layman, in his first attempt at election to the U. S. Senate.

¶ January 18-25 has been set aside as a "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity." The World Council of Churches has called on Christians to pray "for the unity for which Christ prayed, unity in truth and love, for the sake of our common witness and service."

A PROBLEM BECOMES AN OPPORTUNITY

By Capt. Lloyd S. Jacobson

LAST JULY I left my wife and two children in the United States to serve a fifteen month remote tour in northern Japan. As many service people, both married and single, can attest, leaving loved ones for an extended period of time is a difficult experience. However, I confidently believe that this type of hardship can be a test of our faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Often, perhaps, it is the Lord's way of using a person where he is needed most.

The Japanese city of Wakkanai is situated on the northern tip of Hokkaido and has a population of about 50,000. In the center of this industrious fishing town is a Japanese Church with a congregation of about 50 devoted members. By simple arithmetic, this means a ratio of one Christian out of 1,000 persons, quite a small group when compared with the Christian proportion in the western world, but a real influence in this city just across the Soya Straits from Soviet Sakhalin.

Having recently moved into a new chapel on our station, the Protestant Men have begun a program to get better acquainted with and bolster the Christian population of Wakkanai. Once a month, we invite the Japanese Church to join us at Sunday Vespers for a bi-lingual service. It is a thrill to stand next to a Japanese and listen to him singing an old familiar hymn in an ancient oriental tongue. After the service, we have refreshments and make an attempt to gain a better understanding of each other through Christian fellowship.

Living in the United States where the majority of my contacts, both social and business, are Christians, I never gave a thought to the fact that somewhere a small group of Japanese, completely engulfed in a non-Christian world, were striving to spread the Word of God. There is a great deal to be done in this land to promote the Gospel, but with the Lord's help His Word will be heard and I have been given the opportunity to do my small share.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE SAVIOR?

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

IT MUST HAVE BEEN a tremendous experience to be among that group of shepherds who were watching their flock that dark night two thousand years ago. Suddenly an angel appeared in the sky above them and the glory of the Lord shone around them. The spotlight of history was turned upon these people. God didn't spotlight a king's chamber but a quiet place in the field of Judea. Their reaction was understandable. "They were filled with fear." (Luke 2 RSV).

It's an awesome experience whenever the spotlight of God's Word shines upon our hearts. Sin is revealed. Unbelief, doubt and selfishness come alive. One of the problems today is that smog, man-made and otherwise, prevents the light of the gospel from coming into our hearts. We are so busy we don't stop, look and listen. We don't take time to let His still, small voice speak to us. The light from God, who is light, is powerful to penetrate the darkness but we must be willing to let it have its way into the inner recesses of our hearts.

Stop right now today in your busy schedule to take time to read His Word and allow the gospel to shine in your mind and life. No one can do it for you. You and I must discipline ourselves to "take time to be holy—speak often with our Lord."

Last spring Soviet cosmonaut Gherman Titov, who had traveled farther through the celestial splendor of the heavens than any other man up to that time, declared his disbelief in God while visiting the World's Fair at Seattle.

"Sometimes people are saying that God is out there," Titov said. "I was looking around attentively all day but I didn't find anybody there. I saw neither angels nor gods. I don't believe in God. I believe in man—in his strength, in his possibilities and in his reason."

The poor man. He was looking in the wrong place. He should try looking in God's Word. "The fool says in his heart, 'There is no God.' . . ." (Psalm 14:1).

Man has eyes to see but does not see. He has ears to hear but does not hear. If only he will stop, look and listen to the Lord speaking through His Word, then he will be able to see and hear who God is and what He is like.

The shepherds were not content just to see the Savior in the manger. "When they saw it they made known the saying which had been told them concerning this child; and all who heard it wondered at what the shepherds told them." (Luke 2:18).

There is so much help to be drawn from this account of Christ's birth. How we need truly to see the Savior again, afresh, in His Word this Christmas. How we need to spend time with humble and yielded hearts before the awesome and tremendous fact that Christ the Savior has come to earth.

Like the shepherds, we must tell others what we know of Him. Those who hear, may, also, at first just wonder at what we have to say. We leave the rest to Him, who truly is the light of the world and who alone can cause the light to shine in darkened hearts.

The Christmas Story

AND IT CAME TO PASS in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord,

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying;

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

YOUR FAMILY BY ADOPTION

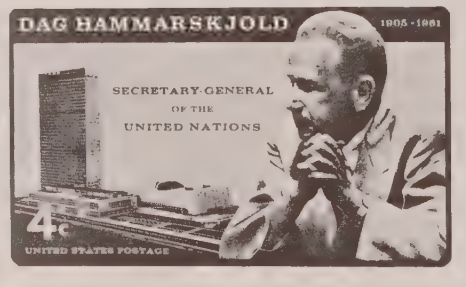
By The Rev. Martin H. Obst, NLC Contact Pastor,
Peace Lutheran Church, Beeville, Texas

Be it a small town in Texas like Beeville, a city in a far away country like Naples, Italy, or a teeming metropolis of our own nation like Los Angeles! Each has its loneliness, forsakenness and problems. Here are two young sailors walking from the bus station to the liberty bus stop carrying their sea bags. Their families are a thousand miles away, so they think. Their loved ones are equally far away, so they feel. Their church is beyond their reach, so they act.

Strange that they should feel like two individual islands in the middle of nowhere. But this is how we all feel at times. Only God in Christ can bring a change and has brought a change. Let us see how.

Here are Richard and Howard after having checked "on board." They make liberty to town to do their wash. While they are waiting at the ride stand a car pulls up and offers them a lift to the base. The man introduces himself "I am the Lutheran pastor in town." "We are Lutherans, too," is their reply. The conversation goes on. They are invited to church, communion, Luther League and Bible class. They take the pastor up on the invitation. Before long they are in the middle of the congregation's program.

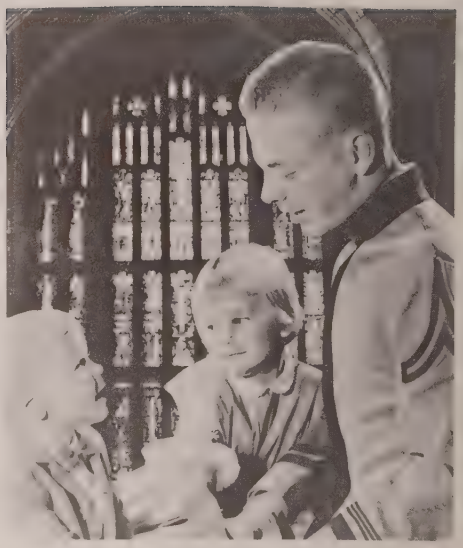
Two years later, when they leave, there are farewell parties, and parting tears. For in two years Richard and Howard learned to know their family by adoption. "You are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus" is the witness of Scripture. Richard and Howard experienced it. For if the Christians are God's children then all Christians are our brothers and sisters. Richard and Howard learned to know and understand this.



Their family was not a thousand miles away. It was as close as their Lutheran Church. Their loved ones were as close as their fellow Lutherans with whom they worshiped, communed, studied scripture and prayed. Their church was within their reach for they made use of it almost daily. When God adopted Howard and Richard as His children He also gave them an adopted family—the Lutheran Church.

My friend, if you call yourself a Lutheran and a Christian—your adopted family is as near as (1) Your nearest fellow Christian or fellow Lutheran, (2) Your nearest Lutheran church and pastor, (3) Your nearest Protestant chapel and chaplain. This adopted family can take the place of mother and father, sister and brother. In fact, you have no choice, this adopted family must take the place of your blood relatives. As a result you are not alone. You are loved. You are understood and wanted. Open your eyes and make use of your adopted family. "You are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus."

TEN MILLION RSV BIBLES SOLD



SINCE its publication in 1952, the Revised Standard Version of the Bible has sold some 10,000,000 copies. This adds up to a stack of RSV's more than 231 miles high—73 miles higher than the peak of Col. John Glenn's orbital flight and 849 times taller than the Empire State Building.

U.S. Stamp Honors U.N. Leader

A STAMP honoring the late Dag Hammarskjold, secretary-general of the United Nations who died in a plane crash in Africa on Sept. 18, 1961, has been issued by the U.S. Post Office Department. Nationwide distribution of the 4-cent stamp was made on Oct. 24, United Nations Day.

In his work for peace, Mr. Hammarskjold, a Lutheran, was religiously-motivated. He was the friend and confidant of religious leaders throughout the world. As a child he spent a great deal of time in the household of Archbishop Nathan Soderblom, Primate of the Church of Sweden, who was a leader in early movements that led to the formulation of the World Council of Churches.

DR. BERSELL COMPLETES 45 YEARS OF SERVICE TO MILITARY PERSONNEL

DR. P. O. BERSELL announced in Washington, D.C., his retirement from two Lutheran agencies concerned with military affairs after completing 45 years of service on behalf of Lutherans in uniform.

Dr. Bersell, 80, whose home is in Minneapolis, Minn., retired from the presidency of the Augustana Lutheran Church 11 years ago. He is chairman of both the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel and the Lutheran Service Commission, a joint agency of the NLC and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

He has been the only chairman of the BSMP since its establishment in 1948 and of its predecessor, the NLC's Service Commission (1941-1948).

Octogenarian Bersell noted that "the good Lord has given me some active years" since retiring from the Augustana presidency at 69; but he added that younger leaders, he felt, should guide the affairs of Lutheran agencies concerned with members in the armed forces.

Although expressing his intention of formal retirement early in 1963 from the two supervisory committees he said he would be available for consultation if needed.

Dr. Bersell's interest in servicemen dates back to World War I when he helped to establish a laymen's group: The Lutheran Brotherhood of America. This organization, which claimed some 60,000 Lutheran men in congregations across the nation, began its active work on Sept. 9, 1917. It concentrated on erecting buildings, with the permission of the War Department, at Army camps for soldiers' use.

Later that same year the National Lutheran Commission for Soldiers' and Sailors' Welfare was established. This Commission supplied camp pastors for military installations and provided staff for buildings erected by the Lutheran Brotherhood group. It also led to the organization of the National Lutheran Council in 1918.

One of the most prominent Lutheran leaders in the U.S., P. O. Bersell was born on the campus of Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., May 6, 1882, where his father served on the faculty.

Ordained in 1906, Dr. Bersell served pastorates in Illinois and Iowa. In 1935 he was elected ninth president of the Augustana Lutheran Church, a post he held for 16 years.

He had an active part in the formation of the Lutheran World Federation, the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches. He served on the World Council's Central Committee from 1948 to 1961.

Active also in the recent merger of four church bodies into the Lutheran Church in America, Dr. Bersell served on the Joint Commission on Lutheran Unity which guided merger efforts, was chairman of the JCLU's seminary committee and preached the sermon at the LCA's opening service of Holy Communion last June.

DR. P. O. Bersell (right) is interviewed by Kenneth Dole, WASHINGTON POST religious news editor, after announcing his retirement in the nation's capital.

MARY HARTMAN, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for December, is a student at St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minnesota.

During high school she actively participated in events at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Greendale, Wisconsin.

The Greendale Women's Club awarded her a college scholarship for "her scholastic abilities" and for exhibiting "a high degree of leadership."

Despite a heavy extra-curricular high school schedule Mary also had time for Christian service at St. Luke's as Sunday School organist, vocal soloist, Luther League president and as staff assistant at Vacation Church School, wrote her home pastor, the Rev. Rolf Olson, in nominating her.

After college, Mary is interested in a nursing career.

Second Glance

Lutheran congregations whose ministers were ordered to the active duty military chaplaincy from reserve status in 1961-62 received high praise from the Army Chief of Chaplains.

Chaplain (Major General) Frank A. Tobey said that he is "keenly aware of the disruption this caused in the various churches concerned and as Chief of Chaplains I am sincerely grateful to the good people of those congregations for the fine spirit in which they sacrificed in the interest of our national defense."

Two governors, Frank Morrison of Nebraska and Norman Erbe of Iowa, participated in a "Mid-America Workshop" sponsored by the National Lutheran Council's Division of American Missions. The meeting explored issues facing the rural church.

Lutheran World Relief may start overseas "work projects" through which unemployed and underfed people would be paid in food for their labor on community development projects.

Dr. Carl W. Segerhammer, newly-elected president of the Pacific Southwest Synod of the new Lutheran Church in America, conducted Protestant religious missions at USAF bases in the Pacific and Far East during October.

Gethsemane Lutheran church in Seattle, Wash., received the 1962 Church Award given by "Guideposts" magazine for its "resourceful reaching out" into the community.

The first "Guideposts" Church Award was given in 1959 and went to Calvary Lutheran of Minneapolis for its youth program.

Four Lutherans in Rome are attending the Second Vatican Council by invitation of its Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity. Two are delegate-observers of the Lutheran World Federation, one is a delegate-observer of the Evangelical Church in Germany and another from the Sorbonne faculty in Switzerland is a guest of the unity secretariat.

Dr. Reuben K. Youngdahl of Minneapolis returned to America "tremendously impressed" with the caliber of U.S. servicemen who took part in a spiritual retreat he addressed at Berchtesgaden, Germany.

The 120,000-member Latvian Ev. Lutheran Church in Exile installed a new archbishop in colorful ceremonies held in Washington, D.C. The new spiritual leader for Lutherans of this Baltic country who have been forced from their homeland by Communists is the Rev. Dr. Karlis Kundzins. He has lived in Seattle, Wash., for the past 11 years.

Three Chinese families from Hong Kong have been resettled in California through the aid of Lutheran Immigration Service and Lutheran welfare agencies. Donald E. Anderson, director of the joint National Lutheran Council and Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod agency, said they came to the U.S. under a government program.

CHRISTMAS, 1962

MANY CITIZENS IN UNIFORM will spend Christmas Day at home with their families. This privilege is not possible for every serviceman. As in years past the anniversary of our Savior's birth will be celebrated by members of the armed forces on duty high in the atmosphere, at sea and in many lands.

A MIGHTY FORTRESS picture files reveal how some servicemen spent previous Christmases away from home . . . . worshiping in a chapel surrounded by deep snow drifts . . . . relaxing in a Lutheran Service Center . . . . helping with a Christmas party for underprivileged children . . . . singing carols.

Christmas, 1962 gives Christian men and women in the military another opportunity to share the meaning of their Savior's birth with others.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

RUTH EMILY KELLEHER, our Lutheran Girl for the month of November, is in her junior year at Colby College, Waterville, Maine.

At her home church, Trinity Lutheran, South Paris, Maine, Ruth has been the organist for four years. "It's just a pump organ," she says. "I'm really not qualified to play a pipe organ."

Modest about her musical talent, she is equally proficient on the organ, piano and trumpet. Her pastor, the Rev. Edwin A. Kyllonen, commends her on the fine manner in which she assisted him in introducing the congregation to the new worship service.

At Trinity, Ruth has taken an active part in youth work as Luther League secretary and as a teacher in the church school.

BIBLE IS HIS HOBBY

COLLECTING old and rare Bibles is the hobby of Frank J. Pavlica of New York City, Moravian-born Lutheran layman, whose collection, accumulated the past 24 years, numbers over 130 volumes. Some of them are of massive size similar to the one he is shown holding here.

A retired employee of the Consolidated Edison Company, Mr. Pavlica has exhibited his collection at the American Museum of Natural History, the New York Coliseum, and various churches and banks in the New York metropolitan area.

SERVICEMEN SET NEW HIGH IN LUTHERAN CENTERS' ATTENDANCE

ATTENDANCE at Lutheran service centers reached a new six-month high with 224,246 military personnel reported visiting centers during the first half of 1962.

According to a statistical summary released by the Lutheran Service Commission in Washington, D.C., men and women in uniform are making increased use of the denomination's service centers and activities they sponsor. The previous half-year attendance top was recorded during the second half of 1961 when 204,452 servicemen and women were served by LSC facilities.

LSC staff stationed at centers throughout the world officiated at 156 baptisms, 132 confirmations and 27 weddings during the first six months of this year.

More than 23,000 were recorded at church services held in overseas Lutheran service centers. Over 3,000 servicemen and their dependents participated in Bible classes at overseas centers.

Other statistics released by the LSC listed: instruction classes preparing for church membership, 4,513; welfare cases, 298; social activities, 26,174; interviews, 13,685; communions, 5,188; and referrals to local congregations (mostly in the U.S.), 4,165.

The majority of the 35 LSC facilities reporting in the six-month summary are open daily as off-station "homes-away-from-home" for military personnel located at near-by installations.

The Lutheran Service Commission is a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

LET US BE THANKFUL

"For Thy care of me through the changing years,
For the blessed privilege of tears,
For Thy 'Fear thou not,' when assailed by fears, I thank Thee, Lord.

"For health and strength and abiding will
That enable me my place to fill,
While remembering Thy 'Peace, be still,' I thank Thee, Lord.

"For Thy chastening rod that proved Thy love,
For my steadfast faith scoff cannot move,
For Thy promise of sweet rest above, I thank Thee, Lord.

"For the soul's dark battles often won,
For finishing of the tasks begun,
For the power to say, 'Thy will be done,' I thank Thee, Lord."

PORTRAIT OF A CHRISTIAN

by the Rev. Howard A. Kuhnle, Pastor
Redeemer Lutheran, Binghamton, N.Y.

"Bill's a good member of our church." How many times have you heard this phrase said by pastors or laymen. What does it mean?

Probably to most people this means a person who takes an active part in the work of the church and its organizations and spends a good deal of time in the church.

But let's analyze the matter further. Just what does it mean?

Constitutions of congregations usually require that a member to be in "good standing" must attend regularly, commune at least once a year and contribute to the financial support of the church. But these requirements alone are only dead bones until they become clothed with living flesh—that is, one should attend joyfully in order truly to worship the triune God; commune not only once a year but more frequently as there is opportunity in his congregation; and contribute not only as a duty but cheerfully because the money is used for furthering the work of the gospel of Jesus Christ in all the world.

Yet these basic requirements are only a minimum. Much more is implied.

The most important factor is to live as Christians. The world judges Christians not so much by what we say, and not so much by our standing in the congregation, as by our actual Christian lives. Do our deeds live up to our professions?

Another basic requirement—yes, opportunity more than requirement—is that of private prayer and personal devotions. These are neglected far too much in this twentieth century of speed and action. The words of Jesus still apply, since He sees motives as well as actions, "When thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."

Still another privilege rather than duty is testimony by our words and deeds to God's love and power. Jesus on the day of His ascension, said, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

Indeed, a person who has these characteristics is not only a "good member of the church" but a true Christian—outwardly and inwardly.

NURSE LT. COL. IRENE M. WENDT demonstrates two of the uniforms worn by Air Force nurses. Col. Wendt is chief of the Nurse and Medical Specialists Division at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

Since beginning her military career in 1942, Nurse Wendt has earned a number of firsts. During World War II she was on the flight crew that flew the first litter of wounded men from the European Theater of Operations to the States. In recruiting, she recruited the first Occupational Therapist student. It is believed that she recruited the first nurse from the state of Alaska.

She is a member of Zion Lutheran Church, Manawa, Wis. Col. Wendt is a graduate of the Oshkosh (Wis.) High School and of the South Chicago Community Hospital of Nursing.

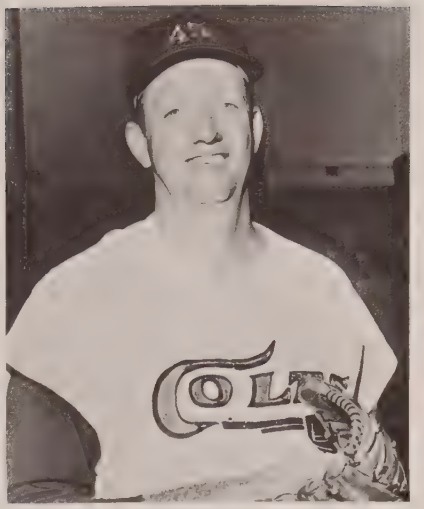
Daily Bible Readings



THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

NOW PITCHING— A METHODIST MINISTER

MEET the associate minister of Bethany Methodist church, Houston, Texas. He's Russ Kemmerer, star relief pitcher of the Houston Colt .45s of the National League. A busy man in the church and on the ballfield, he's also a man of many names: Russ to the fans, "One-Pitch" to the Houston sportswriters, and the Rev. Russell Paul Kemmerer to his congregation.

A big-leaguer since 1954, with stops in Chicago and Washington before joining the Colts, Mr. Kemmerer is an ordained Methodist minister who graduated from the University of Pittsburgh and Wesleyan University, Bloomfield, Ill. At Bethany Methodist he assists in the direction of Christian education.

A big man (6-foot-2, 200 pounds), Mr. Kemmerer is a right-handed relief pitcher who got his "One-Pitch" nickname for having stopped the Milwaukee Braves and St. Louis Cardinals with one-pitch performances. Church officials find Mr. Kemmerer "different" from other ministers in only one respect: he has to sign autographs when he greets members at the door.

PORTRAIT OF A CHRISTIAN

by the Rev. Howard A. Kuhnle, Pastor
Redeemer Lutheran, Binghamton, N.Y.

"Bill's a good member of our church." How many times have you heard this phrase said by pastors or laymen. What does it mean?

Probably to most people this means a person who takes an active part in the work of the church and its organizations and spends a good deal of time in the church.

But let's analyze the matter further. Just what does it mean?

Constitutions of congregations usually require that a member to be in "good standing" must attend regularly, commune at least once a year and contribute to the financial support of the church. But these requirements alone are only dead bones until they become clothed with living flesh—that is, one should attend joyfully in order truly to worship the triune God; commune not only once a year but more frequently as there is opportunity in his congregation; and contribute not only as a duty but cheerfully because the money is used for furthering the work of the gospel of Jesus Christ in all the world.

Yet these basic requirements are only a minimum. Much more is implied.

The most important factor is to live as Christians. The world judges Christians not so much by what we say, and not so much by our standing in the congregation, as by our actual Christian lives. Do our deeds live up to our professions?

Another basic requirement—yes, opportunity more than requirement—is that of private prayer and personal devotions. These are neglected far too much in this twentieth century of speed and action. The words of Jesus still apply, since He sees motives as well as actions, "When thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou hast shut the door, pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father which seeth in secret shall reward thee openly."

Still another privilege rather than duty is testimony by our words and deeds to God's love and power. Jesus on the day of His ascension, said, "Ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

Indeed, a person who has these characteristics is not only a "good member of the church" but a true Christian—outwardly and inwardly.

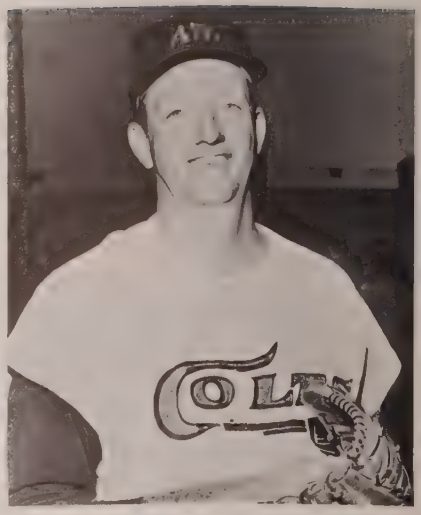
NURSE LT. COL. IRENE M. WENDT demonstrates two of the uniforms worn by Air Force nurses. Col. Wendt is chief of the Nurse and Medical Specialists Division at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.

Since beginning her military career in 1942, Nurse Wendt has earned a number of firsts. During World War II she was on the flight crew that flew the first litter of wounded men from the European Theater of Operations to the States. In recruiting, she recruited the first Occupational Therapist student. It is believed that she recruited the first nurse from the state of Alaska.

She is a member of Zion Lutheran Church, Manawa, Wis. Col. Wendt is a graduate of the Oshkosh (Wis.) High School and of the South Chicago Community Hospital of Nursing.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings



THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

NOW PITCHING— A METHODIST MINISTER

MEET the associate minister of Bethany Methodist church, Houston, Texas. He's Russ Kemmerer, star relief pitcher of the Houston Colt .45s of the National League. A busy man in the church and on the ballfield, he's also a man of many names: Russ to the fans, "One-Pitch" to the Houston sportswriters, and the Rev. Russell Paul Kemmerer to his congregation.

A big-leaguer since 1954, with stops in Chicago and Washington before joining the Colts, Mr. Kemmerer is an ordained Methodist minister who graduated from the University of Pittsburgh and Wesleyan University, Bloomfield, Ill. At Bethany Methodist he assists in the direction of Christian education.

A big man (6-foot-2, 200 pounds), Mr. Kemmerer is a right-handed relief pitcher who got his "One-Pitch" nickname for having stopped the Milwaukee Braves and St. Louis Cardinals with one-pitch performances. Church officials find Mr. Kemmerer "different" from other ministers in only one respect: he has to sign autographs when he greets members at the door.

Second Glance

American church leaders who visited Russia for three weeks this fall said that the "continued existence of vital churches in the Soviet Union, despite all party pressures and campaigns against them, is one of the forces that may in the long run modify Soviet ideology and policy."

The churchmen paid special tribute to the "stubborn faith and faithfulness of millions of ordinary Soviet citizens." It is this faith, rather than the Soviet constitutional guarantees of freedom of worship, which actually protects the church from total obliteration by the government, they said.

Arthur J. Goldberg, named by President Kennedy as Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, is an active and devout member of Temple Sinai, a Reform Jewish congregation in Washington, D.C.

Fred Berkobin, 22, first president of the LCA's Luther League, urged pastors and adults of the church to "please take note: Youth need guidance but not domination." He said that youth need to be talked with rather than at.

Miss America 1963 received special congratulations from members of her church, First Congregational in Sandusky, Ohio. Miss Jacqueline Mayer sings regularly in her church's choir which is directed by her mother.

East German officials denied a religious funeral for an 18-year-old youth killed by Communist guards as he sought freedom by scaling the wall dividing East and West Berlin. The youth, Peter Fechter, who was left to die without a doctor on the Eastern side of the wall was buried without a clergyman. An official speaker was sent to the grim burial by the East Berlin City Funeral Commission.

"Flights in Freedom"—a program under the auspices of Protestant, Catholic and Jewish organizations — is transporting Cuban refugees out of overcrowded Miami to resettle with church help in other U.S. cities.

Rockets, those which produce rain, started a new religious controversy in South Africa. The rockets are used by farmers in S.A.'s desert regions at $25 a piece to "seed" rain clouds. Members of the Dutch Reformed Church objected saying it is against the Bible to "make" rain and send up satellites. The experiments were halted because of objections.

Some 250 delegates to the first triennial convention of the American Lutheran Church's Brotherhood devoted a major portion of their three-day meeting to an intensive Bible study program led by the Rev. Herbert Brokering of Minneapolis.

Dean Heinrich Grueber of West Berlin, the German Lutheran clergyman who became famous for his efforts to help Jews during the Nazi era, made a seven-week speaking tour of major U.S. cities during September and October.

LCA YOUTH AND MEN ELECT

RNS Photos

The 500 delegates to the San Francisco convention voted to omit lunch for one day and send the money to the Church's overseas relief agency. They also decided to accept non-Lutherans as associate members. The new Luther League, made up of the youth groups of the four Churches which merged to form the LCA, has some 125,000 members in 6,000 congregations.

These lay leaders will help guide the new Lutheran Church Men, 85,000-member auxiliary of the Lutheran Church in America, formed at a constituting convention in Hickory, N.C. Left to right are: Dr. Earl Freeze of Rochester, N.Y., a manufacturer, named the group's first president; Earl High of Bertrand, Neb., vice-president; State Senator John L. Olson of Worthington, Minn., secretary; and Eugene H. Kelchner of Merchantville, N.J., treasurer. Not shown is Jack H. Oetgen of Atlanta, Ga., executive secretary.

At their convention the men adopted a $212,000 biennial budget. Lutheran Church Men includes laymen organizations of the four Lutheran denominations which united last June to form the new 3,200,000-member LCA.

'COPTER AND CROSS

RNS Photo

HELICOPTERS are particularly adept in placing new light-weight aluminum steeples and crosses above American churches. At Kent, Wash., a hovering helicopter sets in place a 20-foot-long cross atop the new First United Presbyterian church. The two-man crew, one on churchtop and one in 'copter, performed the chore in exactly nine minutes.

THANKSGIVING CLOTHING APPEAL FOR LUTHERAN WORLD RELIEF

NEARLY all Lutheran congregations in the U.S. will participate in Lutheran World Relief's annual Thanksgiving Clothing Appeal. It is to be held the week of November 18-25.

Members of some 18,000 congregations are being urged to support the material aid agency's effort to obtain clothing for one million people this year.

LWR officials said it is hoped the Thanksgiving Appeal will gather enough garments for at least 600,000 people. Clothing received in earlier appeals this year makes distribution possible to some 400,000, they said.

Participating in the effort are 11,500 congregations of the National Lutheran Council's participating church bodies and 5,600 congregations of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. It is anticipated that some 850 congregations of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod again will take part in the appeal.

The NLC bodies and the Missouri and Wisconsin Synods comprise the large majority of American Lutheranism. Smaller Lutheran bodies have a total of about 400 congregations.

Brochures and posters proclaiming the theme of this year's appeal —"Whatever you do, do all for the glory of God"— cite critical clothing needs in many areas.

Last year the Thanksgiving appeal netted 3,127,902 pounds of clothing.

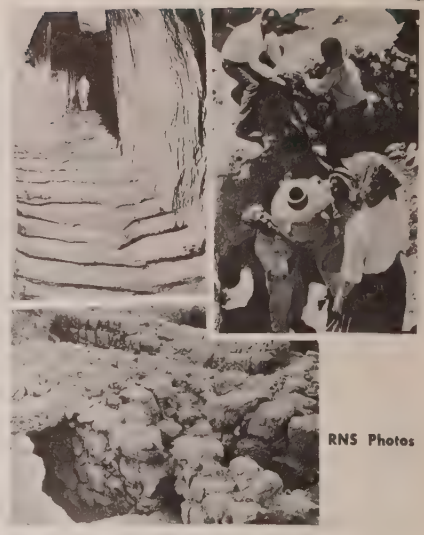
SWIMMER FINDS 'NEEDLE IN HAYSTACK'

by Sp-4 John T. Griffith



A SEARCH more difficult than "finding a needle in a haystack" occurred recently at the American Beach in Tirrenia. Tirrenia is a sea-side resort town in central Italy, a short distance from the United States Army's Camp Darby.

The scene was a promotion party for new Specialists Fourth Class Robert Nenni and Marland Burckhardt. One of the guests, Sp-4 Robert Triano lost a small high school ring somewhere in the Tyrrhenian Sea.

When the loss was realized, a halt was called to the water games being played by a number of guests. The group of celebrators, including the command's Protestant Chaplain, Captain Raymond E. Barry, who is a Disciples of Christ minister, began the virtually hopeless hunt. But search they did. After a half-hour of combing the beach and sea with everything from diving masks to children's shovels, the hunt was ended without the ring being retrieved.

Another member of the party, Sp-4 Montz Calkin, who knew nothing about the loss, later decided to "go-in-for-a-dip." On entering the water, an object he thought to be a pebble lodged between his toes.

On closer examination—you guessed it—he found that the pebble was Triano's ring.

FIRST U.S. PROTESTANT CHAPLAIN IN MOSCOW

The Rev. Donald V. Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Tonawanda, N.Y., has been appointed by the National Council of Churches to serve as the first Protestant chaplain to American residents in Moscow. Mr. Roberts, 35, will minister to the U.S. diplomatic and press personnel and their families in the Russian capital and to any other English-speaking residents or tourists who wish to attend services. Although Mr. Roberts will be directly responsible to the National Council, his salary will be paid by the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., the Protestant Episcopal Church and the Lutheran Church in America.

John T. Griffith will be the recipient of the November $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in A MIGHTY FORTRESS.

So many of you are abroad in strange countries: Why not tell other readers of the Fortress what these lands are like? Why not send a picture along to show interesting scenes or events?

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the servcie, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

ANCIENT GIDEON'S CIVIL DEFENSE SYSTEM

SCENES from an archaeological excavation of the ancient Biblical city of Gideon, near Jerusalem, show (top left) a tunnel cut from solid rock in the 10th Century B.C. to connect the city with a spring outside the wall in order to provide water when the city was under siege; a wine jar (top right) removed from a 17th Century B.C. tomb found in an elaborate cemetery near the city; a segment of a massive inner wall (bottom) built in the 10th century and the opening to the tunnel leading to the spring.

A University of Pennsylvania archaeological expedition led by Dr. James B. Pritchard discovered that the city had an elaborate "civil defense" system. It included an outer wall about five feet thick, an inner wall about 10-feet-wide, 22-feet-high and two-thirds a mile in circumference, the tunnel under the walls to the spring, and a high pool 80-feet-deep within the walls to store water in case of attack.

A MIGHTY FORTRESS

VOL. XII | New York, N. Y., October 1962 | No. 6

8.6 Million North American Lutherans

MEMBERSHIP of the Lutheran Churches in North America totaled 8,611,068 adults and children at the end of 1961.

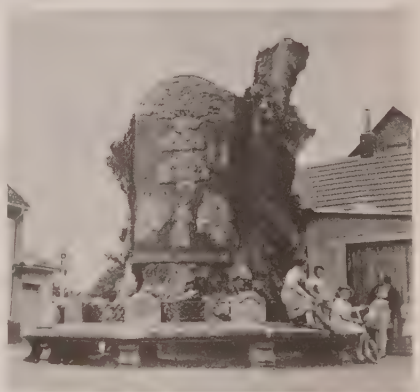
The Lutheran bodies reported 8,333,797 baptized members in the United States and 277,271 members for their affiliated groups in Canada, according to the annual statistical summary issued in New York by the National Lutheran Council. The figures were compiled by Miss Helen M. Knubel, secretary of research and statistics in the Council's Division of Public Relations.

The total represents a gain of 154,205 members or 1.8 per cent during 1961—145,508 in the U.S. and 8,697 in Canada. The percentage of increase was one-tenth of one per cent above the 1960 gain, a level considerably below the average gain of 3.1 per cent over the previous decade, when increases in membership ranged from 2.7 to 3.6 per cent.

Comprising the third largest Protestant denominational grouping in America, the Lutheran Churches are exceeded in numbers only by the Baptists and Methodists.

The NLC's summary is based on statistics supplied by fifteen Lutheran church bodies, plus the Negro Missions conducted by four groups associated in the Lutheran Synodical Conference. Ten of the bodies recorded advances in membership, three reported no change and two suffered losses.

The six bodies that participate in the National Lutheran Council—United, American, Augustana, Lutheran Free, Suomi Synod and American Evangelical—have 5,640,087 members, a gain of 73,155 over the previous year.



(By early 1963 the number of NLC bodies is expected to reduce to two as a result of mergers. The United, Augustana, American Evangelical and Suomi Synod have officially formed the new Lutheran Church in America and this body will begin to function formally on Jan. 1. It also is expected that the Lutheran Free Church will merge into the American Lutheran Church as of next Feb. 1.)

The Synodical Conference—consisting of the Missouri Synod, Wisconsin Synod, Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches and Evangelical Lutheran Synod, with Negro Missions—has 2,936,421 members or 72,280 more than in 1960.

Five independent bodies—National Evangelical, Church of the Lutheran Confession, Finnish Apostolic, Lutheran Brethren and Eielsen Synod—total 34,560 members, a gain of 8,770. Virtually all of this increase was due to receipt of figures for the first time this year from the Church of the Lutheran Confession.

THE TRUNK of the famed Luther elm in Worms, Germany, has been transformed into a lasting monument in honor of the 16th century reformer. According to one legend the tree furnished shade for Martin Luther when he was on his way to the fateful Diet of Worms in 1521. Another popular legend, illustrated in the bas-relief, claims that while two women were discussing Luther's trial, one stuck her walking stick into the ground saying, "Luther's teachings are as true as it is true that this stick will grow leaves and roots." The tree has been associated with Luther for hundreds of years, and its trunk, dead since 1949, has been transformed into a 36-foot-square bas-relief which shows Luther before the Diet of Worms. The elm is crowned with the Luther Rose, which is now the symbol of the Lutheran World Federation.

Mass Communion Marks Birth of New Church

THE FINAL ACT of the opening session of the Lutheran Church in America at Detroit, Michigan, was a two-hour communion service in which most of the delegates and visitors participated.

With colorful ceremony and moving solemnity the largest merger in the history of American Lutheranism brought the Lutheran Church in America into being on Thursday, June 28, 1962. More than 7,000 persons witnessed the birth of the new denomination of 3,200,000 members.

The climactic moment came when four quarters of a massive white candle, each with a separate wick at its knife edge, were lighted by acolytes and then brought together in a single flame to symbolize the union of four church bodies into one body.

". . . four churches now are joined together," a voice intoned, "just as four candles are lighted, four segments that will make a whole,

". . . these flames each burning brightly in its own small circle of light will now be joined in one, become one, one strong source of light,

". . . and flame up to signify that we who were four are one."

As the candle, three feet high and a foot in diameter, flickered and then burned brightly on its pedestal inside the improvised chancel in the arena of Cobo Hall, it was encircled with a broad band of gold as a symbol of unity and eternity.

The "agreement of consolidation" entered into by the uniting Churches and filed with Minnesota's Secretary of State described the LCA as a non-profit corporation whose purpose is "to promote the Christian religion according to the tenets of the faith as set forth in the laws of the Church."

With its 3,200,000 members, the Lutheran Church in America becomes the largest of the 11 branches of American Lutheranism. The LCA ranks sixth in size in American Protestantism.

Forty clergymen administered communion. 160 persons were served at a table. Symbolic candle stands in front of main altar.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

"Forgetting What Lies Behind"

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

AS WE SAT in Yankee Stadium watching the world's champions play the Minnesota Twins, we could sense the tension and the terrific pressure that was felt by the players on the field. Each pitch, each throw, each time at bat could be crucial as far as the outcome of the game was concerned, as only one run separated the champions from the challengers from the Midwest. The Twins, now in second place, were threatening the Yankees for first place in the American League race.

A tremendous roar went up in the cavernous stadium as the announcement came over the public address system, "Ladies and gentlemen, the next batter is number seven, Mantle, center field, number seven." As the popular center fielder came to the plate one realized what he was trying to overcome. A series of injuries had plagued him this season. He needed to forget what lay behind. This was also true of other ball players. A .300 hitter, who had been in a batting slump the last few games, had to forget what lay behind. The fielder who had made a costly error the inning before had to forget what lay behind. Any misfortune, any miscue, any bad break in sports must be forgotten and laid aside, after one has momentarily reflected and profited by a mistake that may have been made. But forget one must, lest an error or misfortune plague one's memory and mind and mar the effectiveness of the task and challenge at hand.

Paul, the Apostle, was a sports enthusiast. His writings contain references to athletic events as he compares them with the Christian life. In Philippians, the third chapter, he makes reference to those who would attempt to identify the Christian life with works' righteousness or earning merit or worthiness before God. He calls such ill advised people "dogs," "evil workers," and "those who mutilate the flesh." He puts no confidence in himself but identifies the true believers as those who worship God in spirit and glory in Christ Jesus.

In verses 4-6 he refers to his own "pedigree." It's quite an impressive list of "character references." However, he says, "But whatever gain I had, I counted as loss for the sake of Christ. Indeed I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord." (vss. 7-8).

Paul didn't say, "Do as I say but don't do as I do." He backed up the verbal expression of his beliefs by visible deeds. He goes on to say, "For His sake I have suffered the loss of all things and count them as refuse, in order that I may gain Christ and be found in Him, not having a righteousness of my own, based on law, but that which is through faith in Christ, the righteousness of God that depends on faith." (vss. 8-9). The reason why he did this is "that I may know Him and the power of His resurrection and may share His sufferings, becoming like Him in His death, that if possible I may attain the resurrection from the dead." (vss. 10-11).

This great Apostle had no illusions about himself. He knew what a sinner he had been and what a sinner he still was but now saved through the righteousness which can only be found in Jesus Christ. He even called himself the foremost of sinners.

But there are two things that he does. First, to forget what lies behind and second, to strain forward to what lies ahead, he presses on to the goal to become more and more like Christ. This he does not in his own strength but in that power, which God alone gives, through faith in Jesus Christ our Lord.

It is not easy to forget one's mistakes, poor judgment and sins. There are times when the devil may bring them out like skeletons in a closet to haunt us with their memories. This was Martin Luther's experience again and again as we find them in his writings. But he would turn the weapon of God's Word, the sword of the Spirit, upon the enemy. "It is written . . . it is written," soon squelched the evil one who tried to undermine his faith. On the thirty-first of October, Reformation Day, we think of the breakthrough by Martin Luther as God's Holy Spirit gave the great reformer faith to trust in the Word alone and not in the ideas of men.

One amazing thing about God's love is that, not only does He remove our sins from us as far as the east is from the west (Psalm 103:12), which of course never meet, but He also says, "I am He who blots out your transgressions for my own sake, and I will not remember your sins." (Isaiah 43:25).

To be truly effective in the Christian life, in this sense, we have to be like a big league ball player and "Forget what lies behind." It goes without saying, that if we have unconfessed sins then we must accept the invitation by a forgiving heavenly Father and bring them to the foot of the cross, repent of them and trust in the merits of Jesus Christ. It we are not rightly related to any one of our fellowmen then we are to go to him, get it straightened out and then bring our gifts to the altar (Matthew 5:23-26). But having done this we are to forget what lies behind . . . strain forward to what lies ahead . . . and press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus. He calls you and me to become more and more like Christ day by day. What a challenge! What an opportunity! What an experience!

How Small Our World Is!

by Harry R. Clark

As a Chief Petty Officer in the United States Navy I have traveled thousands of miles from home. I have spent many of the past eight years abroad and have toured many continents.

My experience, like most of us, has been that during this period of years I have received the weekly church bulletins from my home congregation, Holy Trinity, Wildwood, New Jersey, without fail. Wherever I was or was transferred to it wouldn't take too long for word from my church to come to me.

It is a wonderful and comforting feeling that though we travel far and wide and spend a considerable amount of time away from home and our loved ones, yet the pastor and members of our home church are interested enough to keep in contact with us. It is a reassuring reminder that our Lord is close by us no matter where we are!

I have had the pleasure of visiting many Lutheran services in Europe and the Western Pacific. It is a privilege to worship with fellow Lutherans from all over the world.

I know that when I return home my church will know me and welcome me back as though I had never left. It is a wonderful experience to know there are such good people in the world today.

Harry R. Clark will be the recipient of the October $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the servcie, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

TYPHOON KATE DAMAGES CENTER IN PHILIPPINES

The Lutheran Service Center and parsonage at Olongapo, Philippine Islands, were damaged by the blacklash of Typhoon Kate.

Chaplain Raymond C. Hohenstein, associate executive secretary of the Lutheran Service Commission, said that strong winds over the South China Seas combined with the backlash of Typhoon Kate struck Olongapo on July 24. Flood waters and floating objects, he said, caused severe damage to the center and service pastor's home in Olongapo.

Service Pastor Louis T. Buchheimer wrote Commission headquarters in Washington, D.C., that a "river across the street (from the Olongapo center and parsonage) changed its course and came through our yard and house."

"A runaway, 18-foot boat hit the center and then narrowly missed the house. Huge floating logs and downed trees leveled large sections of two concrete walls around the yard," he reported.

Mr. Buchheimer, who was enroute from the Lutheran Chaplain Convocation in Japan at the time of the flood, expressed thankfulness that his wife did not drown.

At one point, he related, she was in water up to her neck in the house.

Dr. Carl F. Yaeger, associate executive secretary with Chaplain Hohenstein of the LSC, in the Far East at the time, made a personal inspection of the damage to the LSC property in the Philippines.

Secretary Hohenstein estimated on the basis of initial assessments that repairs will cost over $1,000.

Lutheran Service Centers are maintained throughout the world for U.S. military personnel and their dependents as a joint project of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

R.S.V. BIBLE TEN YEARS OLD

THE Revised Standard Version of the Holy Bible has sold better than one-million copies a year since it was first published in 1952. September 30, 1962, is the official birthday of the RSV, which was translated by a committee of scholars under the chairmanship of Dr. Luther A. Weigle, dean emeritus of Yale Divinity School. Five other publishers will oin Thomas Nelson and Sons in publishing t this month. The copyright is held by the enominations through their agency, the Nanal Council of Churches' Division of Chris- n Education.

LUTHERAN INTEREST IN SERVICEMEN HIGH

LUTHERANS are taking an unprecedented, peace-time interest in their men and women in military service.

The Rev. E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, said that indications from many fronts point to new highs in interest by individual ministers and by congregations in maintaining Christian fellowship with their members in service. He termed the increased participation by Lutheran ministers in chaplain programs as particularly significant.

"More Lutheran chaplains are on active duty now than at any other time since World War II," he disclosed.

As of July 1, 1962, there were 254 chaplains of churches participating in the National Lutheran Council on active duty. This, he said, is compared with some 600 Lutheran chaplains in uniform during the second World War and about 220 Lutheran chaplains in service during the Korean conflict.

EAGLE SCOUT James H. Tonn of Escanaba, Mich., passes rolls to Congressman Odin Langen of Minnesota at a dinner in Washington, D. C. for the Boy Scouts of America. Both are Lutheran.

Scout Tonn was one of a dozen representatives of his organization selected from 12 regions in the United States to participate in a "report to the nation."

Civilian Lutheran ministers (contact pastors) who carry additional responsibilities for military installations near their churches are also increasing, Mr. Midboe said. There are 330 contact pastors now and expansion of this group is being planned for selected overseas areas.

Commenting on congregational relationships with their members in service, Secretary Midboe said that records for the first six months of this year indicate a substantial increase in the number of requests for literature from congregations for service personnel. The Bureau of Service to Military Personnel provided pastors with 43,000 Easter Cards for mailing to their members in service this year.

To aid pastors and congregations in this ministry, the NLC Service Bureau now has four mailings per year—Christmas, Easter, Independence Day and a special mailing for referral secretaries in congregations.

Mr. Midboe said that several factors are behind the current high interest which Lutherans are showing in their fellow members in the armed forces. Among them are—

: the Berlin crisis followed by the trouble in Laos focusing the attention of all Americans on those who guard the frontiers of the free world;

: the deep concern shown by the evangelism commissions of the participating church bodies of the NLC as evidenced by their promotion of more efficient referral systems to keep in touch with military personnel;

: the increased emphasis given to this ministry by church papers;

: the continued cooperation of responsible church committees;

: the presentation of this ministry at District and Synod meetings.

"Men and women will be in service a long time into the foreseeable future," Mr. Midboe predicted.

"It is encouraging to note," he added, "that Lutherans throughout the United States are accepting the responsibilities which Christians must exercise as they practice their faith in a cold war atmosphere."

ANOTHER LUTHERAN MERGER CLOSER . . . .

A PROBABLE future church merger is symbolized in the hand clasp of Dr. John A. Stensvaag (left) president of the Lutheran Free Church (LFC), and Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, president of the American Lutheran Church (ALC). The annual convention of the 90,000-member LFC had just voted to approve merger plans with the ALC which has some 2,360,000. If the plan is accepted by the ALC, as Dr. Schiotz predicted it would be, the merger will go into effect on Feb. 1, 1963.

WHEN DELETING A "U" MEANS UNION

FROM ULCA to LCA was but a minor change in the sign of Faith Evangelical Lutheran Church, Little Rock, Ark. Faith, an affiliate of the United Lutheran Church in America which merged into the Lutheran Church in America this summer, found the task relatively easy. Monroe C. Thompson, church property chairman (on ladder), merely had to delete the U from ULCA to designate the initials of the new Church. Looking on approvingly is the Rev. Chesmond S. Bade, pastor.

Second Glance

The Lutheran Church in America elected Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, 61, as its first president. Termed the most influential leader in world Protestantism, Dr. Fry headed the United Lutheran Church in America before it formed the LCA with three other Lutheran bodies this summer.

Membership in the American Lutheran Church increased by about 60,000 or 2½ per cent, for a total of 2,364,442 in 1961, the first full year in which the denomination functioned officially after its formation in a three-way merger.

Dr. Oliver R. Harms of St. Louis, Mo., was elected president of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod at that body's 45th triennial convention in Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Harms, 60, succeeds Dr. John W. Behnken, 78, who had been president of the 2,500,000-member church since 1935.

An official of the German Evangelical Missionary Council reported at Coburg, Germany, that Protestant mission areas throughout the world currently are served by about 42,000 missionaries.

Of these, he said, twenty-five thousand come from the United States, seven thousand from England and about one thousand from Germany.

Christian businessmen in the Philippines are being challenged by the Philippine Bible Society to discover imaginative ways to distribute Scriptures. Two outstanding results to date, according to a report received by the American Bible Society, are a handbag manufacturer who inserts a copy of the Gospel of John in each purse and a plastics manufacturer who places a Scripture Portion in each clothing bag.

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall announced that four old religious structures—two in New Mexico and two in Alaska—have been added to the Registry of National Historic Landmarks. The New Mexico landmarks are the ruins of two early Franciscan missions at the Abo and Querai pueblos, near the town of Mountainair. The Alaskan sites are Saint Michael's Russian Orthodox Cathedral at Sitka and the old Russian Mission Orphanage in the same city. Both structures are part of the heritage from the Russians who colonized Alaska early in the 19th century.

Bishop Otto Dibelius of the Evangelical Church of Berlin and Brandenburg and until recently chairman of the Council of the Evangelical Church in Germany (EKID), said that despite a large-scale, leave-the-church movement and increasing atheistic propaganda in the Soviet Zone, the number of church-goers there has not dropped.

CROWN PRINCESS BEATRIX of The Netherlands views a statue of St. Boniface she has just unveiled in Dokkum, Holland, where the eighth century evangelist was martyred with 52 companions in 755 A.D.

Born in Devonshire, England in 680 A.D., St. Boniface went to Germany as a missionary in 716 A.D. Seven years later he was consecrated a bishop. He became the great apostle of Germanic countries and prepared the way for a united Christian Europe under Charlemagne.

During missionary journeys, Boniface went three times into Friesland, a section of Holland which was then the center of opposition to Christianity.

Both Dutch Protestants and Roman Catholics were on hand for the unveiling ceremonies, a visible expression of growing cordial relations between the two groups in The Netherlands.

The statue by the Amsterdam artist G. Bolhuis shows the saint protecting himself with a Bible against the blows of his enemies.

'FLOATING CHURCH' LAUNCHED BY LUTHERANS IN JAPAN

A "FLOATING CHURCH" was launched in Tokyo, the first of its kind in Japan, destined to become the vehicle used by Japanese Lutherans in their ministry to fishermen.

The "Shinko Maru," ninety tons, was commissioned by the Norwegian Missionary Society. It was built at Osaka by the Hanshin Shipbuilding and Engineering Company. Its interior is fitted out as a church.

It will call on fishing villages along Japan's long coastline. Services will be held aboard the ship.

SISTERS REUNITED AT SELFRIDGE AIR FORCE BASE

by Corinne Smith—The Detroit News

THE MOECKEL sisters sometimes feel as though they've just about completed the circle.

It all started in Jackson (Michigan) 19 years ago when both joined what is now the Women's Army Corps.

Today, after duty in the Far East, Europe, and less glamorous points between, they're about 90 miles from home at Selfridge Air Force Base—stationed together for the first time.

Both have been in and out of service since their first swearing in. Viola is now a WAC captain, information officer with the 28th Artillery Group (Air Defense), and advisor to 16 WAC enlisted personnel stationed at the air base. Olive is an Air Force major, chief of the accounting and control division, directorate of personnel of the First Fighter Wing.

When weekend schedules permit, they head home to Grass Lake, near Jackson, where the family roots are deep. The dairy barn Grandfather Moeckel built in 1900 is still as good as new, and their parents, the Walter C. Moeckels, live in the old house located on what is now officially Moeckel road.

When Olive decided to return to service in 1949, she chose the Air Force. In a way, it was like getting the last word.

"I tried almost daily to get assigned to the Air Corps after enlisting," she said, "but all I ever got was a big 'no.' Well, I'm in the Air Force now, but I'm still grounded. Vi spends more time flying than I do."

Even though they're assigned to the same station, the officers put in long hours in totally unrelated jobs and might have to make appointments to see each other if they hadn't set up joint housekeeping.

Their dinner hour is apt to be closer to fashionable Spanish than military, but both agree it's worth it. They live off base, which they think is a pleasant way of straddling two ways of life.

Olive is a gardener—flower pot style during the winter, but out grubbing away in the dirt as soon as the first thaw comes. Even in her "shoe box", which she calls the Washington apartment she had during a Pentagon assignment, the plants took precedence over the furniture.

The greatest single catastrophe she recalls is forfeiting a little Florida palm when she crossed the U.S.-Canadian border en route back to Michigan from a New York assignment.

"I felt better about it when the man promised to give it a good home," she said.

Vi, who was a landscape designer before service days, isn't allowed into the gardening project. "Everything I touch wilts," she admitted.

She was in the merchandising field during two breaks in service, the most recent in 1954 following an assignment as commander of a WAC detachment in Sendai, Japan.

Most of Vi's assignments have been in recruiting or troop duty, primarily in the South and Midwest. Once she managed a transfer to Fort Meade, Md., when Olive was in the "puzzle palace," more formally known as the Pentagon. Olive promptly was transferred to Washington state so they've never tried it again.

They're convinced that the Selfridge assignments were a mistake and that someday soon the paper work will start grinding out a transfer for one of them. Much as both of them like their assignments, neither asked for a near-home post. They're still eager to see the world.

Vi thought she was on her way again last December when she completed two years at Fort Wayne (Michigan), but her orders took her 30 miles down the road to Selfridge.

Olive already had served one tour at the air base from 1954 to 1958, and was eager for an overseas assignment instead. She previously served with the Third Air Force in England, at Shaftesbury and in South Ruislip as the only woman member of the Inspector General's team.

Her stateside assignments have included two tours at the Pentagon and a lot of Indiana besides New York and Washington state.

When she turned civilian in 1946, she was assistant Friend of the Court and probation officer in Lansing. Before service days, she was with the War Production Board in Detroit.

Because of the break in service, her 20-year hitch won't be up until April of 1964, but plans already are made. First there'll be six months of travel, ending in Florida when the first snow falls.

Vi will have an extra year to serve—just time enough for Olive to get settled in Florida so Vi can join her and start a public relations service.

The Moeckel sisters grew up in St. Jacob Evangelical Lutheran Church, Waterloo, Mich., a congregation of the Wisconsin Synod.

During their service careers they have attended base chapels and Lutheran churches in nearby communities. Capt. Moeckel is in the process of transferring her church membership and Major Moeckel is now a member of the American Lutheran Church.

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

"The Upper Left Drawer"

by Chaplain Richard G. Eisemann

IN THE upper left hand drawer of the desk in my office you will find an interesting assortment of literature. Some talk of foul language, while others tell of Church membership, or parenthood. They seem to cover almost every event and occasion of life from birth to death.

During the past few weeks there seemed to be an unusual emphasis on counseling situations in our Chapel. They all related themselves to five of these pamphlets. Upon reflection they represent an interesting combination of closely related subjects. They include: "Too Young to Marry," "So You Think It's Love," "Building Your Marriage," and "Saving Your Marriage" topped off by one simply called "Broken Homes." Notice the sequence in which they are listed and try to project yourself into the "stream" of the message they convey.

Perhaps, the "tide" that leads to broken homes could be stemmed if more attention were given to those to whom the former titles apply. The importance of ages as a factor in the success of a marriage is very hard to determine. It is difficult to say, therefore, just what an "early marriage" is. Are you "too young to marry"?

During the last twenty-five years there has been a steady proportionate increase in youthful delinquency and a startling increase in broken homes. Freedom to choose allows freedom to choose unwisely when young people do not have all the related facts to encourage an intelligent choice of a life mate. "So You Think It's Love" . . . ask yourself . . . is it really?

Getting married is not difficult. Most people believe they will have a "happy" marriage, whatever that might mean. They "want" their marriage to work, but do they really use an intelligent, spiritual approach in "building their marriage"?

Ability to communicate effectively with each other and with God are the chief causes for successful marriages in every sense of the word. Yet, too often mole hills become mountains and couples find themselves faced with the necessity of "saving" rather than "building" their marriage.

By giving appropriate consideration to each of the first four pamphlet themes introduced by this article you and your Chaplain will have to give less consideration to the fifth . . . on "Broken Homes."

What about Sharing Your Experience?

YES, we want to continue our column, "Sharing Your Experience," on this page of the Fortress. But, we need good stories for this feature.

We want short reports on true experiences that can be of interest to others — stories of action, of things which actually happened in the service to you or to others.

Why don't you share your funny experiences as well as the serious events in your life with spiritual significance.

As before, there will be a $10 check for each piece we print; but, please, do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

NEW COVENTRY CATHEDRAL

ADJOINING the ruins of the old Coventry (England) Cathedral bombed in 1940, the new Cathedral Church of St. Michael was consecrated before Queen Elizabeth II and many diplomats churchmen from all over the world. Erected in seven years, the new Conventry Cathredral is built of the same pink stone as the old one blending with the remaining ruins. The ch... 80-foot-high spire was placed atop the cat... by a Royal Air Force helicopter. An outstanding feature of the cathedral is its Chapel of Unity where people from all over the world are invited to pray for the church universal and for peace.

OVER 3.2 MILLION BELONG TO LUTHERAN CHURCH IN AMERICA

LAST MONTH four Lutheran church bodies in the United States gave up their identities and established the Lutheran Church in America. Completing five and one-half years of intensive negotiations on the four-way merger, the United, Augustana, Finnish Evangelical (Suomi Synod) and American Evangelical Lutheran Churches formed a new denomination of some 3,200,000 members—sixth largest in American Protestantism.

The constituting convention of the LCA was held in Detroit, Michigan, June 28-July 1, immediately following the closing conventions of the merging church bodies, June 25-27.

With its formation, LCA became the largest Lutheran church body in America.

Earlier this year the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod had taken the lead in membership from the United Lutheran Church in America. The ULCA had held the North American Lutheran membership lead for the last 44 years.

In April, 1962, the Missouri Synod announced a gain of 75,508 members during 1961, giving it a total of 2,544,544 baptized members in the United States and Canada.

The ULCA which had pared its membership rolls sharply in the last year, registered a gain of only 754 baptized members in 1961 bringing it to a pre-merger total of 2,495,763. While the Missouri Synod passed the ULCA in baptized membership in 1961, it was reported that the ULCA continued to have the largest number of confirmed members—1,691,398.

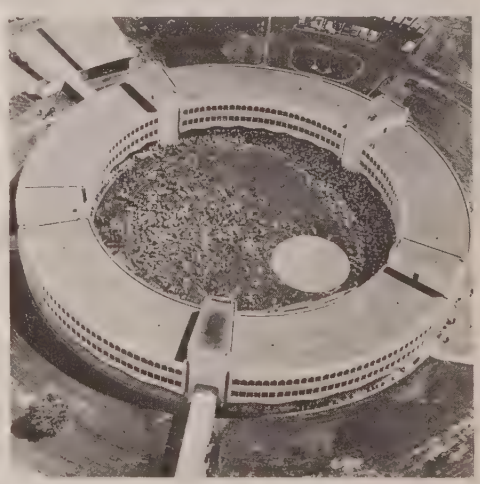
In the Missouri Synod, the confirmed membership in 1961 totaled 1,631,137.

The only other Lutheran body with more than a million members is the American Lutheran Church, with 2,306,780 baptized and 1,509,174 confirmed.

The latest statistical compilation issued by the National Lutheran Council's research and statistics department, citing totals through 1960, showed there were 8,456,863 members in all Lutheran bodies in the United States and Canada.

LUTHER'S SMALL CATECHISM TO BE PUBLISHED IN MODERN ENGLISH

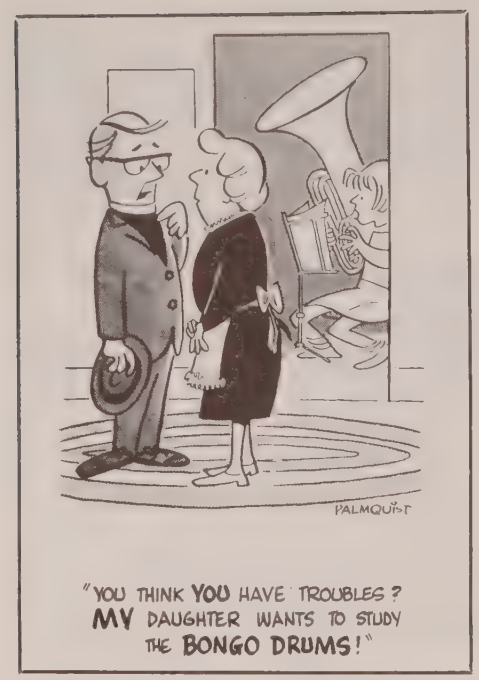
THE FIRST translation in contemporary English of Martin Luther's 430-year-old Small Catechism has been endorsed by the board of parish education of the American Lutheran Church.



"The new translation will be the first entirely fresh modern language text of Luther's Catechism," said Dr. C. Richard Evenson, board director. "The last English translation was made more than 30 years ago."

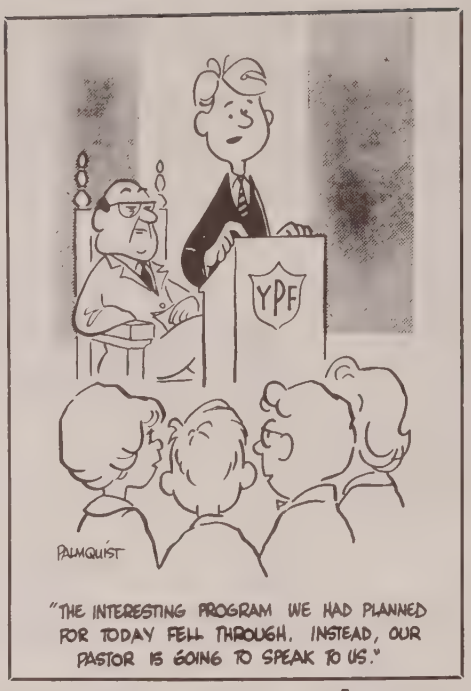
The final draft of the new translation was prepared by a Lutheran Intersynodical Catechism Committee appointed in 1954. The text will be ready for use on Dec. 1, 1962, if approved by other churches joining in the revision.

Work of the committee was extensive. Careful word studies were made from the original German text. Existing English translations were surveyed and evaluated.

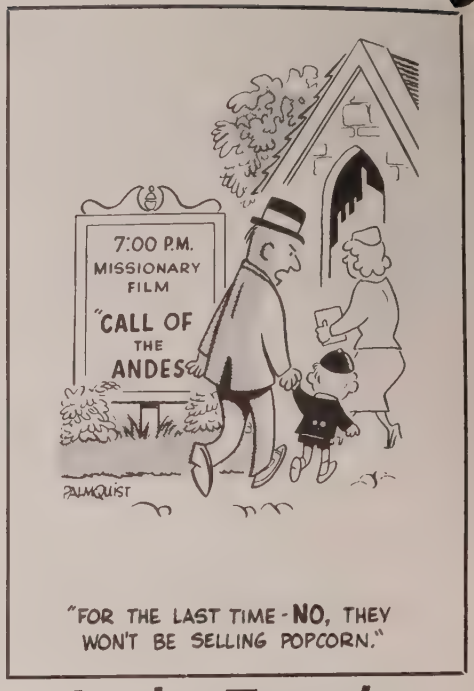


A "field test edition" was printed in 1960, and the cooperating boards set up a special field-testing program. Results and reactions to the test edition were studied before production of the final draft.

Development of the new translation was under the auspices of the American Lutheran Church, representatives of the recently-formed Lutheran Church in America and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.



WITHIN SIGHT of the spot where Washington's army camped in the winter of 1777 and '78 at Valley Forge, Pa., is the new American Baptist Convention headquarters.



Above is an aerial view which shows the unique circular construction of the $8,000,000 Baptist building. The flat circle in the courtyard marks the site of a small chapel to be built later.

TWENTY-MILLION Americans visiting national parks this summer are having an opportunity to worship in "open-air cathedrals" under the auspices of the Christian Ministry in the National Parks, a unit of the National Council of Churches' Department of Evangelism. Pastoral service in 27 areas from Alaska to Florida are provided by 156 student pastors. These men serve in off-duty hours, since they hold summer jobs in the parks as desk clerks, waiters and bellhops. The above photo shows a worship service at Glacier National Park, Montana.

THE REV. ROGER W. PALMQUIST combines the seemingly unrelated vocations of a pastor and a cartoonist. Although his duties as minister of the Covenant Congregational church in Waltham, Mass., come first, Mr. Palmquist still finds time to do a weekly cartoon for the Covenant Companion, national publication of the Evangelical Covenant Church of America, and numerous free-lance assignments. The son and grandson of ministers, Mr. Palmquist has been interested in art since boyhood and studied and worked with Charles M. Schulz, creator of the comic strip "Peanuts." Most of the pastor's cartoons are centered around humorous incidents in the lives of ministers and church members.

"A Life Worthy of the Lord"

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

THE EYES of the world were upon Colonel John Glenn as he became the first American to orbit the earth. Americans everywhere were proud of him as a fellow citizen of "the land of the free and the home of the brave." People identified themselves with him as he was shot into space and successfully returned to earth. People of other nations, too, were "pulling" for him as a fellow member of the human race successfully invaded outer space and returned to tell the story. We were all proud of Colonel Glenn and those who worked behind the scenes to make orbital flight possible.

The responsibilities laid upon the shoulders of this man and the men behind the scenes were tremendous. Success or failure—it was there for all men to see. Once he was shot into space there was no turning back. There was no "goofing off." It was serious business all the way.

The Christian life is also serious minded business. What a privilege it is to be a Christian. What an honor to be called "a child of God." What a thrill to be numbered with those who have preceded us, even through martyrdom, in the cause of advancing the kingdom of God through our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. The Apostle Paul realized the importance of living a life worthy of the Lord. Have you ever wondered with awe at the tremendous responsibility which is ours to lead such a worthy life? In and of ourselves we know that we are completely unworthy. We are just sinful human beings, guilty before a holy God. Yet as Christians we are declared "just" and "children of God" by virtue of our faith in our Lord. All of this the communist astronaut Titov cannot understand and therefore he said while attending the World's Fair in Seattle, that he did not see God out "there" as he orbited the earth. You see, he was out of spiritual orbit. He was not in the same frequency as those of us who belong to the kingdom of God and are about doing the Master's business. This is true of every unregenerate man whether he lives in the United States or anywhere else in the world.

Paul prayed earnestly that the Christians might live lives worthy of the Lord. To take on such a vocation is indeed a high calling whether you be a seaman or an admiral, a helmsman or a radioman, a machinist or a boatswain, an officer or a chief, a chaplain or a mess cook. As men of God we are to do our tasks to the best of our ability—as Christ's men! To do it in such a way that it can truly be said of us that we are living lives worthy of the Lord goes way beyond any of our capacities or abilities. But here is where the Lord has not left us adrift or at sea. He points us to the way through the beacon light of His Holy Word. In Colossians 1:9-14 we are reminded what we must do to live such lives worthy of the Lord. This was Paul's prayer for the Christians who were living in days of extreme persecution and violence. We must:

I. Be filled with the knowledge of His will—vss. 9,10

II. Be strengthened with all power from on high—vs. 11

III. Be thankful to God the Father for this privilege—vss. 12-14.

We are to "be filled with the knowledge of His will in all spiritual wisdom and understanding." Why? "To lead a life worthy of the Lord fully pleasing to Him, bearing fruit in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God." The Lord invites you and me to listen to Him speaking to us by His Holy Spirit through this Word just as intently as the men on the sonar watch listen for the signal giving the location and direction of an oncoming enemy sub.

Think of the knowledge which had to be accumulated before astronaut Glenn could "blast off." The Word of God has knowledge far more important than this. Here is the "word" regarding eternity and the way man can find his way "beyond space." Just as there are great resources of knowledge awaiting man in outer space so also there are abundant resources of knowledge awaiting you in the Word of God, whoever you may be.

The second petition in Paul's prayer in Colossians is that the Christian "might be strengthened with all power according to His glorious might." For what purpose? "For all endurance and patience with joy." How we need strength. How we need power. How we need patience. It's all here. The banquet feast is prepared. Eat and drink. Be strengthened. Be empowered. The third petition by Paul is that we might be thankful to the Father, "who has qualified us to share in the inheritance of the saints in light" and who "has delivered us from the dominion of darkness and transferred us to the kingdom of His beloved Son, in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins." How thankful we can be that we are Americans and can enjoy the freedoms of a liberated land. How much more thankful we should be that we have been delivered, as followers of Christ, from the dominion of spiritual darkness and have been transferred to Christ's kingdom. Let's show our thankfulness by living lives worthy of the Lord!

Bishop Lajos Ordass, the persecuted ousted head of the Lutheran Church in Hungary now living a secluded life in Budapest, was reported to be recuperating slowly following a serious heart attack last April.

A Lutheran World Federation executive challenged the Evangelical Churches in South America to "identify themselves" more with the elementary human need which, he said, afflicts "probably two-thirds of the Latin American population."

Dr. Stewart W. Herman, director of the LWF Committee on Latin America, declared that this is probably the most urgent area of identification today" for Lutherans in this part of the world.

A Christian response to the communist challenge was discussed by Lutheran laymen and women in responsible federal government positions with church leaders at a "Seminar on the Church and National Life."

In Nigeria a major development assistance project by Norwegian Lutherans got under way as a group of newly arrived agricultural experts began establishment of a demonstration farm.

Lutheran Immigration Service hailed the U.S. decision to admit Chinese refugees and took steps to cooperate in resettlement activities. LIS is a joint National Lutheran Council and Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod agency.

HEIFERS are loaded on board a transport plane bound for Colombia, South America, with a cargo of cattle, pigs, rabbits, baby chicks and honey bees to aid impoverished farmers in that country. This was the latest in a long series of such shipments sponsored by the Heifer Project, Inc., a non-sectarian organization supported by both Protestant and Catholic relief organizations.

HONG KONG—City of Contrasts

by Norm Borgaard PN3

DURING the month of April, 1962, my ship arrived in the enchanting city of Hong Kong for a week of liberty. During this stay I witnessed some of the famed sights of that city. The Tiger Palm Gardens with its extraordinary beauty; the Peak Tram for which Hong Kong is famously noted. The ride on this remarkable train in the early evening was truly beautiful, with the glow of the city below and the glistening lights shining upon the water from the many ships in the bay.

But there were other sights!

The most heart-breaking view I witnessed was, strangely enough, aboard my own ship. Here beneath a house of steel the sailor sits in the mess hall eating food as he would if he were at home. The mess trays are seldom cleaned of all the food which has originally been taken, and upon completion of his meal the sailor walks to the scullery where the tray is taken and the left-over contents are normally put into a G.I. can. This process was changed while our ship was in Hong Kong. A small Chinese woman took the trays as they were returned to the scullery and emptied the usable scraps into a small container she had beside her. After the completion of the meal she took these pails of food, the very scraps off the servicemen's trays, and left the ship to distribute the food to the hungry people of Hong Kong. She was back at this post again for the next meal.

Now I ask you, how can any city with so much beauty be the center of such human affliction? Without the sight of one's own eyes the effect can never be reached, the comparison of exotic splendor to sights of extreme poverty. How these people dwell in such poverty is a question far removed from the thoughts of the people who live in the luxury of the free world. Here the people, during a day of work, strive for the necessity of life—food for the hungry body which never stops craving.

At home in the free world the day of work is not centered so—the picture of a new automobile, a rug for the den or some other luxury is in the mind of the free man. That is not so in Hong Kong, where people are compelled to thrive on only one luxury, that of life itself!

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in A MIGHTY FORTRESS.

REFUGEE PROBLEM— A HUMANITARIAN CONCERN

WORLD-WIDE concern by religious leaders has focused on densely populated Hong Kong where further crowding has been caused by famine conditions in Communist China. About 3,000 refugees live in each of these new resettlement blocks in the background. Hundreds of thousands of others live on sidewalks, on roof tops or crowded together on hillsides.

TEEMING market scene in Hong Kong shows densely overcrowded conditions in the British Crown Colony.

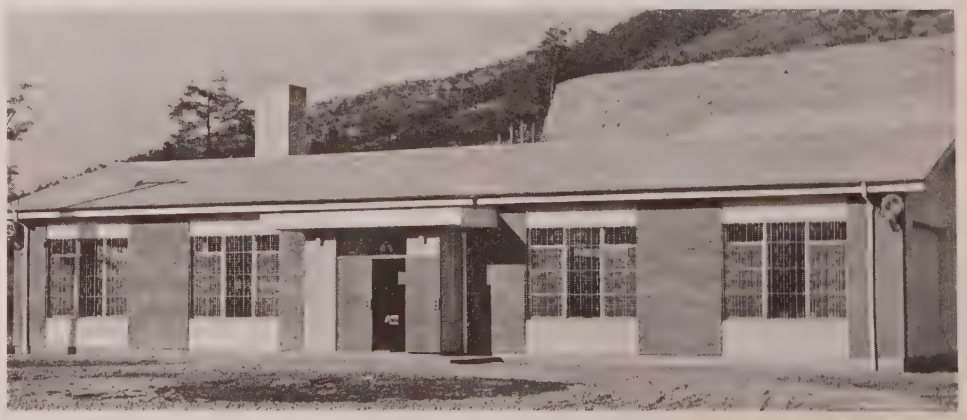
LUTHERAN SERVICE CENTERS SET ATTENDANCE RECORD

MORE MEN and women in uniform visited Lutheran service centers in 1961 than any year since World War II.

Dr. Carl F. Yaeger and Chaplain Raymond C. Hohenstein, associate executive secretaries of the Lutheran Service Commission, reported to the LSC semi-annual meeting in Washington, D.C., that 375,298 servicemen and women attended Lutheran service centers throughout the world during the 1961 calendar year. The previous high was in 1959 when attendance reached 343,643.

Top attendance in 1961 was at centers in Kaiserslautern, Germany, 46,667; Okinawa, 43,731; Jacksonville, Fla., 28,787; Norfolk, Va., 22,245; and San Diego, Calif., 19,684.

The Lutheran Service Commission, a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, in 1961 had 20 service centers located throughout the world and provided parish program support to 21 congregations mostly in the U.S. to help with their programs for servicemen.



The LSC administrators also reported that financial aid for expanded servicemen's activities has been extended in 1962 to congregations in Junction City, Kansas; Caribou, Maine; and Clarksville and Memphis, Tennessee.

Five of the 20 service centers are located overseas at Kaiserslautern, Germany; Tachikawa, Japan; Okinawa; Olongapo, Philippine Islands; and Seoul, Korea. The LSC also provides a service pastor in Hong Kong.

Four of the 21 congregations which received parish program support in 1961 and which are located near U.S. armed forces installations are outside of the continental U.S.—St. John's, Newfoundland; Balboa, Canal Zone; Honolulu, Hawaii; and Santurce, Puerto Rico.

Until 1950, Lutheran service centers were maintained independently by either the National Lutheran Council or the Lutheran Church —Missouri Synod. Since 1951 this off-station ministry of Lutherans to military personnel has been carried on under a single administrative unit through the LSC.

The Lutheran Service Commission has recorded the following annual attendance: 1951 (part year)—21,784; 1952—188,240; 1953—270,391; 1954—284,289; 1955—316,096; 1956—296,388; 1957—275,098; 1958—281,059; 1959—343,643; 1960—319,124; and 1961—375,298.

The Veteran Called Barbarossa

By Blaise Levai

THIS IS the story of a man who went half way round the world to keep a vow. His name? It doesn't really matter. People call him "Barbarossa" because of a flaming red beard and a head as bald as an egg.

During the last war, in the midst of heavy artillery fire, this Barbarossa from England vowed that, if God spared his life, he would return some day to India to work among the Muslims, whom he had grown to admire for their stubborn will.

Barbarossa took up residence in the midst of a strict orthodox group of Muslims. He tried as far as he could to dress as they did and eat their food. Each day he visited their part of town and spoke in the busy market place. One day an angry shopkeeper spat in his face and called him a "heathen pig." Barbarossa wiped his face, smiled and quietly walked away.

Day after day Barbarossa continued to go about these people, distributing Bibles and tracts wherever he could. Eventually the Muslim priests in the vicinity protested to the authorities. They charged that this intruder was a public nuisance who was turning Muslims away from the Prophet Mohammed to the Prophet Jesus. The people now began to jeer and interrupt Barbarossa when he tried to speak in the center of the crowded bazaar. So, lifting a hand, he cried: "Please hear me just once more! Listen, and I promise I shall leave."

As he stood there in the middle of the square, he suddenly pulled off his turban. The blazing sun seemed to reflect its rays from his bald head as from a sparkling mirror.

"Look," he continued, rubbing his smooth head, "God has given me a natural bald head, but your priests must shave their heads. Neither has Allah given them natural red beards; they must dye their beards. But see what a thick red beard God has given to me! Although I am no longer permitted to speak to you here in the market place, be assured that I shall remember you and continue to pray for you, commending you to the Great Prophet Jesus, who can enable you to love as victoriously as He loved. If you need me in any way, come to me. You know where I live."

By this time the crowd started to laugh. But there was one in that crowd who was strangely moved. It was the man who had spat in Barbarossa's face. Late that night he went to Barbarossa's room and apologized.

"Now," said the Muslim, "I am ready to know more about the Prophet Jesus, who can make love possible. Somehow I always felt that people wrote about love in books because that is the only place it can exist."

Barbarossa had brought another person to Christ!

From Bible Society Record

The work of the church among men and women in uniform has been a life-long priority of Dr. Bersell. He was instrumental in establishing the first Lutheran Service Center at Camp Dodge, Iowa, in November, 1917. Since the early days of World War II, Dr. Bersell has been continuously active on committees which supervise the Lutheran concern for military personnel. He presently is chairman of both the Lutheran Service Commission and the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel.

VICE PRESIDENT Lyndon B. Johnson admires a copy of the famed "Head of Christ" painted by Warner Sallman. It will hang in the Vice President's office in Washington.

The copy was presented by Rep. Carl Albert (D. Okla.), House majority leader on behalf of the people of Durant, Okla. A movement in that city seeks to place a copy of the painting in every public building or office in the U.S.

The original painting hangs in Chicago's North Park College, an institution of the Evangelical Mission Covenant Church. More than 20 million copies have been reproduced since the portrait was painted by Mr. Sallman in 1926.

AFRICA'S UZARAMO CHURCH MARKS 70TH ANNIVERSARY

THE 70th anniversary of the beginning of Lutheran work in the strategic coastal area of Tanganyika by German missionaries was celebrated in April at Dar es Salaam.

The Uzaramo mission, orphaned during two world wars, is now administered by the National Lutheran Council of the United States as trustee of the Lutheran World Federation.

Christians should never take their freedom for granted, but should work to "protect their government from subversion and to perfect it in its service to the people," the president of the National Council of Churches declared in an Independence Day message. J. Irwin Miller of Columbus, Ind., first layman ever to head the NCC, said that one of the services this government must perform for its people is to promote international peace and freedom "for the freedom of each nation is contingent upon a genuine concern for the welfare of all other nations."

A 272-page book of 256 hymns and other songs, illustrated with Christian symbols, was issued for children in church schools by the American Lutheran Church's Augsburg Publishing House in Minneapolis. Besides popular and traditional hymns, the volume includes Negro spirituals, plain songs, table graces, excerpts from famous oratorios and new compositions. Among other features are suggested devotions, Scripture quotations and response in song, notes discussing significant hymns, church seasons, selected psalms, canticles and prayers.

Church losses from major fires in the United States and Canada amounted to more than $3,500,000 during 1961, according to the National Fire Protection Association headquarters in Boston. This figure was down somewhat from the $3,673,500 lost in major church and synagogue fires during 1960.

The American Jewish Committee, a pioneer human relations agency founded in 1906, reported that discrimination based on religion against technicians and specialists in major American industries has largely disappeared. However, discriminatory barriers on upper management and policy-making levels still persist "to a very strong degree," the president of the committee said.

An attempt was made in Hannover, Germany, on the life of Bishop Hanns Lilje, chairman of the United Evangelical Lutheran Church of Germany. According to Religious News Service, police said that a woman, described as mentally disturbed, aimed a loaded revolver at Bishop Lilje during a church service. The woman pulled the trigger several times but the weapon failed to go off. Worshipers disarmed her. The incident occurred in Hannover Market Church as Bishop Lilje, a former president of the Lutheran World Federation completed his sermon.

The American Bible Society's distribution of Scriptures has reached the highest point in the agency's 146-year history. Over 24 million pieces of Scripture were circulated in 1961. The total, which included whole Bibles, Testaments, and portions, was distributed in more than 100 countries on six continents. The 1961 figure was up almost a million copies over the previous year.

"Question 7" has won two new awards. In Brussels, Belgium, the annual general assembly of Protestant film producers and distributors from nine European countries gave their "Interfilm Award" to the Lutheran-produced motion picture dealing with the conflict of Christianity and Communism in East Germany. California's Federation of Women's Clubs presented their "Award of Merit" to the film at its annual convention in San Diego on May 8. Among the 16 prizes "Question 7" has received was its selection as "Best Film of the Year" for 1961 by the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

CHURCH FILM SHOWS DANGERS OF GAMBLING

YOUNG people are shown playing slot machines in a scene from a new Methodist movie on gambling. The story of a girl who begins playing the machines as a pastime and later finds she cannot stop is told in the film "Where Fortune Smiles." The film may be rented from Cokesbury Book Stores, retail outlets of the Methodist Publishing House, which are located in major U.S. cities.

TRAINING SAVES LIFE

By PFC Donald R. Kratochvil

THE ODDS were against him, but Marine Lance Corporal Dennis L. Boyle beat them and lived to tell the story.

It was the 425th parachute drop of the 1st Force Reconnaissance Company of the 1st Marine Division. The jump area was near Subic Bay in the Republic of the Philippines.

LCpl Boyle, USMC parachutist became snarled in static lines when he jumped with his company at 1,300 feet. Once this happens it is literally impossible to pull the jumper back into the plane because of heavy winds caused by the 110-knot flying aircraft. The jumper's weight is increased many times by the force of the wind.

The jumper usually meets certain death in this instance because he inevitably rotates in a tight circle while dangling and quickly loses consciousness and thus cannot pull his ripcord. Long months of Marine Corps training and cool headedness on his part were the factors that helped Boyle of Mitchell, South Dakota, beat the odds which say that jumpers often die in these circumstances.

This hazard is one of the most feared by jumpers and this was the first in the company's 8,000 jumps since its formation.

For weeks and months these Reconnaissance Marines train for any eventuality. Boyle's "eventuality" — suspension for four minutes high above the earth—occurred so fast that his reaction was instant. To put it more directly, Boyle said, "I did everything by the book, just like the Marine Corps says."

LCpl Boyle proved that hard and timely training pays off and for him—his life.

Donald Kratochvil will be the recipient of the July $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in A MIGHTY FORTRESS.

So many of you are abroad in strange countries: Why not tell other readers of the Fortress what these lands are like? Why not send a picture along to show interesting scenes or events?

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

FIRST BIBLE FOR ANUAK TRIBESMAN

DR. DANIEL BURKE (left), president of the American Bible Society, and U.S. District Judge Luther W. Youngdahl, a vice-president of the society and a prominent Lutheran layman, examine the first New Testament published in the Anuak language of some 40,000 tribesmen in the Sudan. The 700-page translation is the result of 13 years of work in reducing the spoken language to written symbols. The first copy from the initial printing of 1,000 New Testaments was exhibited at the 146th annual meeting of the American Bible Society. RNS Photo

Lutheran Service Center Opened in Seoul, Korea

A NEW $65,000 Lutheran Service Center was opened by the Lutheran Service Commission, a joint agency of the NLC and the Missouri Synod, in Seoul, Korea.

The center is an L-shaped, one-floor building. It has a game room, hobby and lounge area, snack-bar, a place for worship, a caretaker's quarters and a service pastor's study. In addition, it has showers and lockers for servicemen.

Located near the United Nations Village in the northern part of Seoul, it is one of three centers sponsored by religious groups in Seoul. The Rev. Wayne M. Daubenspeck serves as director.

With the addition of this facility in Korea there are now 20 service centers maintained by the Commission.

LUTHERANS SURVEY MILITARY COUPLES

A SURVEY of church relationships in five military communities "clearly underlines the need for a consistent contact and referral program by the home congregations," according to Dr. Robert W. Long, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Division of American Missions.

A questionnaire-sampling taken by field workers showed that of 108 couples visited, 80 have retained membership in a church "back home," but only 39 of these home churches are maintaining contact with the absentee members.

"The fact that almost half of the families contacted were military career people also points up the need for their establishing a vital relationship to a Lutheran congregation in the military community," Dr. Long noted.

Under a Lutheran World Action-financed program started by the NLC in 1959, parish workers are assigned to larger military communities to work with nearby Lutheran congregations in ministering to service families.

At present, workers serve congregations at Fayetteville, N.C., Charleston Heights, S.C., Columbus, Ga., El Paso, Tex., and Oahu, Hawaii.

Dr. Long said 52 of the couples visited were making the military their career. Of these, five couples worshipped regularly and sixteen occasionally at the local Lutheran church and seven worshipped regularly and four occasionally at the post chapel.

Those retaining Lutheran memberships at home included fifty-four from NLC churches, thirty of the Missouri Synod and two from the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod. Ten others held membership in churches in Germany, one in Denmark, and five others designated themselves Lutheran without church body affiliation.

The survey showed a wide variety of ways the local Lutheran congregation had been located, with newspaper notices and similar advertising most frequently cited. Others mentioned learning of the church through friends, church signs, chaplains and home pastors, surveys, visits by church staff members and by receiving church literature.

The United Lutheran Church in America has compiled a packet on communism to familiarize its 2,500,000 members with the movement and ways of combatting it. Entitled "Confronting Communism," it was prepared by the Church's Board of Social Missions under the direction of the Rev. Rufus Cornelsen, who says the current American anxiety over communism has led people to search for over-simplified solutions to the problem or to join extremist groups.

A structure once used as a bomb scoring building by the U. S. Air Force has been converted into a chapel at Fort Snelling, Minneapolis, Minn., by members of the Air Defense Command. Volunteer off-duty troops did the renovation work over a four-month period. The little white chapel seats only 50 persons, but another wing to accommodate Sunday School and other facilities is planned.

The American Bible Society announces that portions of the Bible have been published in 1,181 languages. The whole Bible has been published in 226 languages, a whole Testament in 281, and Scriptural portions in 674. Last year, complete Bibles were published for the first time in Mengaka (Bali), in Bambara, Teso, and Sukuma (Africa), and Sadan Toradja (Indonesia).

Communists are distributing more literature than Christians, says the Rev. Robert T. Taylor, ways and means secretary of the American Bible Society. In the Bible Society Record, he states that the Soviet Union distributed about 100 million volumes of Communist literature last year, while Bible Societies and other groups apportioned a total of 55 million Scripture copies or portions.

A selected group of 20 United Lutheran college students, all members of the Luther League of America, will travel across the U. S. this summer in five teams to assist urban, suburban and rural congregations. The youths, ranging in age from 18 to 22, will be briefed by church experts in evangelism, parish education and new missions.

Donations to Lutheran World Action since 1940 and the value of relief goods shipped overseas by Lutheran World Relief since 1946 have passed a combined total of $200,000,000, it was recently announced by the National Lutheran Council. The Lutheran gifts in cash to LWA, and in goods to LWR are used to support a world-wide ministry to people and churches in need.

A Sofia Radio broadcast said the Bulgarian Communist government plans to build a "palace for marriages" in the capital city, where about 18,000 weddings take place annually. It will be modeled along the lines of similar centers in the Soviet Union.

THIS JUNE WILL GO DOWN IN LUTHERAN HISTORY as delegates from four Lutheran church bodies will gather in Detroit, Mich., to unite into one body—the 3,200,000-member Lutheran Church in America. Our picture, taken last year, shows the signing of the merger agreement by officials of the uniting bodies: the United Lutheran Church in America, the Augustana Lutheran Church, the American Evangelical Lutheran Church, and the Suomi Synod. Sitting are the presidents: Dr. Franklin Clark Fry of the ULCA, Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen of the Augustana, the Rev. A. B. Farstrup, AELC, and Dr. Raymond Wargelin, Suomi Synod. Standing are the secretaries: Dr. George F. Harkins, ULCA, Dr. D. Verner Swanson, Augustana, the Rev. W. R. Garred, AELC, and the Rev. Philip A. R. Antilla, Suomi Synod.

The union of the four church bodies, a result of six years of negotiations, is the second major merger of Lutheran Churches in North America in recent years. The first, accomplished in 1960, was the merger of the former Evangelical Lutheran Church, the American Lutheran Church, and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church into the 2,242,000-member American Lutheran Church that became operative as of January 1, 1961.

A LUTHERAN SEMINARIAN, his wife and baby are "released" after a week spent in a model fallout shelter by Arnold T. Barber, deputy director of the Minneapolis, Minn. Civil Defense agency. Dick Erickson, 24-year-old senior at Luther Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn., and his family had no ill effects from their stay in the 8 by 8 foot shelter, but they "hope it never comes to this." Thousands of people at the Home Ideas exposition in the Minneapolis Armory lined up to look into the shelter through a narrow glass panel. Questions were answered via a two-way communication system by the Ericksons, who were chosen from 300 applicants.

What About Prayer?

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

I REMEMBER several years ago attending an open hearing at a meeting of the Board of Education of New York City where there was a discussion as to whether or not the Lord's Prayer should be recited in public schools.

A member of a local atheistic society stood up and ridiculed the story of Eddie Rickenbacker, a former pilot shot down in the Pacific, who together with his companions had prayed to God for help as they were starving to death, when suddenly a bird lighted on the shoulder of one of the men and they had their meal.

The atheist was so blasphemous and antagonistic that he was ushered out, much to the relief of those in attendance.

Most of us have not had such a dramatic answer to prayer. However, we would not be naive enough to deny such a remarkable occurrence. The Word of God is where we are to go to find the answer to the question of prayer.

One does not have to read far in the epistles written by Paul before realizing that here is a man who believed in prayer. It is impossible to have faith without prayer. One may think about the existence of a God but one can never be in communion with Him except through petitions directed to Him, either audibly or silently.

To be a prayerful individual means that one is dependent upon another for support. Paul was dependent upon God for his very existence. Saved from the utter blindness of Pharisaic thinking, his became a life of light and vision that had once been one of misery and enslavement. He enjoyed happiness and freedom. He felt God was so much a part of him that in what he did God was also taking part.

If one were to accost Paul and say that prayer was unreal and mere foolishness, it would simply mean being ignorant of that experiential Christianity which Paul knew. Prayer was the means by which he communicated with his best friend.

Nowhere does one find Paul using prayer as a means for self-glorification or selfish desire. He doesn't brag to God about his achievements. This great Christian of the Early Church does not demand God to fulfill his desires. That was not his concept of prayer. Paul believed that by humble self-searching and penitent submission one should come to God. "Thy will be done," is prevalent throughout his writings.

Some say, "Do as I say but not as I do." Our courageous apostle, however, was able to say, "I urge you, then, be imitators of me" (1 Cor. 4:16; 11:1; Philippians 3:17). Paul was not only a teacher by lessons, but also by example. It was with authority that he spoke, for he was speaking from the point of view of experiential practice.

Sometimes we can be guilty of asking God to do something for others that we should do, or of asking Him to have someone else do the task.

SERMON IN SILHOUETTE: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help." (Psalm 121:1) RNS Photo

"Why are you crying?" a stranger asked a little boy.

"Because I'm cold and hungry."

"Do you believe that God cares for you?"

"Oh, yes," replied the boy.

"Then why doesn't He tell someone to give you clean clothes and a good meal?"

"I suppose He has told someone, only someone has forgotten."

Hebrews 13:16 says: "Do not neglect to do good and to share what you have, for such sacrifices are pleasing to God." If we believe in prayer, we ought to share this faith with others. If we are uncertain about how to pray or what to pray for, we ought to pick up our New Testaments and begin to probe out the answers. They are there.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

Sharing Your Experience:

A REAL HOME-AWAY-FROM-HOME

By Benjamin J. Stahl

I'M A 19-YEAR-OLD SAILOR from Nebraska. In April, 1961, I was transferred from Jacksonville, Florida, to San Diego, California. For about a month, San Diego was just another city in which I had no friends, except my buddies in the Navy.

One day, I was sitting around the barracks with nothing to do when one of my buddies suggested we go to National City. When I asked him why, he pulled a picture from his wallet of the most beautiful blonde girl I had seen in some time.

"If you'll come along," he said, "I'll introduce you to her."

Naturally, I was only too glad to go with him.

The girl happened to be sick that day, but I did get to meet her father, Lee Williams, and somehow I managed to make a deal with him to refinish his car.

After numerous trips to their home, to work on their car, I became very good friends with the Williams family and was soon a regular visitor.

I might mention that their daughter, Jan, was only thirteen, so that put an end to any romantic notions I might have had.

With time, I became one of the family and came to love them all very much. I'm now Ben, their son, and they are Mom and Dad to me. Jan and her 15 year old brother, Mark, are as close as a real sister and brother could be.

Being only 19 and away from home, I run into a lot of problems. When I do, I take them to Mom and Dad Williams. With love, understanding, and advice, they try to help all they can. It's hard for me to describe how they took me into their home and hearts without anything in return but my friendship.

Now, though I am stationed in San Francisco and almost 600 miles separate us, I still go to see them almost every weekend, hitchhiking 10,000 miles so far to do this.

Once, while I was stationed in San Dieg Dad, Mom and I knelt down while Dad said a simple prayer, asking for the Lord's help to guide me. It seemed as though my heart would burst with the love I felt for them, and I cried for the first time in 5 years.

I introduced one of my buddies to them before I was transferred, and he in turn has introduced others. Mom and Dad have taken these young sailors into their home, giving them the same kind of love, advice, and understanding.

The home of Lee and Grace Williams is a true home-away-from-home, at least for a few of us very lucky servicemen.

Benjamin Stahl will be the recipient of the June $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Sit down and try to write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.
